SENATE GROUP BACKS HOOVER FINANCE PLAN

Will Report Favorably Today on Measure to Aid Credit.

HOUSE COMMITTEE HASTENS HEARINGS

Proposal for $500,000,000 Corporation May Be Voted This Week.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Congress wound up its holiday carnival yesterday and went to work in serious fashion on the $500,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Within three hours of a favorable report from the Walcott subcommittee, the Senate banking committee voted to report the measure favorably today.

An agreement will be sought for its immediate consideration, in the hope that the measure may be disposed of in both houses this week.

At the same time the House committee on banking and currency moved to hasten its own hearings by an agreement to avoid testimony on the phases of the project covered in the deliberations of the Senate subcommittee.

Way Being Cleared.

Under this program the way has been cleared for final legislative action on the $500,000,000 rehabilitation organization by tomorrow or Friday.

In both houses the Democratic and Republican leaders have given assurances against further obstruction to the nonpartisan emergency relief measure.

As reported by the Senate banking committee, the bill establishes a national credit organization with an initial capital of $500,000,000, all to be subscribed by the United States Treasury.

The function of the organization will be to advance loans to banks, insurance companies and other bona fide financial institutions in need of special accommodations to tide them over the period of depressed security prices and resultant frozen assets.

Loans for Railroads.

Steam railroads also will be eligible for loans, when their applications are approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission. But no measure of relief is provided for depositors in insolvent banks, the subcommittee having agreed to leave that special field of emergency relief for another bill.

To provide funds for its discount operations, the new corporation will be authorized to float special reconstruction bonds to the amount of three times its capital. A total of $2,000,000,000 thus will be made

Long Attacks Right Of Louisiana Court

Governor Says U. S. Senate Alone Can Decide His Office Row.

New Orleans, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The State Supreme Court was asked today to make a flat ruling, saying whether Huey P. Long is governor of Louisiana or its junior United States Senator.

Contending that he can not be both, Dr. Paul N. Cyr, the elected lieutenant governor, brought the petition before the court on an appeal from the dismissal of his ouster suit against Long in the Caddo Parish District Court several weeks ago.

Gov. Long acted as his own counsel today, and challenged the right of any court to decide the status of a member of Congress. "Only the United States Senate can pass on whether or not a person is a member of that United States Senate," he said. Long hopes to serve out his gubernatorial term, ending in May, before presenting himself in Washington. He was elected to the Senate in November, 1930, and certified his election to the Senate clerk last spring.

New Cabinet Takes Oath in Jugoslavia

Premier Zivkovitch Takes Only Day to Replace Resigned Group.

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Gen. Peter Zivkovitch, whose cabinet resigned last night, today succeeded in forming a new one which took the oath this afternoon after approval by the king.

It includes: Gen. Zivkovitch, premier; Voislav Marinkovic, foreign affairs; Albert Kramer, trade and industry; Ivan Puselj, welfare and health.

Milan Srikic, interior; Dragutin Kojic, education; Bojidar Maksimovic, justice; Stanko Sibenik, mines and forests; Lazar Radivojevic, communications; Djuradj Demetrovic, agriculture; Nikolaus Preka, public works; Gen. Dragomir Stojanovic, war and marine; Dr. Milorad Doordjevic, finance; Dragan Kraljevic, physical training.

200 Seized in Portugal In Revolutionary Plot

Lisbon, Portugal, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Two hundred persons were arrested and bombs, rifles and revolvers were seized in Oporto tonight when police conducted a series of raids on suspicion that a revolutionary movement was impending.

Twenty-eighth kilograms of dynamite were found in the cellars of the Sao Jono Theater and the manager was charged with complicity in plans for the revolt, but he disclaimed any knowledge. It was suspected that the stage hands were involved.

Gov. Costa Lobo, of Oporto, telephoned the ministry of interior here that the insurgency had been nipped in the bud. Lisbon was quiet but Gov. Gen. Daniel Sousa took steps to assure order, canceling military leaves and confining troops to barracks.

VINSON NAVAL PLAN INDORSED BY ADAMS

Pratt Also Voices Approval; Hoover Gives Instructions To Geneva Delegates.

(Associated Press.)

The White House and Capitol yesterday presented the contrast of a President giving instructions to disarmament conference delegates and a Cabinet officer urging that the Navy be built to the limit of existing treaties.

Mr. Hoover's first direct contact with the group which will represent America at the Geneva arms conference came at a White House luncheon, with the discussions continuing long after ordinary luncheons have ended.

Before the House naval committee, Secretary Adams indorsed a measure which in ten years would bring the United States to the limits defined by the London Treaty. His stand was reinforced by the frank approval of Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations.

The Chief Executive outlined his views on the conference in general terms. He stressed that the American delegation should be prepared to assist in every way efforts toward reducing armed forces, but he said, too, that America's land forces are near a minimum now.

The naval Secretary said the Vinson bill under discussion had not been approved as yet by Mr. Hoover or the budget bureau.

If the latter indorsed it, he said, "the department will be favorable to this bill" officially. The measure would provide for 70 new ships at an approximate cost of $610,000,000.

Authorization for the ships, however, would not necessarily mean they would be built. The plans might be used in the involved negotiations which would accompany further naval parleys among the great sea powers.

Those who listened to the President's ideas on how to bring about a reduction in the tremendous amount spent for men and munitions included Ambassador Dawes, chairman of the delegation; Senator Swanson, of Virginia, Norman H. Davis and Miss Mary Emma Woolley.

Hugh S. Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium, and Hugh Wilson, Minister to Switzerland, alternate delegate, are in Europe.

Secretary Stimson and J. Theodore Marriner, the delegation's chief adviser, joined in the discussions over the polished surface of the White House table.

Present prospects are that the conferences at Geneva will revolve principally about land armament.

If that is true, the American role at the conference may be largely one of cooperation in solving European problems, for the President feels the United States now has the smallest Army in the world in comparison to population.

Pessimism over the entire disarmament situation was expressed yesterday by Chairman Borah of the Senate foreign relations committee.

Speaking to a group of student advocates of disarmament, the Idaho

Turco-Italian Dispute Is Settled by Treaty

Istanbul, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—A Turco-Italian treaty, amicably ending the conflict over the islands between Castellorizo and the Anatolian coast was signed at Angora yesterday, according to an official communique issued today.

The communique said the treaty fixes the Tureo-Italian maritime boundary to the full satisfaction of both parties.

Donations Will Be Added to Million Pledged by U. S. Workers.

QUOTA IS INCREASED OVER FIGURE IN 1931

Urgent Need Is Stressed in Plans for Campaign to Start Jan. 24.

The people of Washington will be asked to contribute $1,601,000 to the Community Chest this year so that the unemployed, destitute and impoverished of the Capital can be adequately cared for in 1932, it was revealed yesterday at a meeting of the advisory committee and division chairmen of the Chest at the home of Coleman Jennings, 2221 Massachusetts avenue northwest.

This specified sum is based on the expectation that the contribution from Government employes will amount $1,000,000. Uncle Sam's workers in Washington have pledged $1,055,000, but $85,000 of this sum is to go toward helping the unfortunate in Maryland and Virginia.

Kenneth C. Vipond, aid to Commissioner Campbell, of the Civil Service Commission, in charge of Government solicitation, represented the latter at yesterday's meeting and disclosed that additional subscriptions from Government employes are coming in hourly. It is expected that a supplementary $30,000 will be donated, making the necessary $1,000,000, Mr. Vipond added.

Increase Over 1931.

The quota set for the District, means that subscriptions will have to average an increase of one-third over last year's, granting that the same number of persons—118,000—give donations, Edwin F. Colladay, general chairman, pointed out.

In the drive to obtain this money, which will begin with a meeting on Sunday afternoon January 24 at Memorial Continental Hall and continue until February 1, high pressure methods will be taboo, Mr. Colladay emphasized.

Plans For Campaign.

Every employe resident will be asked to donate only the amount that he can afford. To aid citizens in estimating the sum they should give, a table has been prepared, listing the salaries from $1,000 a year to $15,000.

The city will be thoroughly combed by the units of workers, but door-to-door canvassing will not be stressed, H. L. Rust, chairman of the Metropolitan unit, declared. "We will depend on intelligent solicitation," he said. "There will be 1,100 workers in our division, and they will be divided into three regions."

Reorganization plans of the group solicitation unit, the division that will concentrate on business, commercial and industrial establishments employing 20 persons and more, were explained by John C. Koons, who represented Lloyd B. Wilson, president of the Chesapeake & Potomac

No Presidential Ideas For Him, Garner States

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—There are no presidential bees about the office of Speaker John N. Garner. The Speaker himself is authority for the statement. In a letter to an old friend, Pat O'Keefe, of Dallas, Mr Garner said:

"There are no presidential bees buzzing around my office. My duties as Speaker of the House have kept me so busy that I have given this matter no consideration, and I can state frankly that I expect to be kept equally as busy until the House adjourns."

The inhabitants were frightened and fled into the fields, but property damage was slight.

Debuchi Expresses Regrets to Stimson Over Consul Attack

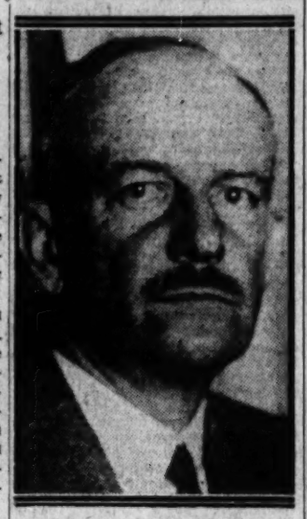
Secretary Gratified, But Incident Is Not Yet Held Closed.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Japanese Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi called at the State Department yesterday to express to Secretary Stimson "his government's most sincere regrets" at the assault on Vice Consul C. B. Chamberlain by Japanese soldiers in Mukden on Sunday night.

The British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, and the French Ambassador, Paul Claudel, also visited the State Department with regard to the preparation of a joint French-British-American statement of views to forestall the repetition of such untoward incidents in future, and to safeguard the lives and properties of their nationals throughout the affected regions in Asia.

The meeting between Secretary Stimson and the Japanese Ambassador was cordial but brief. The Secretary expressed his gratification at the prompt action of the Japanese government. The incident, however, is not regarded as closed. Pending the receipt of complete details as to just what happened to the American consular officer at the hands of the Japanese, the Secretary reserved further statements. The attitude of the American Government, however, will be expressed as soon as the entire incident has been reported here.



MAJ. GEN. FRANK R. M'COY.

In view of the great concern which the State Department attaches to the attack, the fullest possible authentic reports are being awaited before further statements are made. As soon as the Mukden versions are in the hands of the Secretary, he will invite the Japanese Ambassador to the de-

MEMBERS OF INDIAN CONGRESS ARRESTED

Bombay (Wednesday), Jan. 6 (A.P.).—The British government began a sweeping round-up of India's nationalist leaders today under extraordinary powers to meet the menace to its rule over the country.

Vithalbhai Patel, former president of the Indian legislative assembly, and others prominent in the outlawed nationalist congress, were arrested by police, who moved quickly from place to place.

The government previously had extended to four important cities and to the entire Madras presidency its repressive ordinances outlawing the all-India National Congress party, led by the jailed Mahatma Gandhi, forbidding all contributions to its funds and prohibiting demonstrations and peaceful picketing.

Among those taken into custody were K. F. Nariman and Nagindas Master, president and vice president, respectively, of the local congress executive committee. Nariman is a prominent member of the Parsee sect.

Bombay, Calcutta, New Delhi and Ajmer, Rajputana, are among the cities affected by extension of the government's stringent measures. In Calcutta alone 45 organizations were placed outside the law by the extension of the emergency ordinances.

France Says Briand's Illness Is Not Serious

Paris, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The foreign office said tonight that Aristide Briand is following a course of treatment which obliges him to keep to his apartment for several days.

The ministry denied reports that the foreign minister had suffered a stroke of paralysis, and pointed out that he was personally directing the affairs of his office. This denial came after reports had been circulated in diplomatic circles to the effect that M. Briand was suffering from weakness of the heart.

DEMOCRATS INVITE G.O.P. TARIFF VIEWS

Cabinet Members Are Asked to Appear Today at House Hearing.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Administration spokesmen will be given opportunity by the House Democrats to find whatever fault they may with the Democratic tariff proposal.

Decision was reached yesterday to invite the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of State to appear this afternoon before the ways and means committee in person and through such other officials as they might designate to discuss the merits of the Democratic propsal for tariff making by way of international conferences.

Hearings had been scheduled by the committee for yesterday afternoon. It was expected that these would be perfunctory and brief in view of the fact that the Collier bill did not propose any changes in rates and the doubt about its legislative end after it had been passed by the House.

Rallying to the battle cry sounded by Representative Bertrand H. Snell, of New York, Republican leader, others took up the criticism of the Democratic tariff program on the floor of the House yesterday and the Democratic leaders yielded without much argument to a modification of their program, still confident in their challenge to administration supporters to

Soviet and Roumania Held Arranging Pact

Bucharest, Roumania, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Michael Sturoza, Roumanian delegate, has been sent to Riga for the reputed purpose of discussing with a Russian delegate the drafting of a Soviet-Roumanian nonaggression pact.

Official circles said reports to that effect were premature, but that Roumania was interested in arriving at an agreement with the Soviet government, which directly or indirectly would guarantee their mutual frontiers and provide for the settlement of any differences by arbitration.

Metropolitan Area Pupils Flock to Essay Contest

Miss Margaret Isabell Colburn, 12, in Fifth Grade at Takoma Park School, Files Second Composition; Contribution Ineligible of Man, 40.

Juvenile Washington and environs is George Washington essay-minded, it was demonstrated yesterday in an unmistakable manner by hundreds of boys and girls, pupils in the various public, private and parochial schools eager to enter the Post Washington Essay Contest announced in Sunday's Washington Post.

The second essay to be submitted came from Miss Margaret Isabell Colburn, 12, of 6912 William street, northwest, a pupil in the fifth grade of the Takoma Park School. This was countersigned properly by her mother, Mrs. M. Colburn, and Margaret, no doubt, is the envy of her schoolmates for having gotten into the big race so early for the outstanding cash prizes offered by The Washington Post for the best essays.

An interesting entry came to The Post Essay Editor in an essay on George Washington written by Ralph B. Sadler, of 4617 Chestnut street, Bethesda, Md., 25 years ago. Unfortunately, Mr. Sadler is beyond the age limit to compete in the present contest as he confesses to 40 in his interesting letter accompanying the essay.

The Post Essay Contest Editor thanks him for his kindness in sending his essay, however, and trusts he will watch the progress of the contest with special attention because of his own previous venture in essay writing with George Washington as his inspiring topic.

Mr. Sadler writes: "This essay was written by me 25 years ago when I was 15 years of age and a pupil of Miss Sergeant, seventh grade, Harrison School, Thirtenth street northwest between V and W streets. When this was written, it was, in the opinion of my teacher, the best one and I

EUROPE BUYING UP OWN BONDS, SENATORS TOLD

BANKER'S TESTIMONY AMAZING TO JOHNSON

(United Press.)

"Impoverished" Europe is buying up its depreciated industrial securities in this country and effecting a huge saving thereby on its indebtedness, Clarence Dillon, of Dillon, Read & Co., leading international bankers, told the Senate finance committee yesterday.

American, as well as European, corporations are working the "buy back" system and effecting huge savings in their indebtedness, it was revealed.

The system, as outlined to the committee, works as follows: A corporation floats an issue of $100 bonds, borne down by what bankers call the "fear" period of today, the bond declines in market value to $20, though interest payments are continued on it. The issuing corporation, however, is liable, in the long run, for the whole $100. For each $100 bond it buys back at $20 it saves $80 on its debt.

Senators Express Surprise.

Senators expressed surprise at Mr. Dillon's statements regarding European buying, but he saw nothing strange in it.

The committee is investigating the manner and extent of the huge post-war foreign debt flotations in the United States. Mr. Dillon was reviewing the $285,000,000 in German industrial bonds his company has floated, when he remarked that corporations recently had been buying back their bonds when market prices declined.

"How recently?" asked Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, sponsor of the resolution that brought the investigation.

"Perhaps yesterday," said Mr. Dillon.

"But that is impossible," said Senator Johnson, in mock bewilderment. "There is a moratorium."

"There is no moratorium on private debts," said Mr. Dillon. "The corporations that are buying can get foreign exchange and it is profitable for them to buy."

Americans Also Buying.

Senator Johnson continued to express doubt that any one in Europe could buy anything. Mr. Dillon pointed out that the European borrowers for whom his company had floated loans were going concerns, and were paying their way. The buying, he said, was of "limited" extent and had been going on for six months. American corporations were buying up their bonds in the same way, he said.

The explanation of the apparent paradox, from the banker's viewpoint, is simple. It is the old difference between worth and market value. On its face a $100, 6 per cent bond, on which interest and sinking fund payments are being made, is ostensibly "worth" the $100. But if some one wants to sell it, and there are no takers, its "market" value may decline to a nickel. That was behind Mr. Dillon's argument. It was brought out plainly when Mr. Dillon was being questioned regarding $52,000,000 in Brazilian bonds, floated by his company, on which the Brazilian government has declared a moratorium.

"At what price were they sold to

German Ambassador Sees Laval on Debts

Paris, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Premier Laval received a call tonight from German Ambassador Von Hoesch, and they conferred lengthily on preparations for the international reparations parley at Lausanne the latter part of the month.

The visit interested diplomatic circles, in that many believed the principal purpose of Herr Von Hoesch's call was to find out whether France and Great Britain had reached an agreement prior to the conference. It was understood that the Reich will await the verdict of her creditors on the report of the Young plan advisory committee.

RASKOB SEEKS PARTY ACCORD ON RUM PLAN

WILLIAM N. ROGERS.

Harmony on Issue Held Needed to Prevent Sectional Rift.

RESULTS ARE LIKELY AT PARLEY SATURDAY

Chairman Is Confident His "Home Rule" Idea Will Be Solution.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Three days in advance of a gathering of Democratic leaders here, Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee last night sounded a stern warning to his party.

Unless the two wings of the party can find some common ground on the prohibition problem, he said, "There will be either a definite split between the Democratic party of the North and the Democratic party of the South, or there will be formed a liberal party in America."

Moreover, he warned that this common ground must be found before the next national convention of the Democratic party.

Dry Issue Takes Spotlight.

Thus, reports to the contrary notwithstanding, prohibition will be a paramount topic at the meeting of the Democratic national committee in the Mayflower Hotel Saturday.

This explosive question, which last March caused what one delegate called a "riot," has been placed squarely on the agenda by Mr. Raskob.

In the hope of avoiding another row, however, Chairman Raskob will not ask the members of the national committee to vote on the question, but will simply ask that they adopt a resolution to submit his proposed "home rule" liquor plan or "referendum," as he called it yesterday, to the next national convention without recommendation.

If a motion should be made to table such a resolution—and threats have been heard that one will be made—another internecine battle will be the result.

Raskob's Home Rule Plan.

Under the Raskob plan, Democrats in the Senate and House would be pledged to vote for a resolution submitting to the voters an amendment to the eighteenth, or prohibition, amendment, which would permit each State to decide whether it wanted to be wet or dry.

This is the same plan that Raskob outlined to the national committee at its meeting here last March. Since then he has had an additional thought in connection with it, and that is that the proposed "home rule" plan would be voted on not by State Legislatures but by special State conventions, made up of delegates elected by the people for the sole purpose of passing on the liquor question.

Chairman Raskob's warning about a party split unless the North and South wings get together on prohibition was contained in an open letter addressed to members of the national committee.

In this he made it clear that he has not changed his position on prohibition—that, if anything, he is more convinced than ever that the country has turned against prohibition.

Confident Plan Would Win.

Indeed, in a press conference late in the day, he offered to bet 2 to 1 that his home rule amendment to the Constitution, giving each State the right to be either wet or dry, would be ratified if Congress gave the people a chance to vote.

His open letter revealed the results of a recent prohibition poll among the 90,000 contributors to the 1928 campaign fund.

Chairman Raskob conceded that only one-third of those canvassed

ROGERS, DEMOCRAT, GAINS SEAT OF HALE

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—William N. Rogers, wet Democrat, today was elected to the congressional seat made vacant by the death of Representative Fletcher Hale, Republican, of the First New Hampshire District, defeating former Gov. John H. Bartlett (Republican), 27,453 to 24,505.

Rogers, the first Democrat to represent New Hampshire in Congress in ten years, also was the last Democrat to serve in the House. In 1922 he provided a political upset by being elected to the House of Representatives in the normally Republican district.

Weather conditions played an important part in today's special election. Heavy snow and severe cold in the rural Republican strongholds kept many from the polls, while Rogers piled up a commanding lead in the cities.

A tide of Democratic votes in Manchester and Somersworth swept Rogers into office. He carried Manchester, the largest city in the State, by 3,941, and piled up leads in the other cities in the district with the exception of Portsmouth, Bartlett's home.

Rochester and Laconia, normally Republican, went Democratic by small majorities, as did Dover, a political fighting ground.

(Associated Press.)

The Democrats gathered another normally Republican congressional seat into their fold yesterday in the special election in the First New Hampshire District, making four such victories within two months.

The election of Rogers over Bartlett was considered here as most significant in view of the coming presidential election and the big turnover in votes.

In addition, it attracted unusual political interest because of the prohibition question. Rogers favors repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Bartlett said he would vote for a referendum.

This was the fourth normally dry Republican district captured by anti-prohibition Democrats since October. Rogers succeeds the late Representative Fletcher Hale, dry Republican.

It brought the House membership to the full 435, giving the Democrats

Two Army Fliers Land Plane With One Wing

Edgewood Arsenal, Md., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Two Army fliers today saved their lives and part of the plane they were testing by taking a desperate chance and winning when one of the wings collapsed.

Lieut. Reuben C. Hood and Master Sergt. Bert M. Dumas were flying at an altitude of 2,000 feet when the left upper wing collapsed. Lieut. Hood threw the ship into a power dive and piloted it to the flying field at double regular landing speed, but held it even and avoided crashing.

New Hunger Army of 10,000 Expected Here Tomorrow

Huntingdon, Pa., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—"Cox's army" of unemployed, "marching" to Washington to ask relief, is resting tonight on the old fair grounds.

One of the strangest caravans that has rolled through the mountains since the day of the pioneer and his Conestoga wagon, wound round the hills into Huntingdon at dusk.

Huntingdon police estimated there were "about 900 motor vehicles, carrying something like 10,000 men."

The caravan moved out of Pittsburgh early today, stopped at Johnstown and several other points along the route.

The "marchers" increased in number as the odd procession of machines moved slowly eastward.

The Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of Old St. Patrick's Catholic Church of Pittsburgh, who says he is leading the march "to prove that it is not communistic" said tonight the project so far has been "a glorious success."

Father Cox said a large number of men were left behind in Pittsburgh because there were not sufficient motor cars to carry all who wanted to make the trip.

Huntingdon police estimated there were "about 900 motor vehicles, carrying something like 10,000 men."

Notorious Bank Robber Restores $2,800,000 Loot

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Chicago, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—A notorious bank robber and gangster restored today virtually all the $2,870,000 loot of the greatest bank robbery in history.

Agents for the Lincoln National Bank & Trust Co., of Lincoln, Nebr., were handed negotiable securities worth $583,000. Gus Winkler, the bandit absolved of any implication in the robbery, has already supplied proof of the destruction of registered bonds with a value of $2,217,000, making possible the issuance of new certificates.

The finale occurred late today in the offices of the Secret Six, where Sergt. Roy Steffens turned the recovered loot over to W. E. Barkley, a director of the bank, in the presence of County Attorney Max Towle, of Lincoln. Where they had been cached, from whom Winkler obtained them remains a secret. Thus Winkler kept his pledge.

Captured near Benton Harbor, Mich., after an accident that cost him the sight of one eye, he vowed his innocence of the Lincoln robbery, but was taken to the Nebraska capital, where already two of the bandits were in jail, now serving 25-year penitentiary terms.

Winkler said he could prove himself innocent, but he feared a Lin-

I.C.C. GETS RAIL LABOR PROTEST ON 4-ROAD IDEA

Unions Object to B. & O. Phase of Combine Proposal.

COMMISSION TODAY WILL OPEN HEARINGS

Officials of Railways Will Appear to Support Their Claims for Plan.

(Associated Press.)

Organized railway labor yesterday protested to the Interstate Commerce Commission against one phase of the proposal to unite Eastern railroads into four systems.

Four organizations filed a petition objecting to the plan to allocate the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville Railway to the Baltimore & Ohio.

The Order of Railway Conductors, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen joined in the protest.

Hearings Open Today.

It was received as the commission was preparing to open hearings today on applications to group Eastern roads into four systems centering around the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central and the Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate system. The hearings are expected to continue two weeks.

The especial concern of the brotherhoods is the employes of the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville. A number of commercial organizations, as well as the Louisville & Nashville and the Southern Railway, which now owns the road, have filed protests against allocation to the Baltimore & Ohio.

"If what has happened in the past in other consolidations is a criterion of what will happen here, if such a consolidation is effected," the petition of the brotherhoods said, "it may mean the abandonment and removal of the principal shops and repair plants of some of our terminals and this will vitally affect our interests as property owners and taxpayers."

To Support Applications.

B. S. Marshall, vice president of the Chesapeake & Ohio system, will be the first witness at the consolidation hearings. He will present all of the railroad exhibits in support of their applications.

A statement will be made on behalf of the various applicants by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, who also will make a general statement for his own road.

Other witnesses will include Patrick Crowley, former president of the New York Central, who still is with that road in an advisory capacity; J. J. Bernet, president of the Chesapeake & Ohio, and W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania.

SENATE COMMITTEE BACKS HOOVER PLAN

The bill specifically authorizes the Treasury to sustain the reconstruction bonds by open market operations should such action appear advisable.

The bonds are not to be eligible as a money base in the Federal Reserve System, but Federal Reserve Banks may carry them in their investments on the same terms as other nongovernment securities.

Treasury to Fix Rates.

Interest rates on the reconstruction bonds—which will be floated much in the fashion of the war-time Liberty loans—will be fixed by the Treasury. The bonds will be tax exempt.

Closed banks which have been audited and found solvent will be eligible for the discount privileges of the new corporation. This provision is expected to render liquid millions of dollars of sound banking assets now tied up in solvent banks struck down by panic.

It also provides an agency through which a bank may mobilize its entire investment resources against abnormal demands by its depositors. In this respect, the corporation operates as a vital adjunct to the Federal Reserve system, by rendering readily liquid vast categories of investments now excluded from the narrow rediscount privileges of the Federal Reserve.

The new corporation will be managed by a board of directors of seven members, four of whom must be selected from outside the Government service. The directorate is to be appointed by the President.

Meyer and Mills Heard.

After hearing Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, at its morning session and Undersecretary Mills of the Treasury Department in the afternoon, the House banking committee decided nothing was to be gained by covering in public hearings all the complex phases of the measure which had been so thoroughly explored in the Senate.

Hearings will be resumed at 10:30 today, but Chairman Steagall, of Alabama, indicated last night that most members were in accord with him that the ground had been pretty well covered by Mr. Meyer's and Mr. Mills' vigorous advocacy of quick action.

The House committee has no definite program of procedure for today, but there was still some doubt last night whether the bill could be reported before tomorrow.

Fear, and Plenty of It, Is Cause of the Trouble

By JOHN J. DALY

IN his special message to Congress, the President said: "We can and must replace the unjustifiable fear in this country by confidence."

Ah, the fear! That is the trouble: FEAR.

Who is afraid of What, and What is afraid of Who.

Bankers are afraid of burglars, bandits afraid of the police, international bankers afraid of the exchanges and gold standard afraid of cheap silver.

It seems to be the same in all walks of life. The rich afraid of becoming poor and the poor afraid they may get poorer.

* * * *

IN the Army, the private is afraid of the "non-coms," the sergeant afraid of the shave-tail, the lieutenant afraid of the captain, all afraid of the major, colonel afraid of the general, and the general afraid of his commander in chief. In the Navy, the swivel-chair admiral is afraid of going to sea.

The Army is afraid the Navy will get something the Army hasn't got, and both branches are afraid of the Marine Corps.

Farmers are afraid of the weather, the farmer's son afraid of his dad, the hired hand afraid of the bull.

Theaters are afraid of the movies, the talkies afraid of television, and television afraid of its shadow.

Congressmen are afraid of the voters and the voters afraid of Congress, and all hands afraid of taxes; afraid either to raise them or how to raise them when they are raised.

* * * *

LITTLE business is afraid of big business, big business afraid of no business, all busine- afraid that business is going to the bowwows; the dogs afraid of the cats, the mice afraid of the traps.

It is the grand run-around of fears which proves there should be no fear, since one fear offsets another, worry fearful of fear, and fear worrying over worry; security afraid of itself.

The drys are afraid of the wets and the wets afraid of the drys. England is afraid of Gandhi and Gandhi afraid of England. Bootleggers are afraid of their own wares.

Instead of storm cellars, as they have Out Where the West Begins, the Nation needs fear cellars, where the fearful might go and hide. Of course, if there was such a boon, in these days, mankind would be afraid even of the cellars, though they were the best cellars in the land.

What are we, as a Nation, afraid of? Fearfully we rise to ask; and the answer is, we are afraid of being afraid.

DEBUCHI EXPRESSES REGRET OVER BEATING OF CONSUL

partment to receive the expressions of the American Government.

Another important development in the Manchurian situation was the announcement from Geneva that Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy had been appointed to serve on the league council's committee of inquiry. Gen. McCoy, whose last job was the supervision of the recent Paraguayan-Bolivian imbroglio, at present is in Atlanta. He will take the place of Walker D. Hines, who was unable to accept the invitation for business reasons.

Meanwhile, the United States, France and Great Britain will consider the most expedient steps to take for the protection of their nationals in Asia. England's interest in India, the French protectorate over Indo-China and the vast American commercial interest throughout the Far East are considered to be in danger with the spread of antiforeign feeling that has been reported sweeping the Orient.

George C. Hanson, American Consul General in Harbin, has cabled a report of disorders and outbreaks between Russians and Chinese in this border town. The captain and commander of a Japanese naval vessel at Foochow, one of the free ports on the China Sea, was attacked by Chinese students there on Sunday. A British missionary school was also reported burned by incendiaries in the same city, according to a cabled dispatch from the American Vice Consul there.

Considering Joint Action.

The three great powers which have acted in concert in the Far East before are understood to be considering a joint action for the protection of their economic interests in that region, and also to remind again the Japanese government of its obligations under the nine-power treaty to respect the territorial integrity of China. With the Japanese troops alread dug in at Mukden, Tsitsihar and latterly Chinchow, any further spread of Japanese military forces on the plea of bandit chasing or any other excuses would cause considerable concern to the three powers which are cosignatories with Japan of the nine-power treaty.

The United States, in previous cases where its diplomatic or consular representatives were insulted by soldiers of a friendly nation, has received considerably more ample expressions of regret than those which have to date been preferred, by the Tokyo government. It was recalled here yesterday that in the case of the attack on American Vice Consul Robert W. Imbrie in Teheran, the Persian government made the most ample satisfaction for the attack and subsequent death of the American Consul. Of course, the death of the consular officer resulted, and the Persian government ordered three of the soldiers implicated to be put to death.

Paid All Expenses.

However, the other vice consul who was with Mr. Imbrie at the time of the attack received an indemnity of $3,000 from the Persian government for all his incidental hospital expenses. The Persian government paid an indemnity of $110,000 to the widow of Mr. Imbrie and bestowed exceptional honors when the body was brought here for burial.

In the case of an attack by a wild Fascist youth on the American vice consul at Leghorn, the Italian government voluntarily paid all his expenses; Mussolini apologized to the United States, the Italian foreign office apologized, every municipal authority in the town of Leghorn expressed regret at the incident and the State Department finally announced:

"This Government is thoroughly satisfied that the attack on the American vice consul, F. C. Gowen, was made in ignorance of his identity and official character and is gratified that the incident has been closed in such a prompt and satisfactory manner."

Headquarters at Chinchow.

Mukden, Manchuria, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The Japanese army moved today to extend its domination over all South Manchuria as far as Shanhaikwan, which is at the Great Wall and within China proper.

A brigade commanded by Gen. Yorida moved south from Chinchow, occupying stations along the British-owned Mukden-Peiping Railway, down which the Chinese made their hurried retreat when the Japanese cleared them out of Chinchow.

Under the new Japanese military plan the district west of the Liao River will be commanded by Gen. Murjo, whose division includes the brigade of Maj. Gen. Yorida. Murjo's headquarters will be at Chinchow. The district east of the Liao will be under the administration of Lieut. Gen. Tamon, conquerer of Tsitsihar and Kowpangtze, who has set up permanent quarters at Liaoyang.

Drive on Irregulars.

The realignment of troops to fit into this new administrative scheme is expected to be completed within a few days, and then the two units will settle down to a winter expected to bring many brushes with irregular Chinese troops.

A drive got under way today against irregulars in the Hsinmintun area, where at least four Japanese were killed and six wounded in two skirmishes last night. The Chinese lost from 30 to 40 men.

The two soldiers involved in the attack Sunday on Culver B. Chamberlain, American consul, were confined to baracks today, but were not imprisoned. Meanwhile, military investigation of the attack continued.

"If the Japanese are found to be culpable proper steps will be taken," a headquarters spokesman said.

Both the soldiers insisted that only the interpreter accompanying them struck Mr. Chamberlain, the spokesman declared. He explained that all patrols had orders to halt and investigate suspicious vehicles and pedestrians because of reports that Chinese plain clothes agents were active in Mukden.

U. S. Asiatic Fleet Is Kept to Routine

Unusual Movements Avoided on Account of Clash in Manchuria.

Manila, P. I. (Wednesday), Jan. 6 (U.P.).—Naval officers today said no unusual movements of the United State Navy's Asiatic fleet had been ordered because of the Manchurian conflict. The entire fleet is anchored here, except those ships that patrol Chinese waters each winter. Those in command said they did not anticipate any general movement of the fleet to China.

American ships now stationed in Chinese waters include one destroyer in each of the ports of Shanghai, Nanking, Foochow and Amoy, seven gunboats on the Yangtze River, two at Canton and one near Tientsin.

The last movement ordered was dispatch of a destroyer to Foochow in connection with the capture of Harriet Halverstadt, Methodist missionary, who was released several days ago.

Reparation Parley Goes to Lausanne

Swiss Give Permission to Use Halls for Meeting Last of Month.

Lausanne, Switzerland, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The Chateau of Ouchy, on the Shores of Lake Geneva, celebrated for its associations with Lord Byron and Jean Jacques Rousseau, will be the scene of the international reparations conference during the last half of January. The Swiss Federal Council granted formal permission today to the interested governments to hold the conference here.

The deliberations will be in the same rooms where, in 1923, a former conference of nations settled the Greco-Turk and other questions.

Already 300 negotiators and their collaborators have booked accommodations, some of the delegates numbering 70 members. Local authorities have increased the police force and improved the transportation system and hotels have announced that their prices would be "in harmony with existing economic conditions."

Woman Seeks $25,000 Alleging Fall Injuries

Bertha V. McKnew, a resident of the Woodley Apartments, yesterday brought suit against the apartment house owners for $25,000 damages because of injuries she said she received when she fell on March 26.

The T. F. Schneider Corporation was named defendant in the suit, which alleges that Miss McKnew fell down a flight of marble steps. Attorneys Welch, Daily & Welch filed the suit.

FLOOD LEAPS LEVEE, THREATENING 10,000

More Rains Add to Fears of Mississippi Fighters That Dikes Are Doomed.

Glendora, Miss., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The third crest of the three weeks' flood along the Tallahatchie River surged through the valley today, burst one major levee, threatened to sweep aside others, and brought added hardships to 10,000 sufferers.

Flood fighters at Glendora regarded the situation as out of control at nightfall and many expressed fear that destruction of principal dikes in Tallahatchie County is inevitable.

They read with grave concern a flood warning from the Weather Bureau in Washington, predicting rises of one-half a foot to a foot in the Tallahatchie and Vazoo Rivers from rains of last night and today.

With water already running over the top, Cassidy's Bayou levee at the plantation of Aubrey Falls, caved in today and sent a great stream through a 20-foot crevasse over fertile farm land between Swan Lake and Webb. Distress calls began pouring in after renewed rainfall, and Red Cross workers quickened their tasks of rescuing marooned persons and distributing supplies on hand.

Approximately 2,000 persons remained in their houses on Cassidy's Bayou plantations. They are surrounded by water and are in danger of famine and disease.

Added to these dire circumstances was the menace of a cold wave and the fear throughout the valley that levees, which had just about weathered the second crest with water running over their tops, could not stand more strain.

Parchman Prison convicts, who rested last night, were rushed out again today, particularly to the Jones Frederic plantation, just south of Glendora, to resume levee sacking.

Farmers said the continued flood would make spring planting practically impossible.

Washington Is Praised In Report on Planning

New York, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Washington, New York, Philadelphia and Cincinnati were among the cities praised today in a report by Charles H. Cheney, of Los Angeles, chairman of the committee on city and regional planning of the American Institute of Architects.

The outstanding example of gains in architectural control in 1931, he said, was that exercised in Washington by the National Commission of Fine Arts. "Few places in the country," the report said, "can show as well organized and consistent city planning progress as that of Cincinnati and surrounding Hamilton County."

Alabamans to Present Shoals Plea to Hoover

A delegation of State officials and leading agricultural, industrial and financial representatives from Alabama, arrived in Washington yesterday to present a memorial in support of the report of the Tennessee-Alabama Muscle Shoals Commission, to members of the Alabama and Tennessee delegations, the Speaker of the House, and other Congressional leaders.

The delegation will call on President Hoover this morning at 11:30 o'clock and on Secretary of War Hurley later.

Reelection of Hoover Is Predicted by Hyde

Lincoln, Nebr., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Secretary Arthur M. Hyde, of the Department of Agriculture, predicted the reelection of President Hoover next year in an interview today. "His majority may be reduced," the Secretary added.

"There is no doubt about the reelection of Herbert Hoover," he said. "Citizens are becoming more and more appreciative of his leadership. "The only constructive leadership in the world in this period of distress is that of President Hoover."

Northwest Opens Third Party Move

Progressives Organize in Washington State to Support Leaders.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—A "third party" movement was launched by a group of "progressive Republicans of Washington" here today to give "organized, effective support" to insurgent Republicans in Congress and to campaign for an independent candidate for President if Republican and Democratic nominees are unsatisfactory.

The announcement of the formation of the group was signed by H. F. Love, of Tacoma, as chairman; John E. Ballaine, of Seattle; W. W. Drake, of Yakima, and John H. Binns, of Tacoma, members of the executive committee. Nationally-known figures who Ballaine said had been consulted during organization included Senators Borah, of Idaho; La Follette, of Wisconsin, and Norris, of Nebraska.

Ballaine said the organization would send a representative to Washington, D. C., soon to cooperate with representatives from other States to "map out a course of action for the approaching presidential campaign."

Hale was elected in 1930 by a majority of 8,500.

Rogers is a former member of the House, retiring in 1924. Bartlett is a member of the International Boundary Commission and a former Assistant Postmaster General.

Both were strongly supported by their party leaders. Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, delivered speeches in the district for Rogers. Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, gave Bartlett his Republican support.

Coolidge's Aunt Dies at 88.

Plymouth, Vt., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Mrs. John Wilder, 88, maternal aunt of former President Coolidge and the last of his relatives living in this hamlet where he was born, died suddenly of heart attack today.

DAY IN CONGRESS

JANUARY 5, 1932.

SENATE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 12:45 p. m. until noon Wednesday.

Finance committee heard Clarence Dillon, of New York, testify his concern had sold a billion and a half in foreign securities in this country. Banking committee approved the reconstruction finance corporation.

Senator Nye (Republican), North Dakota, chairman of public lands committee, announced his committee would take up plans for hearings on bill transferring public lands to the States.

Senator King (Democrat) Utah, introduced a resolution asking reinstatement of canceled oil prospecting permits.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, introduced resolutions calling on employment stabilization board and several departments to report on their building plans.

Senator Shipstead, (Farmer-Labor), of Minnesota, proposed appropriation of $2,000,000 for reimbursement of landowners for materials used in fighting grasshoppers.

Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, introduced a bill providing for silver memorials to group of America's dead.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 4:50 p. m. until noon Wednesday.

Democratic members of ways and means committee decided to invite Treasury and State Department heads to appear at hearings on tariff measure.

Considered first deficiency appropriation bill.

Representative Bloom (Democrat) New York, replying to criticism of bicentennial commission, won personal victory on the floor.

Representative Sirovich (Democrat), New York, introduced a bill providing for a Federal mortgage acceptance bank.

Representative Byrns (Democrat), of Tennessee, replying to attack by Representative Treadway (Republican), Massachusetts, on proposed cost of furnishing new House Office Building, said Representative Treadway had requisitioned more than $1,700 to furnish his own one-room office.

Representative Montague (Democrat), Virginia, proposed rivers and harbors improvements rather than House Office Building remodeling and missed victory by only 11 votes.

John Barton Payne told the agriculture committee the Red Cross would be willing to act as distributor of the 40,000,000 bushels of wheat the Senate proposed to distribute for the unemployed.

CONTROL OF MOTOR LINES BY U.S. URGED

I.C.C. Examiner Says Buses and Trucks Are Part of Nation's System.

(Associated Press.)

The gist of an 8,000-word report to the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday on motor and rail transportation was that the two should work with and not against each other.

Among 50 recommendations to bring this coordination about, Examiner Leo J. Flynn urged that motor buses and trucks operating in interstate commerce should be regulated by the commission.

He said also that his two years of study of the situation has convinced him that both railroads and water transportation companies should be allowed to supplement their services with motor vehicles.

Railroads, Mr. Flynn said, should be permitted to acquire motor lines already operating, even though modification of the antitrust laws might be necessary to bring this about.

The machinery for regulation as outlined by Mr. Flynn would be State boards named by governors and regulatory bodies but the commission would have full authority to review findings and have general supervisory authority.

If the commission approves the recommendations, Congress will probably be asked to enact them.

Mr. Flynn urged that practically all motor vehicles operating in interstate commerce be required to secure Federal permits. In this connection, he mentioned contract trucks which the railroads have claimed were taking thousands of tons of freight from them each year.

Many railroads, through subsidiary companies, control bus and truck lines at present. The report said they also should be supervised by the commission.

"Congress should declare," said Mr. Flynn, "that the business of operating motor vehicles for hire in interstate commerce on the public highways is affected with public interest and is so interrelated with transportation by other agencies that it must be considered a part of the national transportation system."

War Sale to China Is Argued in Court

Planes and Ammunition Bought in U. S. Lead to Complaint.

New York, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—A suit growing out of the sale of 20 airplanes and 500,000 rounds of ammunition to the Chinese National government in 1930 was disclosed today when Supreme Court Justice Glennon ordered the plaintiff to submit to pretrial examination.

Under the order, the United Aircraft Corporation may question Gordon B. Enders about the latter's charge that the corporation owes him $45,816 in commissions for negotiating the sale. The corporation has brought a counter suit for $45,780 already paid Enders on the ground he falsely represented he was authorized by the Chinese government to collect commissions on the sale.

Enders' complaint says the airplanes were sold in April, 1930, at $4,414 each and the ammunition at the rate of $43.75 per thousand rounds.

Doak Reports Deporting Of 511 Criminal Aliens

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Doak yesterday said that 511 criminal aliens were deported from the United States during 1931.

The Secretary made public a report from Edward Corsi, commissioner of immigration at New York, who said that all of the 511 aliens had served sentences in the United States prisons for crimes involving moral turpitude. December was the peak month, with 62 such deportations.

HEARING ON PAY CUT SLATED TOMORROW

King Introduces Measure to Abolish Bureau of Efficiency.

While House and Senate cast about for means of Federal retrenchment, the pay cut bugaboo again was dragged out on the floor of the House yesterday, then consigned to the closet pending committee hearings tomorrow.

For the most part leaders in both houses were content to let Government salaries alone, as they sought to reduce the towering deficit by restricting activities of government.

Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, led the movement in this direction, with a bill to abolish the Bureau of Efficiency. He said the bureau is one of many "unnecessary" Federal agencies he will propose to discontinue.

Indorses Hoover Plan.

Even Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), Indiana, one of the first to propose Federal salary cuts, preferred to confine his remarks to proposed reorganization of bureaus, in a lengthy address on the floor. He indorsed the Hoover reorganization plan and said Congress must show "great courage," cutting expenditures everywhere.

Chairman Joseph W. Byrns, of the appropriations committee, proposed consolidation of the Army and Navy under a Department of National Defense as one way to retrench. A single Cabinet officer would replace the two now heading the War and Navy Departments, under a bill he introduced.

It was Representative John Taber (Republican), of New York, who brought up the question of pay reduction. His opinion, voiced on the floor, is known to be shared by a large block of members on both sides of the Capitol.

Would Propose Bill.

"I don't believe in cutting salaries, but it is a question that I know is in the offing," he said.

"I can see that it is coming, and I'm going to vote for it when it does. If necessary I am going to propose it."

Representative James A. Frear (Republican), Wisconsin, who led the Mapes committee drive in the House for higher District taxes, rose up in opposition to the plan to cut his own salary and that of Government employes yesterday.

"There are members of this House who would take 10 per cent from men and women who make only $1,800 a year," he said. "I don't think we should touch the wages of these clerks who are already underpaid."

Hearing Tomorrow.

The whole question of pay cuts will be thrashed out at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at a hearing of the House committee on expenditures in the executive departments.

Chairman John J. Cochran said last night that Representative Harold McGugin (Republican), Kansas, who made the most recent pay cut proposal, will be called in addition to the three other House authors of salary reduction measures whose presence already has been asked by the committee.

These include Representative Robert F. Rich (Republican), Pennsylvania; Milton C. Garber (Republican), Oklahoma, and Ashton C. Shallenberger (Republican), Nebraska. No one else will be called at the hearings, which will be open.

Representative Frederick R. Lehlbach (Republican), New Jersey, former chairman of the Civil Service committee, recently suggested that the bills may never be reported out of committee; that if the proposals reached the House at all they will probably be as amendments to an appropriation bill.

Only Part of Program.

Senator King said last night that his bill to abolish the Bureau of Efficiency was only part of his program to cut down Government personnel. He said he is in sympathy with the principle of President Hoover's reorganization proposals but "it did not go far enough."

He said he was the first to sponsor creation of the Efficiency Bureau, but charged it has never performed the functions for which it was organized, namely the organization of governmental divisions along efficient lines. Senator King declared the bureau not "competent" to report to the Senate District committee on the Mapes tax program, as suggested by Senator Arthur Capper, (Republican), Kansas.

Representative Wood, in his appeal for general restriction of expenditures, directed his attack particularly at the Shipping Board and the Federal Trade Commission.

Attacks Trade Commission.

The Trade Commission he charged with "going about over the country sticking their noses into business in an unwarranted manner." He said the commission was "a common nuisance and ought to be abolished." Attacking continuance of the Shipping Board, he charged that this is the only Government "in the transportation business."

Representative Byrns, in his plea for consolidation of the Army and Navy in one department, said:

"I do not know the attitude of the President with reference to the measure, but in view of the many public statements which have been issued from the White House urging consolidation of Government activities, I hope that it will have his support and, if so, I believe it will be enacted into law at this session of Congress."

Silver Conference Planned in Capital

Western Congress Members Will Meet Soon to Study Issue.

(Associated Press.)

Plans were laid yesterday for a conference within a week of all Western members of Congress on the silver question. Representative Evans (Democrat), Montana, said it would be held in his office.

Meanwhile, an Easterner, Chairman Somers, of the House coinage committee, proposed an inquiry into the reasons for the low price of the metal. The New Yorker said he did not think the real reason for the deflation of silver had been found, and that in consequence remedies were lacking. Representative Evans is chairman of the public lands committee. He has introduced a bill for free coinage of silver on a 16-to-1 ratio, a companion measure to that introduced in the Senate by Senator Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana.

TWO BOYS CONFESS BURNING 8 TO DEATH

Industrial School Inmates Admit Cremation for Revenge Last Spring.

Gallipolis, Ohio, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—A lurid story that a father and his seven children were burned to death by two boys as revenge was being investigated by Gallia County authorities tonight.

The victims were Ames White, 59, and his children, who met death when their log cabin home was destroyed last spring. An eighth child was the sole survivor.

Sheriff Charles Swanson, of Gallia County, and George H. Lamb, assistant superintnedent of the Boys Industrial School at Lancaster, said two inmates of the school had confessed they fired the cabin because one of them was beaten by White during a fist fight.

The boys were named as Albert Reymer, 15, and Ellsworth Mowyer, 17. While the authorities expressed doubt as to the truth of the alleged confession, Lamb said the boys' statement contained only a few minor discrepancies.

Lamb said the confession was made after Reymer and Mowyer had been questioned for several hours. In substance, the story, as given out by the sheriff and Lamb was that the boys nailed shut the doors and windows of the cabin, in the wooded hills near here, the house was fired and the victims were cremated.

Reymer, first sentenced to the school from Dayton in 1928 for automobile stealing, violated a parole in 1929 and was rearrested on a similar charge in Gallipolis last year. Mowyer, of Bucyrus, also was sentenced twice, once in 1928 and again last year, for automobile theft.

No charges were placed against the boys, pending a full check of their statements.

Lamb said he had not determined which of the boys suggested the plot, but quoted them as saying they conceived it at the same time following an altercation with White.

Questioning of Reymer and Mowyer was ordered following a story by George White, 12, the lone survivor of the fire. At first, Lamb said, the boys denied they fired the cabin, but later broke dow and confessed.

Lamb described the boys as model prisoners who had caused no trouble during their confinement.

Woman Asks $10,000 Auto-Crash Damages

A $10,000 damage suit against G. W. Forsberg, of 4907 Fourteenth street northwest, was filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday by Attorneys E. S. Stebbens and B. J. Gallagher for Rosa M. Ihrie, of 1302 Monroe street northwest.

The basis for the suit is a collision of an automobile in which Miss Ihrie was riding and Forsberg's automobile on October 18.

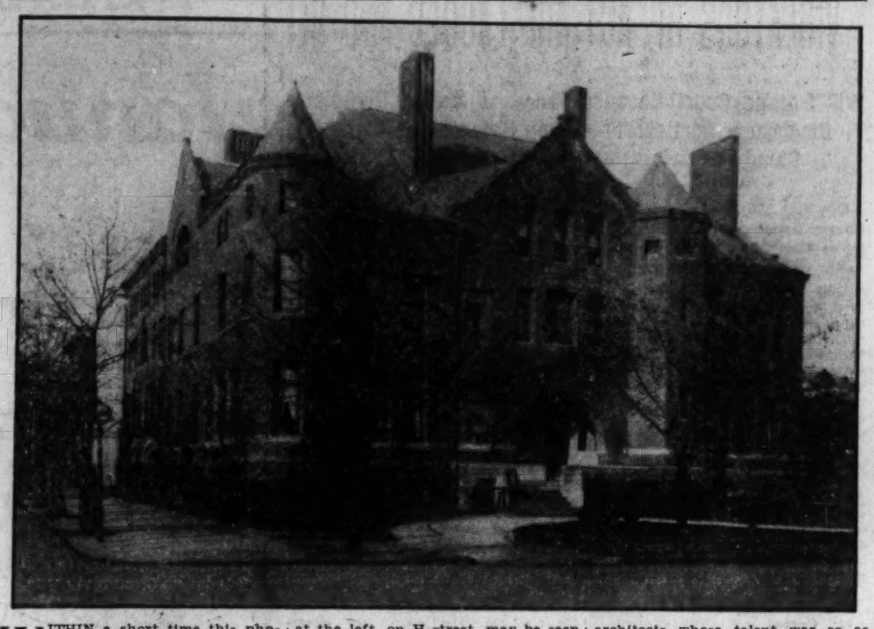
When Washington Was Younger—No. 156



WITHIN a short time this photograph, handsomely mounted, will be hung on the walls of the Hay-Adams House at Sixteenth and H streets northwest to commemorate the circumstance which led to the naming of this hostelry.

It was in June, 1899, that John Hay and his friend, Henry Adams, decided to build their homes side by side on Lafayette Square, and they employed as their architect Henry H. Richardson, foremost in his profession at the time and of the few American architects whose talent was so assured that he could borrow from the old masters of Europe without having such borrowing appear clumsy.

Washington therefore became "the home of the Hays," because of friendship for Mr. Adams. When the old homes disappeared and the hotel rose on the site, it was only natural that it should be the Hay-Adams House.

6 DEAD AND 39 SHOT AT SPANISH MEETING

4 Women and Child Among Slain as Guards Fight Celebrating Strikers.

Madrid, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Six persons were killed, including four women and one child, in a fight between shoe factory strikers and civil guards at Arnedo today, said a dispatch from Logrono.

The report of the clash stirred afresh a political situation in Madrid, arising out of the killing of four civil guards at Castilblanco in rioting last Thursday.

Details from Logrono indicated that the Arnedo clash occurred while strikers were celebrating in the public plaza a victory in their demand for reinstatement of discharged workmen after a conference with authorities at City Hall.

Civil guards attempted to disperse the crowd, the dispatch said. Suddenly a corporal fell with a wound, it added, whereupon the guards fired into the crowd. Thirty-nine persons, other than those killed, were wounded.

Socialists and republicans of the center right have criticized the government since the Castilblanco affair, causing Premier Manuel Azana to accuse them in congress today of "using the Castilblanco dead for political ends."

"All this passionate outcry," he said, "is based on efforts to unseat the government."

Lijona, Spain, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Civil guards arrived in time today to prevent a mob from lynching Curate Emilio Fayas, who fled after the establishment of the republic, but returned for the funeral of a friend.

Bilbao, Spain, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Curate Bernardo Iza, one of two clerics wounded by a youth Sunday, died of his wounds today.

Culbertson-Lenz Bridge Contest

Defender of Forcing System, With New Partner, Loses 6 of 8 Rubbers and Lead Over "Official" Team Is Reduced to 14,175 Points.

New York, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Big cards enabled Sidney S. Lenz and Commander Winfield Liggett, jr., to take 2,660 points off the lead of Ely Culberson's side in the great contract bridge match tonight.

With only thirteen rubbers left in the 150 rubber series the plus of Culbertson became 14,175. He has won 73 rubbers to 64 for Lenz.

Of eight rubbers played Culbertson and a new partner for one session—Michael Gottlieb—won only two.

Lenz made no prediction about the outcome of the match, which will end Friday night, but he felt pleased that the plus of the rubbers played by Liggett, who succeeded Oswald Jacoby, as his partner, had increased to 2,665.

Gottlieb, broker, bridge player extraordinary, took the place of Mrs. Culbertson, whose required number of rubbers were finished last night. He has wavy, black hair, a wide grin and an infectious laugh.

"Are you playing Culbertson system?" Commander Winfield Liggett partner to Lenz, asked him.

"I'm afraid so," said Gottlieb, laughing.

"You'd better be afraid," said Lenz.

Gottlieb grins until he gets a bid and then he goes into a blue study for the play. On the first hand of the session, for which he was the contractor, he laid down the last four cards.

Lenz held on to his hand.

"Whoa," he said, "where's the lead?"

"In my hand," said the new player.

"No, it isn't," said Lenz, "it's in the dummy."

"Right," said Gottlieb.

"Well, what do you play?" asked Lenz.

"A spade."

"O K!"

"Sorry," said Gottlieb. "You know how it is—new in the game and everything."

Gottlieb bid and made three no trump on the first hand, getting game. It was deal 766, the first hand of rubber 130. The Culbertson plus increased from 16,835, the figure at the start of the eighteenth session, to 16,940. The hand:

New York, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The Albanian language will be taught for the first time in an American university during next semester at Columbia University.

HIGHTOWER DENIES PART IN DEATH PLOT

Kentucky Mines' President Advances Alibi Before Crowded Courtroom.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—William H. Hightower, 77-year-old "mine boss" from the coal fields of Harlan County, took the witness stand in circuit court late today and denied charges he aided in plotting the deaths of Harlan County officers.

He entered a general denial of the commonwealth's accusations that he "aided and abetted" the killing of Deputy Sheriff James Daniels in a roadside ambuscade at Evarts last May. Deputy Sheriff Otto Lee, Howard Jones, a commissary clerk, and Carl Richmond, a miner, also were slain in the battle.

Courtroom Is Crowded.

The courtroom was crowded when former United States Senator John M. Robsion, of defense counsel, called Hightower to the witness stand. Hightower, president of the Evarts local of the United Mine Workers of America, spat out his tobacco quid. It was the first time during the trial that he had stopped chewing.

He stood with shoulders squared, facing the courtroom, as Judge Henry R Prewitt administered the oath. Hightower's 27-year-old wife sat across the room during his hour and 40 minutes on the stand. The defense planned to continue his testimony tomorrow.

The defendant, who said he could neither read nor write, but could "scribble my name a little," denied he had made incendiary or inciting speeches attributed to him by Commonwealth's witnesses.

Advances His Alibi.

He said he was born and reared in the Tennessee-Kentucky hill country and moved to Evarts, April 23, 1931. He was not elected to the presidency of the local until April 27 or 28, he testified.

In denying the "aiding and abetting" charge, Hightower said he was in Harlan, 10 or 12 miles from Evarts, on the day of the killings and that on that day he told Sheriff John H. Blair that "if the men at Evarts are carrying guns they have lost their heads."

Calmly he told of urging miners to join the union and "organize for better working conditions in the mines and have a heap better place to live."

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The Hightower murder conspiracy trial at Mount Sterling is to be recessed temporarily Thursday afternoon so Circuit Judge Henry R. Prewitt may attend oral hearings before the State Court of Appeals on his barring Knoxville News-Sentinel reporters from his court.

Motions in behalf of the Tennessee newspaper were filed in the court of appeals today and it was announced Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, would make the oral arguments. Chief Justice Richard Priest Dietzman set them for 3 o'clock Thursday.

$140,000 Estate includes Holdings in Virginia and Maryland.

Alvin O. Portner, retired lawyer and real estate operator, who died December 19 at the Portner Apartments here, left real estate in Virginia and Maryland valued at $23,114 and personal property estimated at $119,460, consisting principally of stocks and bonds, according to a petition for probate of his will filed in the District Supreme Court by Mrs Ethel O. Portner, his widow, and Louis P. Allwine, who are named as executors.

Under the will, Mrs. Portner will receive the country home on South River, near Annapolis, Md., and all jewelry, pictures, library and household furniture and equipment, including Mr. Portner's yacht.

The remainder of the estate is to be turned over to the American Security & Trust Co. and Mrs. Portner as trustees to pay the income to the widow during her lifetime, and upon her death to Barbara Portner, their daughter, until she arrives at the age of 35 years, at which time the daughter will receive the entire remaining estate. The will also provides that should Mrs. Portner survive the daughter, she will receive the entire estate.

Chemist Denies Killing Wife and Daughter, 7

Crown Point, Ind., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—A plea of not guilty was entered by William R. Gibson, jr., of Gary, industrialist chemist, when he was arraigned here today on two charges of first degree murder for the slaying of his wife and daughter.

Gibson waived preliminary hearing and was held for the grand jury, which Chief Deputy Prosecutor John Underwood said would be called this week. His wife, 35, and the daughter, Margaret, 7, were shot and fatally wounded at their Gary home early Sunday morning.

Dry Agent's Entry Hit As Prisoner Is Freed

Baltimore, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Charges of possession of liquor against Harry Altevogt were dismissed in United States court today by Judge W. Calvin Chesnut, who said it is more important that the rights of the citizens be upheld than that a chance liquor violator be punished.

The jurist ruled as illegal the method of entry used by William T Benson, prohibition agent, when the officer, by prearrangement with the police, was admitted to Altevogt's premises. The officers declared they had been sent to investigate a slot machine case.

Edge Visits Sackett in Berlin.

Berlin, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Walter E. Edge, American Ambassador at Paris, arrived today for what he said would be a few days' "purely social" visit with Ambassador Frederick M. Sackett. Despite the assurances that the visit is purely social, some observers expressed the opinion that because of Ambassador Edge's recent trip to Washington some "business" may be discussed during his stay here.

MISSOURI SLAYERS, TRAPPED, END LIVES

"Why Did They Do It?" Is Wail of Mother, Who Had Hoped for Suicide.

Houston, Tex., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Two Missouri slayers sought throughout the Southwest nearly three days and finally cornered today in a little cottage where they sought to hide, shot each other, or themselves, to death while a posse outside fired at the house and tossed tear gas bombs through the windows.

Harry and Jennings Young, brothers, members of a band which slew six peace officers near Springfield, Mo., last Saturday, heard the hammering of officers on the door of the cottage and, while the fumes of tear bombs were gathering about their heads, one of them shouted above the din:

"We are dead; come on and get us."

The watchers heard shots within the cottage.

One Dead, One Dying.

They burst in, as soon as they got gas masks for protection from the fumes, and found Jennings dead. Harry lay wounded and died about an hour later.

The coroner wrote it off as a double murder; some of the police believed it was a double suicide.

The green little cottage was chipped with bullets the officers had fired, but it was believed none of them had struck the brothers, as they stood to fire their last shots, at themselves or at each other.

Their mother, Mrs. J. D. Young, at Springfield, Mo., had said in an interview published locally that she hoped they would not surrender alive.

The bodies of the brothers—brothers in outlawry and brothers in death—will be taken overland by a Springfield undertaker back to the scene of the murder which drove the two into Texas.

Carpenter Flees Home.

J. F. Tomlinson, a mild mannered and frightened carpenter, was their undoing. When they came last night, seeking a hiding place from officers who were looking for them with heavy arms at every turn, they gave fictitious names and the carpenter rented them the room.

Later, as he read his evening paper, he saw a picture of Harry Young. It was the picture of one of his new tenants. He left the house at once with his family, but withheld his information from the police until today.

Jess Moore, farmer and petty law violator, is held as the accomplice who assisted the Young brothers in their escape from the farmhouse and flight to Texas in a car stolen in Springfield after the shooting.

Swooning as she heard the death of her sons at Houston, Mrs. Young, 66 years old, recovered to find herself facing criminal charges. She is one of six relatives placed under felony charges as an aftermath of the battle.

"Why did they do it? Why did they do it?" she wailed when told her sons had killed themselves at Houston.

Changes Previous Stand.

She was reminded she had said she hoped her boys would end their lives to escape capture.

"But they are my boys. They are my flesh and blood," she cried. The elderly mother became hysterical and finally unconscious.

Oscar Young, said by officers to have admitted giving his brothers weapons used in the massacre, and Oscar's wife were charged with accessories before the fact in the murders.

Vinita Young and Mrs. Albert Conley, sisters of the slain Young brothers, and Albert Conley were charged with receiving a stolen automobile.

A fund of more than $3,000 has been raised here for the families of the slain officers.

Among the three officers buried today was Sheriff Marcell Hendrix, who led the fatal raid. His widow, now the sheriff of Greene County, expressed satisfaction at the fate of his slayers.

End of New York Quiz Urged by Walkers's Aid

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 5 (U.P.).—Termination of the Hofstadter committee's investigation of the New York City administration was asked today in a lengthy open statement by Charles F. Kerrigan, assistant to Mayor James J. Walker.

The statement was addressed to Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies of the Assembly, and Senator George R. Fearon, Republican leader of the Upper House, on the eve of the legislative session.

The investigation, Mr. Kerrigan said, has not justified the $500,000 appropriation for the committee's work, of which, he said, $400,000 already has been expended.

Vote of Nonconfidence Given by Diet of Anhalt

Dessau, Germany, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The Diet of the Free State of Anhalt by a vote of 19 to 17 today adopted a Nationalist motion of nonconfidence in its government, which has been predominantly Social-Democratic since 1928.

The vote illustrates the swing to the right that has been noted in many other parts of the Reich for some time.

RASKOB URGES NEED OF ACCORD ON RUM

Warns Party That Harmony Is Vital to Prevent Sectional Rift.

made replies. He conceded also that there was a great deal of truth in the claim that most of the contributions came from wet States favorable to Alfred E. Smith.

Favored by Big Vote.

Nevertheless, he insisted that it was amazing to find that 91 per cent of those who answered the poll favored a congressional resolution allowing the people a chance to vote for either outright repeal or for his own home rule plan.

Even in Arkansas, he said, 78 per cent of the contributors who answered the poll were in favor of submitting the prohibition question to the people for a new vote.

This statement was regarded as significant, for it was the favorite son of Arkansas—Senator Joe T. Robinson—who hopped on Raskob at a national committee here last March and accused him of trying to place "the skull and cross-bones of an outlawed trade" on the Democratic banner.

Looms as Convention Issue.

Raskob's insistence that the Democratic party take a courageous stand on prohibition may cause a battle here Saturday; it may cause a greater battle at the national convention next summer.

At any rate, Raskob's idea, so long as he is the national chairman, is to keep hammering away at the futility of sidestepping, on the danger of the Northern and Southern wings of the party fighting each other, of the un-Democratic principle involved in refusing to let the people vote on a question.

His object, he told newspapermen yesterday, was not to cause a row, but to start a wholesome discussion of prohibition in the hope of heading off a row at the next national convention.

Conference Is Revelation.

For those who did not know the man, the press conference granted by Raskob yesterday in the lounge of the National Press Club was something of a revelation. He has been described as a neophyte in politics, and this he admits. He also has been described as shy and somewhat afraid of newspapermen. Yesterday, however, he was as poised and as confident as if he had been talking to the board of the General Motors Corporation.

Raskob was particularly anxious to dissipate the idea that he was trying to be the czar of the party, to build up an oligarchy that would further his own ends.

Accordingly he denied that he was trying to "jam" a wet plank into the Democratic platform, denied that he and Al Smith and Jouett Shouse were trying to "stop" Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt or any other candidate, and insisted that all he was doing was simply what, in his opinion, was for the good of the party.

He said he had no particular choice concerning a city for the 1932 convention. In fact, he said, he had not had a chance to discuss this question with any of the delegates.

Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee, interrupted Mr. Raskob to say that there were four cities after the convention—Chicago, which already has captured the Republican convention; Atlantic City, which was defeated by Chicago in the balloting for the Republican convention; Kansas City, scene of the last Republican convention, and San Francisco, scene of the 1920 Democratic convention.

Raskob said that he was in favor of having the Democrats abandon tradition, hold their convention first, adopt a strong, snappy platform, and ignore the Republican convention.

Raskob Wants Offense.

In the past it has been customary for the Democrats to hold their convention last, the idea being to see what the Republicans said in their platform and then to attack it in the Democratic platform. Raskob is proceeding on the theory that a strong offense would be the better policy in 1932.

C. Barney Dodds, Washington representative of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday that Isidore B. Dockweiller, Democratic national committeeman from California, is on his way here with a certified check for $150,000 which will be offered as a guarantee fund for the convention.

Kansas City had not been expected to make a bid for the convention. It was reported yesterday, however, that this Midwestern metropolis will be a serious contender for the big conclave.

The Democratic leaders will come together here Friday night for their traditional Jackson Day banquet. The orators of the evening will be three—Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis and James M. Cox, all of them erstwhile presidential nominees.

The night before this, however, there will be a "coming out" party for Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, in Baltimore. It will be given by the Concord Club, and will mark the formal entry of Ritchie into the presidential race of 1932.

At the Jackson Day banquet here the following night, Gov. Ritchie and his boosters will be very much in evidence. Howard Bruce, of Baltimore, an ardent supporter of the handsome Maryland executive, has taken over a suite of ten rooms in the Mayflower for the Free State delegation.

The meeting of the Democratic national committee will open Saturday morning in the same room at the Mayflower Hotel that was the scene of the prohibition "riot" last March.

There have been numerous reports, emanating from Roosevelt sources, that if Chairman Raskob sought to bring up the prohibition question in any way, a motion would be made to table the matter.

Looks for Consideration.

Asked about this yesterday, Chairman Raskob said, naively:

"Oh, I don't think anybody would do that. It would not be courteous."

"Well," he was told by a reporter, "Democrats have been known to be discourteous toward each other at times."

"Of course," Raskob said, "my previous report to the committee recommending a State liquor control plan will be up as the unfinished business. Undoubtedly there will be discussion, but I hope the only resolution to be offered will be one to refer the whole question to the national convention.

"I do believe that the national committee has supreme power between conventions, but I think it would be foolish to have the committee do a thing that the convention can do.

"My whole purpose in bringing up the prohibition question along with other vital issues was to get it out in the open for public discussion before the convention meets. There is no question but that it is going to be an issue in the national convention."

In his letter to the members of the Democratic national committee, Raskob said that he regarded prohibition as a social question, one that should be taken out of politics and out of the hands of politicians.

May Be Political Issue.

At the press conference later, however, he admitted that prohibition would be a political issue if the Republican party adopted a dry platform and the Democratic party a wet one.

"I believe the Democratic party should avoid inserting either a so-called wet or so-called dry plank in its platform," he said in his open letter.

The professional drys, including Antisaloon League officials, have warned members of Congress, however, that they regard any kind of a referendum as a wet measure.

Text of Chairman Raskob's Letter To Democratic National Committee

(Associated Press).

The following is the text of Chairman John J. Raskob's letter to the Democratic national committee, which was made public last night:

This letter is in the nature of a report supplementing my address at our meeting last March, in which I outlined certain suggestions for the consideration of the committee on prohibition, organization, leadership, farm relief, social welfare, the Sherman law, a five-day week and the tariff.

Prohibition seems to have been singled out of my address for discussion to the exclusion of all other subjects and my position on prohibition has been very cunningly, adroitly and consistently misrepresented by our opponents, who, of course, are interested in promoting discord in Democratic ranks with the obvious hope that it may mitigate the distress and discouragement within the Republican party.

To clear the atmosphere, let me try to state more definitely my ideas as to the position our party should take on the prohibition question in our national convention.

Prohibition Social Question.

I believe prohibition is a social question and should be taken out of politics and out of the hands of politicians.

I believe prohibition is important in its economic aspects, but that its social status must be determined before we can successfully deal with it as an economic question.

I believe the Democratic party should avoid inserting either a so-called wet or so-called dry plank in its platform. In this connection, please let me call attention to the fact that the Democratic party never indorsed or opposed the adoption of the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

I believe that in the ranks of our party there are men and women as sincerely and honestly convinced that national prohibition is good, just as there are those who believe with equal sincerity that prohibition is undermining the morals of our country and will overthrow the Government unless changed in some manner

Must Find Common Ground.

I believe there will be either a definite split between the Democratic party of the North and the Democratic party of the South or there will be formed a liberal party in America unless those of us who love the traditions of the Democratic party find some common ground under the teachings of Jefferson upon which both the wet and dry elements in our party can unite without resorting to expediencies and sacrificing the high principles of either school of thought

I believe that this common ground must be found before the convention meets in order that Democrats everywhere may have opportunity to study it carefully and understand it, thus enabling delegates to the convention to act with a greater sense of security in the adoption of a platform plank that will take prohibition out of the hands of propagandists and politicians and place it with the people for decision.

Many say prohibition will not be an issue in the 1932 campaign; that people want bread, not beer. Granting this, there still remains not the slightest doubt but that prohibition will be an issue with which the Democratic national convention must deal.

One Element Demands Repeal.

There is a strong element in our party that demands that our platform declare for straight repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Another element wants a declaration for liberalization of the Volstead law to permit light wines and beer, which, of course, would definitely commit the party to the wet or moist side of the question. There are various other plans for committing the party in varying degrees to the wet side.

I am opposed to all of these, because, as previously stated, I am opposed to any plan that in the slightest degree commits our party to the wet or dry side of this question.

I believe this a constitutional question dealing with what has been defined by some as the greatest social experiment ever tried on a large Nation of free, intelligent people. Our people have had twelve years of real, practical day-by-day experience living under social conditions imposed by prohibition. As a result, a great minority, if not an actual majority, of these people are demanding a change. It is my belief that most of these are Democrats, whose opinions must receive consideration at their party's convention.

Sought Frank Discussion.

If this be true, it would be the height of folly for us to try to avoid, instead of courageously meeting and solving this problem. One of the main purposes for calling a meeting of the national committee last March was to afford opportunity and ample time before our national convention for full, frank, open and fearless discussion of this question, and I think in this we have succeeded.

Did time permit me to recite to you the countless letters which I have received from Democrats everywhere since that meeting, I think all of you would be convinced that party success or failure depends almost entirely on finding some ground which will reconcile the wet and dry elements in our party. A mere law enforcement plank will not suffice, however deep and sincere might be that hope. Feeling runs high in both camps; hence the necessity for reconciliation of divergent opinions. It is interesting and encouraging to note that since our March meeting both the American Bar Association and the American Legion have indorsed our recommendations that the prohibition question be submitted to the people themselves for decision.

Should Consider Home Rule.

I am still firmly of the belief that our national convention should give most earnest and thoughtful consideration to the home rule plan for liquor control in writing our platform for 1932. The plank I suggest for consideration provides that the Democratic members of the United States Senate and House of Representatives will vote in favor of a proposal (which is really a referendum) which will give to the people of the United States oportunity to vote directly on the question as to whether they wish the eighteenth amendment retained in the Constitution without change or whether they wish it modified substantially as follows:

Nothing in the Constitution of the United States shall prevent any State from taking over complete control of the manufacture, transportation, importation and sale of intoxicating beverages within its own territory and exportation thereof to such other States, countries and territories as do not prohibit same, provided, however, that the plan under which that State proposes to take over such liquor control is first approved by the people of that State in a State-wide referendum.

The amendment might also provide that a State at any time may rescind its previous action, thus again submitting itself to the provisions of the eighteenth amendment.

May I again point out that this proposal cannot become part of the Constitution unless and until ratified by a majority of the people in 36 States and also that should this amennddment be adopted the eighteenth amendment will remain in full force and effect with respect to all of the States until such States as so desire work out liquor control plans of their own which must be approved by their people in a State-wide referendum before they become effective?

Guards Against Saloon.

This plan leaves all other States in the position of still having national prohibition and all the power of the Federal Government for its enforcement. It almost certainly guards against the return of the old-fashioned saloon, because a majority of the people in no State would vote in favor of a local State liquor control plan which permitted a return of the deplorable conditions which existed under the old-saloon system.

May I emphasize these facts:

This proposed plank commits the party to recognize prohibition as a constitutional and social question and places it squarely up to the people for decision in true democratic fashion.

It takes the question out of politics.

It does not advocate the home rule plan for liquor control, but merely submits to the people opportunity to vote on the question of retaining the eighteenth amendment without change or modifying the eighteenth amendment as provided in the home rule amendment.

It gives every Democratic Senator, Representative, State committee, and, in fact, every Democrat everywhere, full opportunity to work among the people of the respective States either for or against the ratification of the home rule amendment.

Non-Political and Fair.

It is in every way non-political and fair. It leaves prohibition exactly as it now is in States and communities where the people believe that social conditions are improved by prohibition and gives to the people of other States and communities, with problems of congestion, large foreign populations and other differing social conditions, opportunity to solve their liquor problem along such lines as these conditions best indicate.

The proposed home rule amendment can not become a part of the Constitution of the United States unless ratified by a majority of the people in three-fourths of the States.

Can any method of dealing with this question be suggested that is fairer, more democratic, more open, frank and sincere than this proposal?

In an effort to secure as much information as possible on prohibition and other questions, a keyed questionnaire was mailed to every individual contributor to the Democratic national campaign fund in 1928. The results tabulated by States are inclosed herewith, for your careful study. Each member, of course, will reach his or her own conclusion as to what the results indicate.

Mostly From Wet States.

Some claim the poll necessarily shows a preponderant wet sentiment because the bulk of the contributions came from the wet States which supported a candidate pledged to a change in our prohibition laws. There undoubtedly is a great deal of truth in this claim, but could anyone have predicted:

First—That 93 out of every 100 contributors favor a short, concise platform declaring the party's determination to restore our liberties and the spirit of the Constitution through recognizing State's rights, home rule, the need of decentralization at Washington and the cutting of riotous national expenditures with consequent relief from excessive taxation.

Second—That 93 out of every 100 contributors favor submitting the prohibition question to the people of the United States for decision.

Third—That 95 out of every 100 contributors favor having all future amendments ratified by the people instead of by the Legislatures of the various States.

Fourth—That 80 out of every 100 contributors favor a congressional resolution giving the people opportunity to vote on the home rule amendment to the Constitution proposed herein.

Many Seek Straight Repeal.

Fifth—That 79 out of every 100 contributors favor a congressional resolution giving the people opportunity to vote on a straight repeal amendment.

Sixth—That 91 out of every 100 contributors favor a congressional resolution giving the people opportunity to vote on either the home rule or straight repeal amendment.

Seventh—And that only 22 out of every 100 believe that other economic issues will be so overwhelming in 1932 that the Democratic platform can successfully ignore the prohibition question with its economic problems by remaining silent or by adopting a mere law enforcement plank, as was done in the 1928 convention.

Please note carefully that all these data deal with numbers of contributors—not dollars contributed.

It is interesting to note that 96 per cent of our 1928 contributions were received in gifts ranging from $1 to $100.

Arkansas is recognized as one of the driest States in the Union. Because one of her sons, the Hon. Joe T. Robinson, was the party's nominee for Vice President, there were received from that State over three times as many contributions per 100,000 voters as were received from the great State of New York. These contributors certainly must fairly represent the party in Arkansas, with a presumable leaning to the dry side. It is interesting to note with what discriminating intelligence these people voted.

Favors Vote by People.

The poll shows:

That 87 out of every 100 contributors in Arkansas voted to indorse a short platform.

That 78 out of every 100 favor submitting the prohibition question to the people for decision.

That 87 out of every 100 believe all future amendments should be ratified by the people and not by the Legislatures of the various States.

That 75 out of every 100 favor submitting either the home rule or straight repeal amendment to the people.

And that while 69 out of every 100 are in favor of submitting the home-rule amendment to the people for decision, there are only 27 out of every 100 who favor submitting a straight repeal amendment to the people for decision.

That 56 out of every 100 believe the Democratic convention can not ignore the prohibition question.

Mississippi, too, by reason of the activities of its representatives in national headquarters in New York during the 1928 campaign, numbers over three times as many contributors per 100,000 voters as does New York.

Result in Mississippi.

That State's poll shows:

That 91 out of every 100 favor a short platform;

That 81 out of every 100 believe the prohibition question should be submitted to the people for decision;

That 84 out of every 100 believe that all future amendments should be ratified by the people instead of by the Legislatures of the States;

That 71 out of every 100 believe that the home rule amendment should be submitted to the people;

That 78 out of every 100 favor submitting either the home rule or straight repeal amendment to the people;

That 62 out of every 100 believe that our platform can not successfully ignore the prohibition question in 1932.

Louisiana, another Southern State, shows 1,371 contributors for every 100,000 voters—more than one and a half times the number of New York contributors. The Louisiana results show:

That 92 out of every 100 favor a short platform;

That 89 out of every 100 believe the prohibition question should be submitted to the people for decision;

That 94 out of every 100 believe that all future amendments should be ratified by the people instead of by the Legislatures of the States;

Home Rule Wins Support.

That 97 out of every 100 believe that the home-rule amendment should be submitted to the people;

That 90 out of every 100 believe that either the home-rule or straight repeal amendment should be submitted to the people;

And that only 17 out of every 100 believe that our platform can successfully ignore the prohibition question in 1932.

Strangely enough, there are just four Southern States and just four Northern States that furnished over 800 contributors per 100,000 voters in 1928. A tabulation of votes from these contributors shows as follows:

Percentage of Votes Favoring.

	A Short Platform. Per Cent.	Having Prohibition Submitted to the People. Per Cent.	Having Future Amendments Ratified by the People. Per Cent.
Arkansas	87	78	87
Louisiana	92	89	94
Mississippi	91	81	84
Texas	91	89	93
Vermont	96	99	97
Massachusetts	94	99	98
New York	95	99	98
Rhode Island	94	91	99

Any poll or straw vote is necessarily limited in its scope and can not conclusively prove much.

The result of this poll, however, does show conclusively the opinion of those Democrats who contributed about $4,000,000 to conduct a campaign in which the party polled 15,016,443 votes, as against its previous high of 9,147,353 votes, a gain of 64 per cent.

Sentiment of Vast Number.

Admitting for the sake of argument that this poll errs in not fully expressing the dry sentiment in the party, no one can gainsay the fact that it does represent the sentiment of a vast number of both wets and drys in our ranks—loyal Democrats who supplied the party with large amounts of money in 1928—contributing the sinews of war necessary to conduct a campaign.

These good Democrats can not be ignored—they should be respected, the dry element as well as the wet element. In what manner can this be done?

I said at our March meeting and I would like to repeat that—

"To me it seems impossible to call ourselves Democrats and lovers of liberty and be unwilling to extend to the people of these United States the opportunity to vote on this proposed new amendment and to abide by the decision if a majority of the people in 36 of our 48 States should vote in favor of it. We can not honestly and conscientiously call ourselves a Democratic party or a liberal party in one breath and deny the people this right in the next."

In closing let me suggest that our convention give serious consideration to pledging our party to the position that all future amendments to the Federal Constitution must be ratified by the people instead of by the Legislatures of the respective States as has been the custom in the past. Very truly yours. JOHN J. RASKOB, Chairman.

DEMOCRATS HELD VIOLATORS OF ACT

Will Escape Court Because Disclosure in Report Came Too Late.

New York, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The Democratic national committee, United States Attorney George Z. Medalie said today, violated the corrupt practices act in filing its annual report for 1928, but will escape prosecution because the disclosure came too late.

The report was filed January 3, 1929, by James W. Gerard, Democratic national committee treasurer, and it was not until January 2 this year that Jacob J. Rosenblum, assistant United States attorney, confirmed reports of improper returns. The three-year statute of limitations, therefore, will prevent action, Mr. Medalie said.

The Federal attorney added that reports the committee filed after January 3, 1929, so far as has been ascertained, conform to the law in every detail. He blamed the error in the criticized report on the accountants who prepared it for Mr. Gerard.

Employed Same Firm.

Mr. Gerard said he had employed the same firm of accountants to prepare the 1928 report as had drawn up similar campaign reports for the Republican national committee in 1924.

"It seems to be a very dangerous thing for a Democrat to follow a Republican," he commented. "Fortunately I kept all of my records, canceled checks and everything, although I was authorized by law to destroy them at the end of two years."

"The violation of the law," Mr. Medalie said, "consisted in the failure to enumerate the items of disbursement in excess of $10 each by giving the name, address, amount and purpose in each instance.

"The failure to file a report that contains them is a violation of the law. The filing of a report that omits such details is a violation of the law.

Too Late for Action.

"Information to the effect that the law had been violated appeared in the newspapers on December 31, too late to convene the grand jury which was then in recess and too late to subpena the records in Washington."

Mr. Medalie detailed Mr. Rosenblum to study the 1928 report as the result of charges made by Representative Will A. Wood in Washington last week. Mr. Wood charged that the Democratic national committee had violated the corrupt practices act and Mr. Medalie at the time said if Mr. Wood was correctly quoted, "the law had been violated."

The Federal attorney said Mr. Rosenblum would return to Washington to study reports of both Democratic and Republican national committees beginning with the end of March, 1929. He also will study any other reports which may fall under the provisions of the corrupt practices act. He pointed out that the statute of limitations had not run against quarterly and annual reports made since the January 3, 1929, report.

Life Term for Wife In Killing Is Affirmed

Philadelphia, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The Pennsylvania Supreme Court today granted a new trial to Harold Williams, convicted of murder in the first degree with the death penalty for the killing of William F. Prophet, his brother-in-law.

At the same time the conviction with life imprisonment of Williams' sister, Mrs. Clare Grace Prophet, for her part in the slaying of her husband was affirmed by the higher court. Prophet was beaten and shot to death by Williams. His wife, it was testified in court, was present during the killing.

Pilgrim Band Will Pay Tribute to Roosevelt

Oyster Bay, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Three bright new American flags flew today on a hilltop which a band of pilgrims will climb tomorrow to pay tribute to the memory of the late Theodore Roosevelt.

The flags, renewed periodically by war veterans who revere the late President's memory, fly over a grave on which the only description is: "Theodore Roosevelt. Born October 27, 1858. Died January 6, 1919."

RASKOB RUM VIEWS ARE LAUDED AND HIT

(Associated Press.)

Newspapers throughout the Nation commented editorially on the report of Chairman John J. Raskob to the Democratic national committee. Among the views expressed were:

New York Herald Tribune—"As we have said many times, it (prohibition) is and will remain a political question, bedeviling all other questions, until liquor control is returned to the States; but it is not and should not be made a partisan subject. * * * We believe the Republican party should adopt a plank favoring this kind (for retention or repeal of the eighteenth amendment) of a referendum. It would commit the party neither to the wet nor to the dry cause, but would put it in the position of adopting democratic methods for the settlement of problems."

St. Paul Pioneer Press—"Mr. Raskob is trying to find that formula for his party which will identify it in the next election as the champion of the wet cause, but which at the same time will not go so far that party lines will break in the dry South again as they did in 1928."

Both Parties Should Act.

New York Times—Describing the machinery for Mr. Raskob's "home rule" plan as "new and interesting," the Times expressed hope that some such proposal will be adopted by both party conventions. "If the Democratic convention alone should adopt Mr. Raskob's plan," it added, "it still might win a two-thirds vote in Congress should the Democratic national candidates be elected in 1932 by large majorities."

Philadelphia Record—"Neither fanatical wets nor fanatical drys will be pleased by the new Raskob proposals on prohibition. * * * The plan is logical. Too much logic, indeed, may be its weakness. Every believer in Democratic processes will indorse the referendum as the only true barometer of public opinion."

Kansas City Star—"Straw votes so often are deceptive. Chairman Raskob may find the delegates to the national convention in far less agreement on his referendum proposal than the contributors to the campaign fund."

Not Responsive to Needs.

Enid (Okla.) Morning News—"The Raskob statement is not representative of democracy. Economic problems now are most important. The Democratic contributors are not the Democratic party. The statement proves the party leadership is not responsive to the real needs of the people."

Boise (Idaho) Statesman—"The statement Raskob made in his letter calling the meeting of the committee demonstrates quite plainly that though he still is soaking wet, he is a politician clever enough to recognize that the situation demands some kind of compromise acceptable to the South and it would seem that he is paving the way toward making that compromise, and if it is not a compromise which he seeks, at least he is smart enough to realize that it is good politics to keep the dry South's feathers unruffled as long as possible."

May Invite Definite Split.

Philadelphia Public Ledger—"Apparently Mr. Raskob is seeking to placate the dry members of his party. But if history repeats itself, he will succeed only in arousing their opposition anew, inviting the 'definite split' between Northern and Southern elements of the Democratic party to which he refers in his letter with such evident foreboding."

Baltimore Sun—"Of course in practice what it does is to give the wets a way to back into victory instead of marching into victory—which may be more pleasing to the drys. Meanwhile Mr. Raskob arranges things so that the Democratic party is not wet nor is it dry."

Rains in Germany Damage Fort.

Ehrenbreitstein, Germany, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Heavy rains loosened tons of rock from the base of the ancient fortress here, which was occupied by American troops after the World War, and today huge boulders crashed down the steep slopes through the vineyards, blocking traffic on the highway below.

FIVE PLEAS TO HALT COUNTY CRIME FILED

Prince Georges Board Gets Protests Against Police, Gaming and Dancing.

A petition, the 150 signers of which asked the Prince Georges County Commissioners to close an alleged gambling house on the Bladensburg road just over the District line, was among the five communications affecting the county vice situation offered to the board of commissioners yesterday.

The signers of this petition included three ministers, the mayor, three town councilmen and the town clerk of Mount Rainier, and the mayor, a councilman and the town clerk of Brentwood. It was circulated by the Mount Rainier-Brentwood Women's Christian Temperance Union after rumors that the alleged gambling house would reopen. Its former operator recently started a jail sentence for violation of income tax laws.

Presented by Woman.

The petition was submitted by Mrs. Lucy M. Bon Durant, president of the W. C. T. U. It set forth the allegations that the house had been in operation and cited the former operator's admission that it had been used for gambling. The commissioners were asked to keep the place closed by refusing it a license, or by any other means they saw fit.

Edwin C. Bolte, of Riverdale, presented a resolution passed at a recent mass meeting in Hyattsville, asking an investigation of the county police force by a committee appointed by the commissioners. Allegations of irregular actions among policemen were made. No action was taken on this request.

Homer J. Dodge, who identified himself as being the administrator of an estate in Cedar Heights, also complained of lawlessness in the county, in a letter to the board. He also cited the case of a man, whose name he gave as Ellis Holmes, of Cedar Heights, who, he said, was driven from the community by a campaign of "errorism and robbery."

In this case, Mr. Dodge said, the constable had warrants against the malefactors, but the county had no money to hire deputies to serve them. Holmes, in leaving the community, also lost his equity in property he was buying there, Mr. Dodge said.

Failed to Name Address.

Mrs. E. Norton, who gave no address, wrote asking the commissioners to break up an alleged gambling place, the location of which she did not give. The commissioners declared they were helpless in this case, as they did not know the place to which she referred.

An anonymous letter, signed "Taxpayer," also was received, but was not considered. It asked that the commissioners refuse a license for a dance hall at Sunnybrook, near Oxon Hill, declaring it was "worse than that place at Bladensburg."

Whether this correspondent meant the Colonial Tea House, where a recent white-slave shooting claimed one victim, or the alleged gambling house, was not stated.

Woman Lecturer Dies In Plunge of 19 Stories

Philadelphia, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Miss Frieda M. Burkel, 37, a graduate of Smith College and lecturer for the Carl Schurz Foundation, fell or jumped to her death last night from the nineteenth floor of the Lewis Tower, Fifteenth and Locust streets. Wilbur Thomas, local head of the foundation, said today Miss Burkel had been in ill health and had said to him a month ago that she was "despondent."

The Carl Schurz Foundation was founded to promote friendship between Germany and the United States. Police said Miss Burkel came here yesterday from Washington and was to have left today on a lecture tour through the South.

Farmer Is Found Dead After Shooting Trooper

Pennsburg, Pa., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—State Trooper Harry Christ was seriously wounded today as he and another officer attempted to arrest Samuel B. Myers, 58, a farmer, on a charge of assault and battery preferred by his son, Ray, 27.

Myers later was found dead in the barn in back of his home with a shotgun wound in the head. He apparently had committed suicide. Trooper Greenwood, who accompanied Christ, said he had fired through the window as he dragged Christ from the house, but he did not know whether any of his shots had taken effect. The son told police his father attacked him following an argument over some clothes Ray's baby was wearing.

Dealer Is Sentenced As "Fence" for Books

New York, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—A police drive against a ring which stole thousands of dollars worth of rare books from libraries here and in New England resulted today in the sentencing of Charles Romm, rare book expert, to a penitentiary term not to exceed three years. He pleaded guilty to second degree grand larceny.

His plea specifically related to "fragment of a journal of a sentimental philosopher" valued at $400 and stolen from Harvard University library, March 1, 1929. A probation officer's report said Romm and several book dealers here acted as fences for $40,000 worth of books stolen from Harvard, Columbia, New York Public Library and other institutions.

Charles G. Dawes, Ambassador to Great Britain and head of the American delegation to the Geneva arms conference (left), pauses with Norman H. RED CROSS OFFERS TO DISBURSE WHEAT

Payne Says Organization Will Distribute Proposed Gift by Farm Board.

(Associated Press).

The Red Cross is willing to be the intermediary between 40,000,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat and the mouths of the hungry.

John Barton Payne, national chairman of the organization, told a House committee yesterday in straightforward fashion that it would distribute the grain if Congress gave it that responsibility.

A year ago, he said bluntly, that the Red Cross did not want $25,000,000 which the Senate had voted it for general relief.

A reminder of that preceded him on the stand yesterday before the House agricultural committee but he said he would refer critics to the drought stricken states which the Red Cross aided.

Plan Approved by Senate.

The Senate has already passed the bill to take 40,000,000 bushels from the elevators of the Farm Board, with the Red Cross or some other charitable organization to see that it gets to the tables of the needy.

During the debate, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, who criticised the Red Cross and the administration for their attitude toward relief last year, commented that the wheat gift was just as much a "dole" as Federal appropriations for the unemployed which President Hoover opposes.

The Chief Executive's attitude toward the proposal to give the Government grain has not be revealed.

One House member who is a believer in Government appropriations for those out of work was on the Senate side while Payne testified.

Says Federal Funds Needed.

He was Represen tive Huddleston (Democrat), Alabama, and he reinforced other testimony before a Senate manufacturers subcommittee that Federal funds are badly needed for relief.

Huddleston, who represents the Birmingham district, estimated that 25,000 wage earners were lacking jobs in that industrial center.

"This talk that no one has starved and no one will starve is the rankest nonsense," he said. "People are starving."

The two members of the committee who listened, Senators La Follette, of Wisconsin, and Costigan, of Colorado, have introduced bills to take millions from the Treasury for direct relief.

Payne suggested that the wheat bill be amended to provide that the by-products pay for the cost of processing the wheat. He estimated that the cost of milling and cleaning would be approximately $5,000,000 for the 40,000,000 bushels.

Reminded of 1931 Stand.

Just before Payne began his testimony, Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, reminded him that the Red Cross had said it did not want Federal funds last year. He said that attitude of the organization was a "great disappointment."

"If any gentleman here happens to reside in one of the drought States," Payne commented, "I only refer to them for a complete answer to what the gentleman said."

VINSON NAVAL PLAN INDORSED BY ADAMS

senator said the omens for limiting armies and navies were not good. He termed proposals for building up America's Navy "incredible."

He did not, however, refer specifically to the Vinson bill which Pratt styled the sanest ever presented.

Representative McClintic (Democrat), Oklahoma, won a promise from committee members to see whether there are any serious defects in the world's largest airship, the Navy's new Akron. Navy officials have praised the ship.

The delegates entered the discussion at the White House, knowing Mr. Hoover is definitely opposed to the suggestion that armament be limited by the amount of money spent and not by direct cuts in men and supplies.

The Government feels the United States would be at a disadvantage under this plan because of the greater comparative cost to this country of maintaining an Army and Navy.

Oil Man's $60,000 Fine Is Hit in Court

(Associated Press.)

With Henry M. Blackmer across the ocean, his counsel argued yesterday in the Supreme Court that the lower courts were wrong in fining him $60,000 for failure to appear as a witness in the oil scandal trials.

Blackmer, a wealthy Colorado oil man, was wanted during the trials of Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, and Harry F. Sinclair, oil man. He was in France and has not come back. Karl C. Schuyler, his lawyer, contended the Walsh act, under which his client had been subpenaed to appear as a witness, was invalid because it attempted to give the Federal courts jurisdiction outside the territory of the United States.

TRIES TO BUY VOTES TOLD IN HEFLIN QUIZ

100 Witnesses Charge That Money to Purchase Ballots Flowed Freely.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Charges that money was freely offered for votes in the 1930 general election in Alabama were added to numerous allegations of ballot tampering and disorder at polling places by witnesses testifying today at a hearing in former Senator J. Thomas Heflin's contest of the election of his successor, Senator John H. Bankhead.

The testimony was presented by about 100 of the 300 witnesses summoned to appear before A. W. Brazelton, commissioner for a Senate subcommittee that is investigating Heflin's charge that the election was "framed."

Dan Davis, of Shelby County, testified a neighbor, Fayette Wray, an active precinct worker, offered him $7 for his vote and $1 for transportation if he would vote a Democratic ticket in favor of Bankhead.

Other Buying Trys Claimed.

Davis said Wray patted his trousers pocket and told him he had $1,000 more with which to buy votes.

Another Shelby County resident, Willie Wood, testified an effort was made by Elbert Walton, Democratic worker, to buy his vote. He said he told Walton he had not paid his poll tox, and Walton replied, "that's O. K., vote anyway."

R. L. Cardwell testified that he was approached by a Shelby County deputy sheriff who promised "there would be nothing more" to a prohibition case pending against him if he marked his ballot "under the rooster."

"I told him I wanted to vote for Heflin, and I did," Cardwell said. "The prohibition case is still pending against me."

Tells of "Squabbling."

Other Shelby County witnesses testified that offers from $1 to $5 were made for their votes.

O. W. Brown, a precinct election manager at Cordova, Walker County, said "squabbling was going on all day" at the box where he officiated.

Horace C. Wilkinson, attorney representing Heflin, ordered copies of the Birmingham Age-Herald and the News, carrying accounts of the first day's hearing, attached to the record to show how "discourteously" its representative, Harrison W. Smith of Washington, had been treated by the papers. He termed them "Bankhead organs."

Fund Lack Halts U. S. Building Plan

(Associated Press.)

The sixth installment of the Government's $700,000,000 building program which was to have been sent to Congress this month will be held up because of lack of funds to pay for it.

The program, started before the war and dropped until after hostilities, is designed to provide new postoffices throughout the Nation. Already $42,411,569 of buildings have been completed and more than $232,000,000 more are under contract.

The sixth installment which would have gone to Congress for appropriatiox this year would have been chosen from allocations previously made and submitted to Congress last February.

The allocations included proposed buildings in all States of the Union and the towns would have been selected according to the urgency of the projects for the separate localities.

The Treasury said there was nothing it could do and that the Budget Bureau held that the lack of funds made it inopportune to send up another installment.

Minnesota's Act Challenged.

(Associated Press.)

The validity of Minnesota's reapportionment act was attacked yesterday in a petition filed in the Supreme Court by W. Yale Smiley. The act was vetoed by Gov. Floyd B. Olson, but was sustained by the Minnesota Supreme Court.

$2,800,000 IN BONDS RESTORED BY BANDIT

coln jury. He claimed he feared "railroading" to prison. His friends dug up $100,000 bond. Winkler came to Chicago, and, through his attorneys, promised to recover the stolen bonds if Nebraska dropped his prosecution. He wanted to be "washed up."

He had an alibi. While the band of machine gunners were surrounding the Lincoln Bank on September 17, 1930, and shrieking their way out of town with the sirens of their automobile clearing a path, Winkler said he was in Buffalo, N. Y. The officers checked his story and found it true. The robbery indictment was dismissed.

Today W. E. Barkley, director of the Lincoln Bank, went to the office of R. C. Saunders, chief of the protective department of the Illinois Bankers Association, for the final scene of the drama. Another denouement, loss of the bonds forever, might have had serious effects upon the Lincoln Bank and its seven affiliates.

Saunders said the recovery reduces the tremendous loss to a mere $10,000 or $15,000, and even this may be trimmed by eventual restoration of stolen securities which have been traced and are being sought through attachment proceedings against the present holders.

The bank collected about $60,000 in insurance after the robbery. Intermittent jets of drama flared up during the sixteen months since the raid on the bank, throwing bold light on the quiet, determined investigation by corps of detectives.

For months the agents of the Illinois Bankers Association under Saunders, the "Secret Six" of Chicago, the Nebraska Bankers Association, State police of Illinois and Michigan and peace officers of Lancaster County and Nebraska pooled their resources to trail the robbers and recover the loot.

The fortune in stolen bonds was returned to authorities in a cheap suit case left on a street corner early Monday morning, Sergt. Roy Steffens of the "secret six" said today.

ALLEGED KILLER OF 4 GETS VENUE CHANGE

Yuel Lee Will Face Baltimore County Jury in Murder of Davis Family.

Salisbury, Md., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The trial of Yuel Lee, alias Orphan Jones, Negro, alleged slayer of a Worcester County farm family of four, today was removed to Baltimore County, on the western side of Chesapeake Bay.

Judges of the First Maryland circuit in which the murder of Green K. Davis, his wife and two daughters was committed, granted the change of venue after the case previously had been sent to Cambridge in adjoining Dorchester County.

Today's action followed refusal of the court of appeals to move the trial to the western shore on the ground it did not have jurisdiction. In its opinion, the State's highest court expressed the belief a fair jury and trial could not be obtained in the vicinity of the crime.

Lee three times was the object of mob search. The Worcester County Jail was once ransacked by a mob committee, a few minutes after the Negro had been rushed to the Baltimore City Jail for safe keeping. He has been held there since.

Writer Sues Producers Of Film "Hell's Angels"

New York, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Suit for an injunction against the producers and distributors of the motion picture, "Hell's Angels," and for an accounting was filed in Federal Court today by Richard Barry, of Mamaroneck. The complaint names as defendants Howard Hughes, United Artists Corporation, United Artists Theatre Circuit Co., Caddo Co., Inc., Marshal A. Neilan and Joseph Moncure Marsh.

EXPEDITING RELIEF.

In response to President Hoover's request, legislative machinery was accelerated to double time yesterday, with indications that the reconstruction corporation bill will be on the statute books within a few days. During the afternoon the measure was reported out favorably by the Senate subcommittee which had conducted extensive hearings, and before night it had the approval of the full committee and was reported to the Senate. Hearings were begun by the House banking committee, with indications that no time will be lost in getting the measure to the floor.

This sudden manifestation of energy in Congress is most encouraging. Politics has been laid aside while this urgent measure for the stabilization of American credit is pushed ahead. President Hoover advanced his suggestion in a nonpartisan mood, and it has been so accepted by Congress. When the people observe that the two parties are cooperating on this project to buttress American institutions they will be inspired with confidence. With all America pulling together the depression can be ended.

When the Senate meets today Senator Walcott will ask for unanimous consent for immediate consideration of the reconstruction bill. If the Senate can pass this measure without indulging in politics or tedious debate the forces of depression will be checked. When business and banking institutions realize that the financial structure is to be fortified by $2,000,000,000 in Federal credit they will immediately take heart. With the resources of the Government behind them banks and railroads will have reason to face the future with assurance.

The reconstruction corporation is only one feature of President Hoover's program to relieve distress within the United States. Immediate benefits that are expected to accrue from this measure will doubtless encourage Congress to complete enactment of the other relief bills with dispatch and nonpartisan devotion to the country's needs.

The country will then be prepared to stand any shocks that may come from Europe. The people have lost patience with every movement to use American resources for the rehabilitation of foreign countries while domestic institutions are in distress. Congress can inspire the people with a determination to conquer the depression within the United States. By immediate disposal of the rehabilitation measures Congress can help the people to help themselves, and thus start the ball of prosperity rolling.

A DESERVED TESTIMONIAL.

The House of Representatives yesterday paid a tribute to the highly commendable and patriotic work of Representative Sol Bloom in connection with the national George Washington bicentennial. It was a demonstration of confidence and appreciation as well deserved as it was unusual. When the consideration of the item providing operating funds for the bicentennial commission was reached in the emergency appropriation bill, Associate Director Bloom took the floor to defend and explain the work at his national headquarters. This he did so effectively that three times his time was extended by unanimous consent.

The Nation-wide character of the George Washington celebrations this year has required an unprecedented campaign of publicity in assisting communities to formulate their programs. No world's fair or national political campaign has undertaken so extensive a distribution of educational and helpful material as the literature that is being sent out in this patriotic movement to honor Washington. At the conclusion of the hearing on the bicentennial commission appropriation Representative Bloom was heartily applauded by both sides of the House.

FEDERAL WAGE SLASHING.

The movement to cut Federal salaries has no place in the national reconstruction program sponsored by President Hoover. The two movements are wholly incompatible, and it is difficult to see how Congress could enact the rehabilitation measures and then vote to reduce Government salaries. On the one hand, Congress is asked to arrest the forces of disintegration, and on the other, to give impetus to those forces.

No excuse can be offered for the drive against Government employes, except the false claim of economy. But it is not economy. It is estimated that not more than 1¼ per cent of the Government's total expenses could be saved through the proposed lower salary schedules. The deficit is not a result of excessive salaries. On the contrary, hundreds of Government officials are brought into the Federal service only through an appeal to their patriotism. Uncle Sam has never paid salaries comparable to those received for similar service in private enterprise. Increases allowed over a long period of years to both officials and the lower-paid employes have been extremely meager, and during the last two years all promotions and normal increases have been cut off.

By restraining its own extravagance in a few instances Congress may save far more than could be derived from a Federal pay cut. Maintenance of the existing schedules is necessary to preserve the morale and efficiency of the civil service force, but more important even than that is the encouragement of private employers to maintain the purchasing power of their workmen. A reduction of Federal pay would be the signal for wage-slashing throughout the country. Such a step might contribute more to the breakdown of industry and financial institutions than could be offset by the entire reconstruction program.

President Hoover has not taken public notice of the wage-cutting drive on Capitol Hill. He does not care to recognize such an indefensible move unless it becomes necessary. But there is no doubt as to where the President stands. No one in America has worked so hard to preserve wages and salaries, wherever that is possible, as has President Hoover. There can be no doubt that a veto awaits any Federal wage-slashing bill that might reach the White House.

BOGUS SEAMEN SMUGGLED IN.

The bill for the deportation of certain alien seamen and for other purposes has been before Congress since 1924. It was recognized that such legislation was necessary, because the immigration bill then under consideration left an open side door through which aliens incapable of obtaining a visa could easily be smuggled into the United States. Extensive hearings were held upon this amendment, and opinions upon it were obtained from the Departments of State, Commerce and Labor. Slight changes suggested were met by amendments. The amendment was, however, withdrawn, because it was feared that it might endanger the passage of the immigration bill.

The bill was introduced in the Senate in the following Congress. Extensive hearings were had upon it, without bringing forth any new information. It passed the Senate, but failed of consideration in the House committee. It was reintroduced in the next Congress, and in the next, and was unanimously passed by the Senate on April 14, 1930. It was then reported to the House with one dissenting vote.

In the report filed with the bill when it was reported to the House, the committee estimated that some 500,000 immigrants of various kinds had been smuggled into the United States through that open side door. In the rush of the closing days the bill failed to pass the House.

Prior to the recent holiday recess this bill was again reported by unanimous vote to the Senate from the committee on immigration and naturalization. In spite of the fact that repeated hearings have explored the whole situation, an effort has been made to delay the measure by insisting upon further hearings.

The purpose of the bill is to close the open side door through which immigrants unable to get a visa, or racially excluded, are constantly pouring into the country in violation of the immigration laws. Immigrants disguised as seamen have smuggled themselves into the country. Among them are criminals scattered throughout the underworld of the cities, and as workers in factories, driving native Americans and legally entered aliens into the bread lines.

Next May the question will arise as to whether American vessels sailing under mail contracts will be permitted to continue carrying Orientals in their crews, while vessels under foreign flags will retain that privilege unless this bill is passed. When the bill becomes law it will save the United States the cost of capturing, convicting and deporting aliens unlawfully smuggled in as seamen, and will place the cost upon the vessel that is doing the smuggling. As a necessary step in preventing an influx of criminals and other barred aliens, masquerading as seamen, this measure should be passed.

DEMOCRATIC TARIFF POLICY.

For a year and a half the Democrats have joined in a great uproar against the Smoot-Hawley tariff. The party's most exuberant orators have pretended to trace the roots of the depression to this "iniquitous" Republican policy. Democrats have clamored for election so that they might rip the Smoot-Hawley act into shreds. Now that they have control of the House they completely ignore the alleged "vicious rates" of which they have spoken so much and suggest an amendment to the flexible provision. The roaring lion steps forth as an apologetic mouse.

The simple truth is that the protective tariff is not as high as it should be. Since the depression began the Smoot-Hawley tariff has become less and less effective so far as protecting industry and labor is concerned. More than a dozen countries are manufacturing more cheaply under the stimulus of depreciated currency and underselling in the American market. Prices have sunk so low abroad that ad valorem duties do not amount to much. In spite of the depression in the United States, which caused a shrinkage of 16 per cent in the domestic output, imports in 1931 fell off only 10 per cent. How could the Democrats face this fact and ask American citizens to tolerate further concessions to foreign producers? The answer is, they could not. Hence, they seek to camouflage their tariff politics behind this false front known as the Collier bill.

The Democratic bill is more vicious, however, than it appears on the surface. It would change the tariff policy of the United States. Instead of offering protection and encouragement to American industry and labor it would instruct the Tariff Commission to recommend rates that would "most nearly insure equal competitive opportunity to domestic articles and like or similar foreign articles" in the American market. Foreign industry would be put on a par with domestic enterprise. America's unemployed would be asked to compete with the jobless millions of Europe and Asia for the privilege of supplying America's wants.

Adjustment of duties to meet the constantly changing conditions in the industrial world would not be possible under the Democratic plan of having the Tariff Commission report its findings to Congress. More than half the time Congress is not in session. Both houses are overburdened with other business and have no time to wrangle over petty changes in the tariff structure to meet temporary needs. If Congress takes over this executive function politics and delay will destroy the usefulness of the flexible provision.

Little needs to be said about the revival of that monstrosity known as the consumers' counsel. The function of this office would be to keep the Tariff Commission on the straight and narrow path so that it would not mislead Congress. If the Democratic leaders are so conscious of their own inability to serve the wishes of the people they ought to set up still another board to counsel and advise the consumers' counsel.

The request that President Hoover call an international conference with a view to lowering excessive tariff duties is political balderdash. In effect, the Democrats invite the President to walk into a snare. It would be a master stroke if the Democrats could induce the President to participate in an international fiasco on tariffs and take this blame upon himself.

From beginning to end the Collier bill must be considered a political maneuver. It would not help to end the depression. It is not intended to do so. It is framed for political purposes and not for the relief of the American people.

ABUSE OF PRESIDENTS

From the Topeka Capital.

President Hoover comes in for so much abuse for all the troubles of the world that the Arkansas City Traveler has taken the pains to go back into the historical records and report how some of his predecessors came off. It quotes a newspaper as protesting that Washington regarded the American people as his subjects. "The President has violated the Constitution," it complained, and "Louis XVI of France in the meridian of his splendor and his power never dared to heap such insults on his subjects." Another paper declared that "if ever a nation was debauched by a man, the American Nation has been debauched by Washington."

One critic publicly assailed John Adams when President as "a hoary traitor." A familiar note was sounded in criticism of President Jefferson, one publication declaring that "he obtained his property by fraud and robbery; in one instance he defrauded and robbed a widow and fatherless estate of which he was executor." Jackson was accused of "violating all laws, human and divine." Some of the choice terms applied to him were murderer, traitor and adulterer. There are people still living who remember when Lincoln was termed a "usurper, traitor and tyrant," not in the South, but in the North. He was called a human monstrosity and a baboon, among other kind of epithets. Roosevelt was forced to bring criminal libel suits against some of his detractors. Cleveland was called a drunkard and accused of beating his wife, the charming mistress of the White House. Wilson was charged with having made $3,000,000 speculating in Wall street in advance of his war proclamation and of having had illicit relations with a well-known and admirable woman who was his friend.

When the treatment of Presidents by nitwit detractors is reviewed it appears that abuse of Presidents is not a reflection upon the men this Nation has chosen for Chief Magistrates, but a sad reflection on the mental capacity of the critics.

Senator Wheeler's judgment about violence following a refusal of Congress to pass a dole may be no better than his idea of a free silver panacea.

The attempt of the drys to explain Finland's 5-to-2 vote for prohibition repeal as something imposed by other nations offends not only Finnish, but American intelligence.

An intelligent Congress doubtless will realize that getting the wheels of industry started is one hundredfold more important that the drop-in-the-bucket savings to be effected by shaving Federal salaries.

Is it possible that House Democrats preparing to side-step embarrassing discussions of specific tariff reductions think a proposal for an international tariff conference will not be recognized as a smoke screen?

Mrs. Ghose, of India, is here to recruit a battalion of American women to accompany her to aid in the fight for Indian independence, and curiously enough, she will probably find a number of namesakes spelled with a double O ready to go.

Gov. Pinchot, who couldn't muster support for his dole measures in his own Legislature, comes back to vent his spite on the administration because it didn't consider Pennsylvania a mendicant.

Meanwhile some astute figurers point out that it will be a good deal cheaper for rich States like New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois to raise money to care for their own needy and unemployed than to pay the amounts they would be taxed to repay a big Federal loan.

Unecessary waste—unemployed automobile "marchers" on the Capital and the daily Progressive vote on Moses.

Many persons who could have plenty eat whole wheat by choice as a breakfast food, but any attempt to impose unmilled grain on the unemployed would probably be considered barbarous.

HIGHWAY BUILDING.

While the wide use of automobile transportation in the United States has given a greater impetus to road improvements here than in any other nation in the world, statistics show that, outside of city areas, less than 3 per cent of the country's 3,000,000-mile network of roads have been built to withstand modern traffic usage, says the Wall Street Journal.

About three-fourths of all rural travel is carried by State highway systems representing slightly over 10 per cent of the total road mileage. Of the 325,000 miles of highway grouped in these systems, 30 per cent are without surface of any kind, 44 per cent are equipped with low type surfaces, and only 26 per cent are finished with the high-type surfaces necessary for heavy traffic.

Gold May Be Mixed With Base Metals, But It Remains Pure Gold

By ROBERT QUILLEN

BILL JONES was a natural-born partisan. He possessed firm convictions and was proud of them. They included a belief that people are like eggs—wholly good or wholly bad.

"There is no such thing," said Bill, "as half-way chastity or half-way honesty. People are good or they are bad, and any man of sound sense should be able to tell which is which."

One day Bill visited a great city and was so fortunate as to save the life of a magician who fainted and fell while crossing a street.

"You have done me a great service," said the magician. "Now help me to my studio and I will do as much for you."

Some minutes later Bill sat in an easy chair facing a crystal ball which rested on a tripod of gold. At the base of the tripod was a row of push buttons, each bearing a label that revealed its duty.

"I perceive by your countenance that you are a critic of men," said the magician, "and I am giving you an opportunity to see them as they are."

"In this ball?" asked Bill.

"Yes, in the ball. If you wish to see the bad people of your community—the sinful and the wicked and those who hide their vices and malice and dishonor from the world, you have only to press the button marked 'bad' and they will appear before you."

The magician turned away to go about his labors and Bill pressed the designated button and leaned back to enjoy his fill of scandal.

He was not unrewarded. The first to appear was the preacher. Following him came Bill's neighbors and friends, his partner in business, women he knew and respected.

Bill chuckled at first, but his face was white before the revelation was finished.

"This is horrible!" he cried. "I'll never again trust anybody. Are there no decent people?"

"Oh, yes," said the magician. "Just press the button marked 'good' and you'll see the best people of your community—the virtuous and honorable, the generous and kind—those who fight to overcome evil and keep themselves free of wrong-doing."

Bill pressed the right button and leaned forward eagerly to watch. He was silent for a long time and at length got to his feet and looked about for his hat.

"Going?" asked the magician. "But you have made no comment on the second group. Were you so disappointed?"

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Mr. Hoover, in stating he will launch a new drive for consolidation of Government bureaus, revives attention in a field where reform has long been badly needed and little has been done. Here lies an opportunity for two important achievements—saving of money and increase in efficiency.

"The system fairly bristles with incongruities and defects," said a Brookings Institute report in 1923 of the confusion, waste and duplication of effort caused by the hodge-podge of Federal activities. Groups of similar function are thrust into various departments without a semblance of unity. For instance, the National Advisory Committee on Education recently reported that branches of educational activity were carried on by all ten of the executive departments. Public works construction, which Mr. Hoover would consolidate under one administration, now is in the hands of fourteen agencies, and eight groups are concerned with conservation of natural resources.

Efforts of Mr. Hoover's five immediate predecessors to effect unification ran up against stone walls of bureaucratic opposition, which may still be expected, or perished for want of persistence, as in the Coolidge regime. Mr. Taft found headway impossible, though he recognized the matter as of "fundamental importance." In Harding's administration, a committee headed by Walter F. Brown, now Postmaster General, conducted an exhaustive inquiry, but without result.

Daniels Demands Liberal.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

Though both Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Newton D. Baker are classified as wet, that fact does not seem to be handicapping them in winning recognition for their claims as presidential possibilities from outstanding Southern Democratic leaders.

In an interview in New York the other day Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy for eight years in the administrations of Woodrow Wilson, and one of the most influential of dry Democratic chieftains in the South, declared that if the Democratic party in 1932 will nominate some one for President who holds liberal and progressive views, the party will sweep to victory as it did in 1912 with Woodrow Wilson as its standard bearer. And Mr. Daniels took occasion to mention Roosevelt and Baker as men qualifying as liberal and progressive Democrats.

"They Can Pay," Says Mr. Kahn.

Detroit Free Press.

The statement that France is well able to pay the balance of her debt to the United States made by Otto H. Kahn before the Senate finance committee is in conformity with the general belief throughout this country, and in harmony with the financial condition of France, as indicated by reports of expert financial writers. Mr. Kahn's second assertion, to the effect that the Hoover moratorium would have accomplished much more than it actually has achieved, but for the balkiness of France in approaching it, is likewise easy of credence.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Flight of American Money—Billions Drawn From This Country. Americans Running Foreign Factories and Trying to Break Down the Tariff.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The American people at last, through the Senate finance committee, have learned that billions of dollars earned by American material and labor has been sent to foreign countries, and the only profit ever to be derived or the slightest chance of return is fat commissions that went into the pockets of international bankers. The securities purchased abroad have been distributed to interior banks, many of which had to close their doors by reason of these dead "assets." Over $815,000,000 of Latin American bonds are already in default.

A statistician says $1,000,000,000 has been withdrawn from the banks of the country. If this sum were returned to the banks they could use it as a credit for $20,000,000,000. Another flight of American money, produced by its resources and American labor, is toward Europe and Canada, to put into factories which are expected to earn millions for Ford and General Motors Co., who buy their material and secure the cheap labor of these foreign countries and are rapidly flooding the world markets with tractors, autos and other products; so much so that American exporters to South America are now shipping their products from their Canadian factories direct to other lands.

Dr. Klein in an article entitled, "Migrating Machinery," says that big American industries are finding it advantageous to fill their export orders to South America and other countries from plants on the Canadian side of the border, and that "this phase is frankly disconcerting on this side of the line but noted with grim satisfaction in Canada." No wonder! American money builds and operates factories and throws large sums into Canadian trade, keeping Canadian labor busy while our own workers are idle. Farms by many thousands are going under the hammer for taxes and mortgages, not because the farmer is not raising huge crops, but because the masses of the cities are idle, and consumption is stopped. Railroads under able and economical management can not earn dividends, and thereby their securities become worthless.

Now bankers and other capitalists are engaged in a propaganda to cancel European debts, which were shaved from 62 per cent to 12 per cent. The American people have already lost billions extracted from their pockets during a war in which millions of our people were sent to the battle front, thousands buried in bloody graves, and billions in money taken from their earnings. These money interests howl against the tariff because Ford and General Motors Co. want to ship their European cheap labor products into this country and keep millions of Americans in the bread line.

There is sufficient ability in Congress to remedy this condition. Tax this capital going abroad. Stop the loan of money to foreigners. The American people will not stand for any more cancellation of debts.

"But if any provide not for his own and especially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith and is worse than an infidel."

Japanese-Chinese Controversy Is a Challenge to the World.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Chinese-Japanese trouble is a challenge to the modern civilized world and all its ideals concerning world peace. For years we have supposedly fought war in all its cruel forms and yet, even under great economic stress, nations persist in arming themselves to the teeth and often go so far as to scorn treaties, agreements and promises in their search for revenge and territorial expansion.

The present struggle between China and Japan (it can hardly be called a war) is a living example of what I have just said. I will always maintain that war can be eliminated through a just and fair system of arbitration. This trouble is not only a challenge to Chinese and Japanese statesmanship, but also to that of all the nations.

MAN AND WOMAN.

Had I been born a woman I suppose
I should keep busy powdering my nose,
And frequently, with dainty finger tips,
Keep just as busy reddening my lips,
But since I was to be a man designed,
I am to other vanities inclined.
Had I been born a woman, I confess
I should be very fond of pretty dress,
And talk of hats and shoes and ribbons gay,
As though such things could keep a plague away.
But since I was born masculine I find
I am to other notions more inclined.
I do not care one fig in the light
My ugly nose shall seem a trifle bright,
Nor do I think my stock in trade 'twould boom,
Were I to spray myself with sweet perfume.
Lipstick I'm sure would do my cause no good,
But if I were a woman, p'raps it would.
So I believe there can be nothing wrong
In the just follies which to each belong.
Woman may very properly adorn
Herself in ways which man, of course, must scorn.
Still I observe it chills my blood to scan
The mannish woman or the girlish man.

RIGOROUS COLD DUE IN SNOWBOUND AREA

Winds and Floods Threaten Midwest; White Blanket Covers Southwest.

Kansas City, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Approaching northwest winds, heralded by the Weather Bureau, threatened to increase the rigors of winter in Midwest and Southwest States, lying tonight beneath a rapidly thickening blanket of snow.

Isolated towns, blocked roads, dismissed schools and a threat of floods in rising rivers, have resulted from the snowstorm and preceding heavy rains which visited parts of Nebraska, Minnesota, western Iowa, western Missouri, central and southwest Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico.

The western Kansas prairie towns of Prat, Dodge City, Garden City, Great Bend, Liberal, Concord and Osborne, where 14 inches fell, were reported snowbound in blinding storms today. In this section snow was reported falling too rapidly for the use of plows in clearing highways.

Snow ceased at Dodge City late today as it did at Amarillo, Tex., where 12 inches fell, blocking streets and causing school authorities to warn pupils by radio not to leave home. In Texas the Trinity River reached flood stage near Dallas by a rise of 11.7 feet in 24 hours. The Texas panhandle generally was under a foot of snow, with rains falling throughout the rest of the State. The Brazos and Neuces Rivers were swollen.

The snow was general throughout New Mexico, extending into southeastern Colorado where from 8 to 10 inches fell, a raw wind swept the rest of the State. At Omaha 8 inches fell, and the temperature dropped today to 4 degrees above zero at Valentine, Nebr.

The absence of extreme cold prevented loss of live stock in the grazing section of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

DEMOCRATS INVITE G. O. P. TARIFF VIEWS

justify the existing tariff law and policy.

Representatives Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois; Charles R. Crisp, of Georgia, and James W. Collier, of Mississippi, militant Democratic leaders on the ways and means committee, are going to seek to confound Republican tariff advocates by confronting them with figures showing the large number of branch factories established in foreign countries by American concerns and comparing the activity of these branches with the lack of activity in the home factories during the curent business depression.

Chairman Collier extended an invitation to the State and Treasury Department heads to appear and send others equipped with information about the probable effect of his bill, after a conference among Democratic members of the committee and other majority leaders.

A forecast of the determination of the Republicans to defend the present tariff and their refusal to take Democratic criticism lying down was given on the floor of the House when Representative Isaac Bacharach (Republican), of New Jersey, charged the majority with trying unfairly to rush the bill through committee.

"The fair thing to do," Mr. Bacharach said, "is to let the people have an opportunity to be heard. Some of the Republicans never saw this bill until 10 minutes ago."

Representative Lindley H. Hadley (Republican), of Washington, said the Democratic program proposed extraordinary proceedings which were very discourteous to the executive departments.

Representative Henry W. Watson, (Republican), of Pennsylvania, questioned the haste of the majority in pressing the measure inasmuch as Congress would be in session for some time yet.

Criticism Is Resented.

Representative Collier apparently resented some of the criticism, saying that adequate notice had been given of the plan to hold hearings yesterday afternoon and any interested person or department could have appeared.

Despite the delay in reporting the tariff measure to the House, the Democratic leaders expressed hope that it would be passed before adjournment at the end of the week. But that hope will not be borne out if the Republicans choose to make the matter a subject of prolonged debate. The House adopted yesterday a special rule proposed by Representative Edward W. Pou (Democrat), of North Carolina, chairman of the rules committee, which made the tariff bill privileged. But the rule did not provide any other limitation on debate than the general rules of the House, under which debate might continue for some time.

Hearings on revision of taxes were to begin tomorrow, and they may yet, but it may be that the tariff hearings will necessitate brief postponement of the tax hearings.

The joint House-Senate Democratic policy committee is to meet in the office of Speaker Garner this morning to consider these and other subjects, but an unofficial forecast of some of the new taxes the Democratic program call for was given by Representative Rainey.

Various Sales Taxes.

These included various sales taxes, such as a gasoline tax, the method of collection of which has not been worked out; an automobile tax, a tax on radios and others. Although yielding to Treasury recommendations for sales taxes to some extent, Democrats are determined to employ such taxes only when they can not find other means of raising required revenue. They are faced, for example, with the fact that higher taxes on cigarettes might result in less revenue, and are pondering the advisability of extending the tax on other forms of tobacco.

Representative Rainey estimated that between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 would have to be raised through sales taxes, although he refused to estimate the taxes which will be imposed on specific articles.

remember that I had to read it aloud at Washington birthday exercises held at school that year.

Washington, The President.

— by —

Ralph Sadler.

After the Federal Government was established the people needed a man at the head to see that the laws were enforced, but that man must be a person who was just and who believed that right is right and wrong is wrong. George Washington was the first man of these principles to be thought of, so the people of the United States chose him for their first President. He was elected in the year 1789, reelected in 1793 and served until 1797.

The first thing to be done was to appoint three reliable men to fill the offices of State, War and Treasury, and also an Attorney General. This he did, making Thomas Jefferson Secretary of State, Henry Knox, Secretary of War; Alexander Hamilton, Secretary of the Treasury; Edmund Randolph, Attorney General. This was the first Cabinet of the new Government.

In this period of history, following the Revolutionary War, our country was very heavily in debt, and Washington asked the Secretary of the Treasury what he thought about the condition of affairs and he said that the only thing he could see to do was to raise money, and gave his plan by which it could be done.

He said that a revenue was needed, and about the easiest way to raise it was to put a small duty on all goods imported to the United States.

This plan was carried out, and it did not take long to pay off the national debt.

This proves what a wonderful man and men the Cabinet of those days was, and every boy and girl should have a desire to follow in the footsteps of these great men that they also may become good citizens, and, in that way, strengthen the Government we all love so well.

How interesting to learn what a boy of 25 years ago was thinking about George Washington! There are lessons in it, too, for our lawmakers of today.

Purpose of Contest Praised.

Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, vice president of the District of Columbia Board of Education and a noted educational authority, was enthusiastic in her praise of The Post Washington Essay Contest yesterday.

"The Post seems to provide for the children of the city an ideal subject for a contest," declared Mrs. Doyle. "To make our children acquainted with the Father of Our Country through intimate study of his life and achievements will make George Washington live again for them.

"One of the best aids to character training is the whole-souled admiration of children for a man like George Washington. The thoughtful study that will be necessary in this contest will be helpful in bringing out the best in our children. The method of research and concentration necessary to produce a manuscript of this type should be beneficial also. I look forward with keen anticipation to the opportunity of reading the prize-winning essays."

From other educational leaders came similar words of approbation yesterday, some of which will be published in future issues of The Washington Post.

A letter came from a Charles County (Md.) woman asking whether her nephew was eligible for the contest.

Not at the present time, because the $1,000 in cash prizes now only are available to boys and girls up to 18 years of age, pupils in public, private and parochial schools of the District of Columbia, Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, Md.; Fairfax and Arlington Counties, Va., and for the City of Alexandria, Va.

How to Enter Contest.

Address all inquiries regarding the contest to The Post Washington Essay Editor. These inquiries will be answered in the news story appearing in The Post daily. All essays will be acknowledged in the news columns of The Post as received.

All essays must be signed with the full name, age, address and school of the contestants. In addition, they must bear the countersign of a parent, teacher or guardian. Any essays arriving without this countersign will be barred. No essay should be longer than 500 words. Write or typewrite on one side of paper only, and number succeeding sheets in proper order. The contest begins at once, and all essays must be delivered to the Essay Editor of The Post by midnight of March 14, or postmarked not later than that date.

In order to give students of various ages an equal chance the contest has been divided into four groups:

Group 1. Ages up to and including 10 years.

CRITICS OF '32 FETE ASSAILED BY BLOOM

New York Representative, in Spirited Defense, Gains House Favor.

Representative Sol Bloom (Democrat), of New York, associate director of the George Washington Bicentennial commission, took the floor of the House yesterday to reply to criticisms of commission activities and routed his critics so effectively that, had not adjournment interfered, the House may have overridden the appropriations committee and given the commission as much money as Mr. Bloom had asked.

Mr. Bloom sought $427,000 in the first deficiency appropriation bill which was under consideration. The appropriations committee of which Representative Joseph W. Byrns (Democrat), of Tennessee, is chairman, cut that sum to $250,000.

Representative Allen T. Treadway (Republican), of Massachusetts; Earl C. Michener (Republican), of Michigan; James M. Beck (Republican), of Pennsylvania, and others attempted to force the New Yorker to a confession of commercializing the celebration of Washington's birthday anniversary, of sending out misinformation about the first President, and of having too many pictures of himself taken in connection with commission activities.

Their attacks failed, as might be evidenced by the fact that given 15 minutes to talk at the start, Mr. Bloom three times more was accorded an additional allotment of 15 minutes by unanimous consent amid applause from both sides of the House.

Rains Halt Planes En Route to Races

3 of 20 Headed for Miami Are Unreported After Leaving Richmond.

Pinehurst, N. C., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Rains today broke up the schedule and separated the twenty airplanes which were to stop here en route from Richmond to Miami for the air races there next week. Three of the planes reported to have left Richmond today were not accounted for tonight.

Nine landed at the airport here, four missed the goal by only a few miles. Three stopped in Raleigh and one in Durham. H. Garrison Silleck, third, pilot, and Mrs. Silleck, were compelled to land on the grounds of Dr. J. W. Dickie's Sanatorium at Southern Pines. Betty H. Gillie, of New York, flying alone, was unable to locate the airport here in the haze and took refuge on a fairway of the Midpines Country Club Golf Course four miles away.

Ed Neirmeyer, piloting the seven-passenger cabin plane of Powell Crosley, jr., of Cincinnati, landed on a golf-driving range two miles away when he failed to locate the field. All of the planes which failed to reach the field landed without mishap.

First in the Hearts of His Countrymen

IMPRESSIVE ceremonies paying homage to George Washington as a pioneer in education will feature the graduation exercises to be held in America's schools and colleges in June, 1932, as a part of their celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of the first President, according to plans being completed by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

In this connection it is recalled that George Washington received the honorary degree of doctor of laws from five of the country's oldest colleges.

The first of such degrees was conferred upon him by Harvard in 1776, which action was followed by Yale in 1781, the University of Pennsylvania in 1783, Washington College (Chestertown, Md.) in 1789, and Brown University in 1790.

George Washington was one of the original contributors to the fund which made the existence of Washington College possible, and also gave permission to call the college by his name. This is the first educational institution and the only college to bear his name with his personal consent.

WASHINGTON PICTURES AVAILABLE TO WRITERS.

DURING his lifetime George Washington escaped the ordeal of having to pose before innumerable cameras every time he stepped out of his house, but today hundreds of photographs are being made of the first President. These photographs are being collected by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission and before the beginning of the nine-months, Nation-wide celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington on February 22, 1932, the commission expects to have the largest collection of Washington pictures in existence.

The collection at present numbers some 650 pictures of which the commission has about 6,000 copies on hand. These pictures included portraits of Washington painted from life by such famous artists as Gilbert Stuart, Joseph Wright, John Trumbull, Adolf Wertmuller, Charles Wilson and Rembrandt Peale and others. There are portraits by artists from many foreign countries including France, England, Italy, Germany, Sweden and Denmark. In this collection are included photographs of oil paintings, pen and ink drawings, pastels, water colors, a portrait done in needlework, statuary and the famous Rembrandt Peale portrait painted on stone.

George Washington memorial parks in every town in Wyoming as a part of the State's Bicentennial Celebration is being planned by George E. Brimmer, of Cheyenne, chairman of Wyoming's Bicentennial Commission.

The memorial parks program for Wyoming is the most comprehensive of its kind ever undertaken in the State, officials said.

POLICE MAY ESCORT COAL INTO NEW YORK

Guards to Ride on Trucks Unless Drivers Accept Cut in Wages.

New York, Jan. 5 (A.P.)—Policemen will sit on hundreds of coal trucks tomorrow, guarding nonunion drivers as New York's daily supply of 30,000 tons of coal is delivered, unless union men agree in the meantime to accept a 10 per cent wage cut.

The decision to insist upon the acceptance of a new pay scale was reached late today by representatives of the 56 Manhattan and Bronx coal yards, which employ 1,000 drivers and supply fuel for the millions who live in two boroughs.

Meanwhile half of the 1,000 union drivers were idle. Some of them refused to work in compliance with a strike order voted against the two largest coal yards by Local 533, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers. These two companies are headed by members of the dealers' wage scale committee.

The other idle men were locked out by two other large concerns, headed by the other two members of the wage scale committee. At a conference this afternoon all 56 companies agreed to notify their employes they could continue to work provided they accepted the new wage scale. They said nonunion men will be employed to replace those who refuse.

The new working agreement drawn up by the dealers provides an elimination of pay on holidays when the men do not work, and a 10 per cent pay cut. The dealers also offered a compromise, with a total cut of 10 per cent, including the loss sustained by the elimination of pay on holidays.

Union officials said they were willing to arbitrate the paid holidays clause, but not the wage cut. Union officials expressed fear that if they accepted the wage cut, a similar cut might be imposed on the 16,000 other truck drivers in the city.

The strike extended into the harbor when Joseph Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, declared both his organization and the American Federation of Labor stood behind the coal teamsters. About 800 handlers and 200 captains on boats owned by the companies of the Coal Merchants Association did not report for work today, Mr. Ryan said.

Concession to Citizens' Alien Parents Is Urged

(Associated Press.)

Immigration Commissioner Hull yesterday asked nonquota status for aged parents of American citizens. He told the House immigration committee probably 500 additional immigrants would come in annually under the bill.

Chairman Dickstein, its author, said adequate financial support would have to be assured by children before allowing parents to come in.

At the same meeting the committee considered a bill to extend for two more years special naturalization privileges to World War veterans.

Geneva Armament Delegates Entertained With Luncheon by President Hoover; Mrs. Hoover Guest of Mrs. Adams.

PRESIDENT HOOVER entertained members of the United States delegation to the forthcoming arms conference in Geneva at luncheon yesterday at the White House in honor of the United States Ambassador to Great Britain, Mr. Charles G. Dawes, who will head the delegation, and who arrived at the White House yesterday.

The President and Mrs. Hoover received the new Siamese Minister, Mr. Phyla Subarn, in the blue room at the White House in the afternoon.

Mrs. Hoover was the guest of honor at a luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, wife of the Secretary of the Navy. Invited to meet Mrs. Hoover were the wives of the ranking admirals, including Mrs. William V. Pratt, Mrs. Mark L. Bristol, Mrs. George H. Rock, Mrs. William E. Moffett, Mrs. Charles E. Riggs, Mrs. Frank Upham, Mrs. Ridley McLean, Mr. Henry V. Butler, Mrs. Orin G. Murfin, Mrs. Samuel M. Robinson, Mrs. Edgar B. Larimer and Mrs. Archibald L. Parsons. The company also included Mrs. Ben H. Fuller, wife of the major general commandant of the Marine Corps, and Miss Alice Lovering, sister of Mrs. Adams.

Miss Lovering will be here for about two weeks longer and will make a series of visits in and around Boston before returning to her home in Paris.

Mrs. Gann Will Not Be At Home Today.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann will not receive this afternoon, but will resume her Wednesdays at home later in the season.

Mrs. Edward S. Gann will be the guest of honor at the tea next Monday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, at the clubhouse of the A. A. U. W. on I street, when the junior group of the club will be the sponsors, and Miss Pauline Yates Long will be their representative hostess. Mrs. Otto Veerhoff, president of the branch, will head the receiving line.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson were the guests of honor at a dinner given last evening by the Belgian Ambassador and Mme. May. There were 26 guests in the company.

The other guests were the British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay, the Hungarian Minister and Countess Szechenyi, Representative and Mrs. Richard Aldrich, the former American Minister to Egypt and Mrs. Franklin Mott Gunther, Gen. Charles L. McCawley, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins, Gen. and Mrs. Sherrill, Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury Blair, Mrs. Guy Norman, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wilkins, Miss Mabel Boardman, Miss Patten, Miss Francoise May, daughter of the hosts, and Viscount de Lantsheere, First Secretary of the Embassy.

Mrs. Stimson and Mrs. Adams, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, are the only Cabinet hostesses who will be at home this afternoon. Mrs. Stimson will receive at Woodley from 3:30 until 6 o'clock and will be assisted by Mrs. Francis White, Mrs. Allen T. Klots, Mrs. Wallace Murray, Mrs. Earl L. Packer and Mrs. A. Dana Hodgdon.

Mrs. Adams will receive informally and have no receiving party.

Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, wife of the Secretary of War, was the guest of honor of the board of governors and members of the National Woman's Country Club at luncheon yesterday. Among the guests were Senora de Sacasa, Mrs. Frederick H. Payne, Mrs. William Howard Taft, Mrs. Percy Stewart, Mrs. Henry Alvah Strong, Mrs. George T. Marye and Mrs. Harry T. Huse.

Mrs. Hyde, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, will receive next Wednesday afternoon at the Mayflower.

Mrs. William M. Doak, wife of the Secretary of Labor, will not receive today. She will receive next Wednesday at the Willard.

Italy-America Society Meets at Mayflower.

The Italian Ambassador and Nobil Donna Antonietta de Martino attended the meeting last evening at the Mayflower of the Italy-America Society, of which they are honorary presidents.

Dr. David Jayne Hill, president of the society, presided and introduced Miss Janet Richards, who gave a very interesting lecture at the invitation of Ambassador de Martino, on "The Highlights of Italian Culture in the Sixteenth Century." Miss Richards is the first person in Washington to receive the new decoration established by the Italian government for award to "the friends of Italian culture."

Among others present last evening, in addition to the members of the staff of the Italian Embassy, were Representative and Mrs. Sol Bloom and Miss Vera Bloom, Mr. L. G. van Hoorn, Counselor of the Legation of the Netherlands; Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Dion Williams, Brig. Gen. William E. Horton, Mrs. Francis Newlands, Mrs. Jacob Lander Loose, Mrs. T. Sim Lee, Mrs. Joseph Davies, Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Savage, Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, Mrs. John C. HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

VACCINES FOR COLDS.

SEVERAL Canadian groups of physicians have been trying their hand at a solution of the problem of the common cold, as physicians are doing over most of the civilized world. About a half dozen of them reported their experiences in a recent number of the journal of the Canadian Medical Association, and the editor thereof rounds out the subject with an editorial.

They are agreed that the common cold is the most important of all the diseases. To begin with, it far surpasses other diseases in prevalence. Even when it pursues a mild course, it causes the maximum amount of absence from work, including school work. In addition, it causes great financial and economic loss, because of the discomfort and lowered capacity of people who remain on the job when they are uncomfortable from the fever and aches caused by colds. To make matters worse the infection may bring about a pneumonia, or it may involve the sinuses.

There are some who think that vitamin A increases the resistance to disease of those who eat it. This vitamin abounds in carrots and some other vegetables. These Canadian authorities were not able to confirm this opinion. They fed groups of people plenty of carrots and other vitamin A foods, without lowering the prevalence of colds among those who were on the diet. The number of people who have faith in the power of vitamin D foods surpasses that of those who pin their faith to carrots.

The Canadians found the evidence on the vaccine question quite conflicting. Taken as a whole, they thought it proved that vaccination was of service in the prevention of colds. However, they found that it was effective when used by some persons and useless for others. They do not think it should be classed with smallpox, typhoid, or diphtheria vaccination.

They are disposed to hope for a vaccine developed out of the viruses which several people have found in cases of coryza, and which many think to be the cause thereof. A considerable group of bacteria were found in the nose secretions of those affected but these microbes, they think, are complications rather than the basic cause of the trouble.

Nevertheless, vaccines made out of these microbes appear to be of moderate service. When some one has found a way to combine the virus in the combination, the product should be more useful.

PROBABLY RHEUMATIC.

M. H. P. writes: Can you tell me anything about causes and treatment of severe headache and stiff neck? I believe they are nervous headaches because noise and confusion intensify them.

REPLY.

Headaches that are accompanied by stiff neck are apt to be rheumatic. Such headaches are often cured by measures against rheumatism.

IODINE AND WHITE HAIR.

Mrs. M. H. writes: Will iodine taken internally prevent gray hair?

REPLY.

No.

2-3 cup diced celery
4 cups tomatoes
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
3 tablespoons chopped onions
4 tablespoons butter or bacon fat
1½ cups water
1½ cups boiled rice

Mix celery, tomatoes, seasonings and water. Cover and cook slowly 30 minutes. Press through coarse sieve and add butter and rice. Boil one minute. Serve in hot bowls.

Apple Salad (Serving 6).

3 cups diced apples
1 cup diced pineapple
2 tablespoons lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon salt
2-3 cup diced marshmallows
½ cup salad dressing

Chill ingredients. Combine and serve on lettuce or cabbage leaves.

Gelatin Fruit Pudding.

Dare Interprets the Mode

New York, Jan. 5.

AND now they have a new name for 'em!

Those "end of the day" gowns, as one clever couturier called them, those "Sunday night frocks" as we know them, seem to be having much trouble being placed in our vocabularies, if not in our wardrobe! And now, when you read about "cinema gowns" you should know that that means the type of frock known by the names and terms mentioned above, and by a lot more.

Fortunately, and for once—the names given this type of garment are usually sufficiently descriptive to convey an understanding of what is meant. Even when a humorous French designer called them "speak-easy" gowns in one of her collections, we know what she must mean—for what, indeed, should one wear to what has become known as a "speak-easy" other than something more than tweeds and something very much less than an evening gown?

Now, a cinema frock is not an afternoon garment. It can be worn, to be sure, for very formal afternoon wear, but usually it is too long as to skirt, too glittering or elegant as to trimming, and too decollete for an afternoon gown. But between afternoon and midnight there are a lot of hours that do not require an evening gown, as every woman has always known, and the haute couture seems to have just found out! What then, what then? Why, the "cinema gown" the Sunday night frock, &c.

Whether to wear a hat with this type of a gown or not seems to be puzzling some of the Dah-ray fans. The answer is no, in your home when you are hostess; no, in any home where you have been invited to a dinner but told that it is not formal. And yes, when you do wear the cutfit to a cinema, to dine in public, or to dance and have supper after the theater, or even after having dinner in some one's home. And your hat must be elegant, too, and quite dressy, what you would one time have called an "evening hat." really—something you would rarely wear of an afternoon. Not, of course, a jeweled or lame affair that you would wear with an ultra formal evening gown, and that seldom.

Does that help? Any further questions anent the Sunday night frock or cinema gown where and how to wear it will be gladly answered.

* * * *

Yes, and I know a clever-fingered lady who has just changed a couple of her afternoon gowns into cinema frocks with remnants of glittery materials and lace—not both on the same dress! That makes me think that I had better change a couple of my formal evening gowns into this type of frock, too, because there are far more dinners at home given this season than there are affairs which require evening gowns.

This is just one suggestion for using remnants—there are simply loads of such helpful suggestions in this week's leaflet, on what to do with remnants. This is the month for buying them, you know; so better send a stamped, self-adressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this leaflet.

* * * *

Maline's lace is another lace made with linen threads, on a foundation of hexagonal meshes. It differs from Alencon in the flatness of the design, while Alencon shows a raised outline around the design. Malines is made with bobbins, and its designs are rather like Valenciennes, although more numerous. Tell you about Valenciennes tomorrow.

* * * *

I thought you might like to see something a bit out of the ordinary in daytime dresses, so I've sketched for you today one of my own dresses—I mean a dress of my own design and one that I have in my wardrobe, as well. The incrustations around the waist give it that particular supple fit which is so flattering and so modern, and the peau d'ange vestee and cuffs give it that gorgeously elegant and extravagant-looking touch of white. Sometimes I wear just white gloves with this, sometimes when I'm in a gay mood or would like to brighten up a dull mood, I tuck a bright red leather flower which exactly matches my lipstick into the bodice and wear these white gloves with their matching red leather stripes on them. Not a speck more red, though, but a black antelope bag, black suede shoes with a small silver buckle, and the black square-crowned street hat with it's silver buckle. Yes, you may have this dress copied if you wish.

Au revoir.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

TWO HUSBANDS AND A FEW RULES.

DEAR Frances McDonald: Your column always provides something to think about but this week you hit right home when you ask for rules about keeping husbands contented. For there are rules. Our friends all marvel at our happiness and the way we get along, declaring he is the happiest husband they ever saw. And we have been married 11 years and have two children. There's a reason and there are rules. Here goes:

First—Have the home a real home. Make the man comfortable. I notice in my friends' homes chairs and cushions that must be thought of before comfort. The husband must not sit here or must not go there. None of that in our house. He can lie on any cushion and sit in any chair. Result, he never goes out if he can help it.

Second—Feed him not only good food, but the things he likes. Just because your own mother never served some certain dish is no reason you should not if your husband likes it. Yet I hear my friends say they never cook this or that because he is the only one that likes it. That is not fair to a man. If he likes boiled dinner, never mind how it smells up the house—have it. He feels well-cared for when he knows his tastes are thought of. And on the other hand he feels abused and ill-treated when he never gets the things he craves, and is fed whatever some one else decrees.

Third—Don't cause friction. You do not try to drive up hill with brakes on. Use the same sense in marriage. If he bristles at the mention of some person or subject, never mention that subject. If it is his mother, or his former sweetheart, keep out. Yet I notice some of my friends simply can not resist dragging in unpleasant subjects, and making things unpleasant. Then wonder hubbies get mean.

Fourth—Kid him along. Give him some sort of compliment every day of your life. Keep him walking on air. This makes him think of home as one place where he rates 100 per cent. You will find this rule will save the day even if all the above are neglected. Yet I notice my friends belittling their husbands, scoffing at their mistakes, referring to their faults in public. That just takes everything out of a man. I tell mine how cute he looks in the new tie. And always get a big delighted smile.

Fifth—Tell him how much you like being married. And after a while you will mean it! K. P. R.

And Louise has a dark horse to enter in the race. He curls the baby's hair—which ought to count at least 10 points!

Dear Frances McDonald: I just must enter my perfect husband! Have been reading about other perfect husbands, but still think I have the most perfect. He is all Mrs. X says her hubby is but goes a step farther than hers. He gives me the money to bank! If I don't bank any it's O. K. with him. He never asks why and like Molly's hubby he taught me how to cook and what's more can and cheerfully does cook a meal if I don't feel well. We have two girls and daddy can give them their bath and curl their hair just as well as mother. And where did I find such a perfect man? I was a cashier in the cafe where he ate and had seen him every day for two years but had never said any more than good day to him but one rainy night he took me home in his car. We made a date, for we seemed to have so much to talk about. He said he had been waiting for a long time to talk to me but just couldn't seem to get up the nerve. So I broke all rules of mixing business with pleasure, and after a few weeks of romance we took the final step. Hubby said what was the use of wasting any more time now that we had found one another. So that's that! They say marry in haste and repent the rest of your days—but our oldest girl is almost 10 and hubby would rather stay at home with me than go out with the boys. He says he gave the boys up for me and has never thought the boys could take my place again, so does he get first place.

HONORS AND DISTRIBUTION.

THE two things which determine the trick-taking power of a combination of 26 cards at Contract are the honor-trick holding and the distribution. In measuring our hands for a bid, our first yardstick is the honor-trick, as it is the best and most definite information we have at the beginning. Later, through an exchange of bidding, the distribution is disclosed and we sometimes find that aces and kings have lost much of their value. Take as an example the first hand of rubber No. 18, played in my match with Mr. Sidney S. Lenz.

Mr. Lenz

The Bidding.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
			1♠
2NT(1)	3◇(2)	Pass(3)	5◇(4)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A rather strong bid by Mr. Jacoby, but possibly justified from a strategic standpoint. With a spade opening and the continuance of the suit, Mr. Jacoby rightly assumes that he will take at least 7 tricks.

2—Far better than a penalty double. I had no means of knowing that my partner held the ace of diamonds.

3—Certainly the counsel of conservatism. Mr. Lenz could well bid three hearts in view of his partner's strong bidding.

4—Mrs. Culbertson was in no wise deterred by Mr. Jacoby's bid from undertaking a game contract.

In the play, all 13 tricks were actually taken, as Mr. Lenz had no knowledge of Mr. Jacoby's holding and so opened the king of hearts. The spade suit was established to provide discards for the losing clubs.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The two effective measuring sticks in valuing a hand in the bidding are the honor-trick table and the distributional count. The tentative values fixed by the player should be modified, as the bidding discloses distribution.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer questions on bidding and play of hands sent in by readers. Address him in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a 2-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

A BULB GARDEN FOR YOUR WINDOW.

A WINDOW filled with slender hyacinth glasses is extremely decorative. The culture of hyacinths grown in this manner is very simple. Not all varieties are suitable for water culture. So when purchasing your bulbs, always tell your dealer that you mean to grow them in hyacinth glasses. He will then be able to guide your choice.

The first rule to observe when growing these bulbs in water is to place each bulb so that its base merely touches the water; and the second rule is to use only good, clear water for this purpose. Some persons insist on using rain water. This is a mistake. When filled, the glasses should be set in a cool, dark, airy closet, or in the cellar, until filled with roots, when they may be brought into the light.

A piece of charcoal about an inch in diameter, placed in each glass, will keep the water sweet. This will also absorb impurities.

The third rule concerns fresh air. They must have as much fresh air as possible; you may even place the glasses out of doors for two hours on any day if the weather is suitable. We have many sunny days in winter when this is quite possible.

This treatment always induces the foliage to stay dwarf and usually produces a more perfect development of flowers. Hyacinths should be grown in a temperature of not more than 60 degrees until the spikes are developed. To put them at once into a room with a temperature of 70 degrees or over is almost sure to cause them to flower prematurely.

While the bulbs are developing roots it is well to keep them shaded. Always, at all stages of their development, keep them in a cool place. While a window of hyacinths in glasses is decorative, these same bulbs, when placed in a window-box, are much easier to care for. The most necessary thing to do if you would attain a healthy growth in a window-box is to pay more than the usual amount of attention to the matter of drainage. Always use fresh soil in such a window-box, and before adding this, spread fully two inches of broken crocks or pebbles and live moss over the entire bottom of the box.

(Copyright, 1932.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

ATTENTION MATRONS!

The deep V-shape front is probably one of the best means of breaking the breadth through the bodice. The frilled jabot contributes length and a softened effect.

Style No. 143 may be had in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50-inches bust. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Brown sheer woolen with the jabot-collar of self-fabric with the vest of Persian green woolen is lovely for this charming model.

It's stunning in black sheer velvet.

What Today Means to You

"CAPRICORN."

If January 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 12:30 p. m. to 1:50 p. m. and from 7 p. m to 8:40 p m The danger periods are from 11 a m. to noon, and from 9:40 p. m. to 11 p. m.

Astrological influences on January 6 should be beneficial in their effect, and many opportunities will be offered for improvement. Where there has been recent illness or disability, the physical health will improve greatly. An auspicious time for starting new ventures.

The child born on this January 6 will be gentle at heart, a lover of the beautiful, and liable to extremes of emotion. It will have a keen artistic sense, but a poor head for business. It will be very affectionate and demonstrative. It will be fond of reading, and indifferent to sports.

If born January 6, you are bound to push ahead in life because of the following salient points in your character: pluck, push, patience and perseverance. You are not dependent upon any social status into which you may have been born "to get on" in this world, for you have the qualities within which are essential to real success. You are not fettered by false pride, held back by foolish fears, or weakened by self-indulgence. You are a fighter, and will never take a back seat so long as there is a passageway to the front.

Good principles, courteous manners, a kind heart, a humorous tongue, a generous hand, and a winning smile have endeared you to your associates. To know you is to like you. There may be some who fear you as a competitor, but you are hated by none. You are a square shooter in every phase of life, and an obligation to you is something to be paid in full. You are a quick thinker, and your decisions are followed by actions.

Your horoscope reveals that you will move in some sphere that brings you before many people. You will go more by intellect than intuition—your sense of logic is well developed.

Successful People Born January 6.

1. Thomas Chittenden, statesman.
2. Charles Sumner, statesman.
3. James A. Burden, manufacturer.
4. Clarence King, geologist and author.
5. Henry E. Dixey, actor.
6. Joan of Arc, French heroine.

Gov. W. H. Murray To Speak in Capital

"Who Makes the Mind?" His Topic at Ingram Church Jan. 17.

Gov. William Henry Murray of Oklahoma, better known as "Alfalfa Bill," will speak at the Ingram Memorial Congregational Church Sunday night, January 17, it was announced yesterday.

The Western governor has wired that he will speak on "Who Makes the Mind?" His acceptance of the invitation to speak grew out of a correspondence with the church after a letter from him was read at the All Saints' Day service in the church last November.

Many requests for reservations for the address have been received. The church announced last night that reserved seats would be allotted to those applying for them by letter.

21st Successful Year
Columbia Tech Schools
PAUL J. LEVERONE, Principal.
1319 F St. N. W. Met. 5626
Believe it or not—Columbia graduates have filled the Drafting positions in practically all of the U. S. Government Departments and with private concerns such as the Southern Railway, Potomac Electric Power Company, Telephone Company, and others in the City of Washington for the past twenty-one years. The Columbia School of Drafting has started many hundreds of young men and women on the road to a successful career and can help you, too. What better New Year's resolution could one make than to begin a course in Drafting. The Columbia School of Drafting has been the only institution of its kind in the City of Washington for the past twenty-one years. It is the recognized Drafting School. Catalogue will gladly be sent upon request.

Price of KOTEX goes down

KOTEX prices are down. No longer the most remote necessity for dangerous experiment.

No question mark hovers over Kotex. No incessant doubt as to how it was made, where, under what conditions.

Used by great hospitals (24,000,000 pads were dispensed in American hospitals alone last year) Kotex offers the highest standard of purity. Tested and retested materials. Air-washed rooms. Scrupulous inspection. Uniformed workers. Machine-cut, folded, packed.

Why risk a substitute? And, when you buy it wrapped, be quite sure that you do get Kotex.

CHILEAN REDS STAGE PARADE FOR STRIKE

Santiago, Chile, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Communists paraded in the streets of Santiago today in a demonstration demanding a general strike next Monday.

The marchers were estimated at 400, and their demonstration was the first since the government issued a warning on Christmas Day that strikes would be prohibited.

"Down with the civil regime that assassinates workers," said banners in the parade, while others demanded freedom for those arrested in the recent uprising at Copiapo.

Julio Bustamente, intendente of Santiago Province, returned from Atacama Province, of which Copiapo is the capital, with a list of names of alleged leaders in the uprising, and further arrests were expected.

One man was arrested there today on a charge of espionage, detectives saying they found documents on his person belonging to the navy department.

As the first step in political decentralization of the country, the government ordered municipal elections held in April on a date to be set later. Municipal officers now are appointed by the president.

Argentina Revolt Stirs Laugh on Investigation

La Paz, Argentina, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Argentina's original apprehension over Sunday's "revolution" here had been laughed away today as investigation revealed the opera bouffe character of the affair. Ninety-three persons were under arrest, most of them apparently having joined the outbreak reluctantly when leaders recruited passers-by with threats, reinforced with arms.

Sixteen men were reported to have started the outbreak, surprising the police headquarters, in which there were 22 men, some of them asleep. Four policemen were killed before they were aware of what was going on. The leaders then stole 155 pesos and 25 centavos—$40—from the police safe and began seeking supporters in the streets, finding few who were willing.

Bolivia's Red Menace Is Admitted by Officials

La Paz, Bolivia, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Bolivia was faced with a widespread Communist movement, government circles said tonight in expressing alarm over the situation.

Representatives of workers' federation and students appeared before the Senate today and demanded the resignation of Minister of Government Calvo. They also charged that deputies lacked the confidence of the people in passing laws other than those submitted by President Daniel Salamanca.

Good-Will Fliers in Peru.

Lima, Peru, Jan. 5 (U.P.).—The three Brazilian aviators, Capt. Cordeiro and Lieuts. Vidal and Orsini, whose good-will flight through South and Central America ended in Ecuador several months ago when their plane crashed near Quito, have arrived from Guayaquil on their way back to Brazil. The fliers, who have been recovering from injuries, said all plans for continuing the flight had been abandoned.

Six Cuban Rebels Freed.

Havana, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Six leaders in Cuba's August revolution, including Mario G. Menocal, jr., son of the former president, were released from prison yesterday by President Machado. The others were Col. Aurelio Hevia and Col. Roberto Mendez Penate, veterans of Cuba's war for independence; Manuel Hevia, son of the former; Manuel Balan and Alberto Meneses.

Honduran Rebels Attack Town.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—A small group of [illegible] continuing yesterday's revolutionary movement, attacked the town of San Francisco Yojca today and the rebel chief, Col. Teodora Lopez, and a few others were killed.

Asuncion Chamber Aids Government.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Jan. 5 (A.P.). The Chember of Deputies has adopted a resolution to support the policy of the government "with respect to international affairs" in negotiations between Paraguay and Bolivia over the Gran Chaco dispute.

Dutch West Indies Banks Merge.

Willemstad, Dutch West Indies, Jan. 5 (U.P.).—Merger of Maduros Bank, oldest and largest commercial bank of the Dutch West Indies, with Curiels Banks, an important financial institution, is announced.

Brazil Studies Electoral Reforms.

Rio de Janiero, Jan. 5 (U.P.).—The electoral reform project, now being studied by a commission, is said to provide for the secret ballot, proportional representation, and woman suffrage.

Beer Quiz to Go On Without Volstead

Author of Liquor Law Will Not Testify Unless He Is Subpenaed.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Bingham yesterday gave up the idea of having Andrew J. Volstead testify at hearings on increasing the legal alcoholic content of beer after the author of the enforcement law had told him he would appear only in response of a subpena.

Producing an old record in an effort to show that Volstead once said two or "possibly three per cent" might not be intoxicating, Senator Bingham, a Connecticut Republican, invited the former Minnesota representative to testify on Friday, when a Senate manufacturers subcommittee takes up his bill to increase the alcoholic content of beer to 3.2 per cent.

"You will recall," Senator Bingham wrote Volstead, "you told the House rules committee on June 10, 1921, that wine 'might contain one or two or possibly three per cent without being intoxicating.' You later edited your testimony to read 'considerably more' instead of the specific percentage."

It was announced yesterday that Representative W. E. Hull (Republican), Illinois, would be heard by the committee on Saturday.

Simon Sees New Influences Bearing Upon World Peace

British Foreign Secretary Asserts Conviction Is Held That War Preparation Is No Guarantee; Says Public Opinion Is Deciding Foreign Affairs.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

London, Jan. 5 (U.P.).—Sir John Simon, the British foreign secretary and an outstanding figure in preparations for the February disarmament conference, sees two new and encouraging influences toward world peace.

"The first is the conviction all over the world that peace can not be insured by preparing for war," Sir John said.

"The other is the extraordinary degree to which the force of public opinion has become more potent and indirectly decisive in the conduct of foreign affairs. If the mass of people are convinced that piling up of armaments is dangerous, then we are bound to see a change.

"Despite all setbacks and disappointments, there are two new facts which are encouraging. The first is that the people of the world, convinced that peace can not be assured by preparing for war, today may acquiesce in armaments because they do not know how to stop them. In other words, they are willing to cooperate in disarmament, if they can only find out how to do so. This is an immense change in the attitude of the world from the days when it was believed that arms insure peace.

"The other fact is that extraordinary degree to which public opinion influences foreign affairs. I sit in this office, studying the reports of skilled observers from all over Europe. My predecessors would have found that their reports consisted of descriptions of the attitudes and declarations of prominent individuals, the pronouncements of emperors, the declarations of chancellors. And it was the personality of these individuals which determined the course of their country's policy.

"But today, every foreign secretary has discovered that it is the grouping and attention of national feeling which influences events."

Sir John mentioned the forthcoming disarmament conference, to which he said the attitude of nations is "not so much the expression of personal judgment of individuals as the embodiment of widespread and sensitive general judgment on the part of entire populations."

"The use of wireless," he said, "and the rapid communications have not only made the world a sounding board, but they make a spokesman out of a nation. And if the mass of the people are convinced that piling up armaments is not only useless but dangerous, then we are bound to see a change under modern conditions."

4 Boys Hold Town at Bay And Rob Bank of $4,000

Deshler, Ohio, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Overawing officers and citizens who stood in the street nearby, four youths, the oldest hardly out of knee trousers, held up the Deshler State Bank today and escaped toward the Indiana State line with $4,000.

The youths, the oldest not more than 20 and the youngest about 12, drove up to the bank in a roadster and, in wild West fashion, proceeded to rifle the institution while the town marshal and a group of persons stood nearby.

Pulling up in front of the bank, one of the boys fired his shotgun into the air. Three of the youths then dashed into the bank, leaving the fourth, about 12 years old, at the wheel of the car.

They ordered the cashier, H. E. Mounthaven, and his assistant, to lie on the floor. Each then took up a station in the banking room and systematically rifled the cash drawers, taking every piece of money, including pennies.

As they started to leave, Mounthaven attempted to head them off, but a shotgun charge stopped him. The shot went wild.

They ran to their automobile and the youthful driver calmly put the car in gear and drove away.

The holdup was so quickly over that Marshal William Young, standing nearby, unarmed, had no chance to intercept the boys. At least twelve persons watched the robbery.

Poolroom patrons attracted by the shots rushed to the street and one tradesman ran out with a shotgun, but before he could fire the youths had disappeared in the general direction of Fort Wayne, Ind. The machine carried Indiana license plates.

Those standing nearby were so overcome with surprise that they failed to get the license number and their only description was that they were between 12 and 20 years old and wore overalls.

INDIAN CONGRESS MEMBERS ARE ARRESTED BY BRITISH

extraordinary powers, but perhaps more important is the attempts to dry up the sources of the Nationalists' revenue. In the past, wealthy mill owners and merchants have been liberal in their contributions.

While the government mobilized its resources to combat the Nationalist threat, followers of the mahatma kept up their end of the fight by pressing their boycott on British goods in obedience to the order of their imprisoned leader.

Gandhi Issues Appeal.

From his Pooma jail Mr. Gandhi issued an appeal for the support of the Christians of India, urging them to adopt the spinning wheel and homespun garments, and to renounce drink.

"I have full trust," he said, "that in the present struggle you who render your loyalty to one whom you call the prince of peace will not be behind any other community in a struggle which is essentially based on peace."

As an act of reprisal against the arrest of the mahatma and other leaders, the Nationalists decided to boycott the three committees of the round table conference due from London late in the month.

Meanwhile anti-British demonstrations continued, with women "shock troops" playing a prominent part in them. While their husbands and brothers carried on their part of the struggle by fighting against tax payments and by manfacturing illicit salt, the women took over much of the work of inducing the public not to buy British goods and not to purchase liquor or narcotics.

Other Women Take Places.

Arrest immediately followed these activities, for under the new ordinances even peaceful picketing is a penal offense, but other women took the places of the arrested ones.

The viceroy, Lord Willingdon, announced he had canceled plans to go away tomorrow and will remain in New Delhi to keep in close touch with developments.

Another provision was added to the government's emergency decrees — a ban on mock funerals. It was explained its purpose was to prevent agitators from frightening men into joining the Nationalist movement by "dummy burials."

Mrs. Gandhi and Madeline Slade, the mahatma's British-born disciple, made a pilgrimage to his shrine of brotherhood and love at Ahmadabad, expecting later to be arrested on charges of having joined the army of civil resistance. The mahatma has vowed never to return to the shrine until India is free.

CHEST LEADERS FIX GOAL OF CAMPAIGN AT $1,601,000

Telephone Co., who is director of this unit. Mr. Wilson will be assisted in the work by Walter B. Clarkson, vice president of the telephone company, who is acting as vice chairman of the unit, and B. M. Luchs, secretary, as well as by Mr. Koons.

Clarence A. Aspinwall, chairman of the special gifts committee, said that efforts will be made to obtain between $800,000 and $900,000 from prosperous citizens.

1,200 Talks Planned.

A total of 1,200 speaking opportunities will be sought by the Speakers Bureau of the Chest, Joseph E. (Radio Joe) Kaufman, chairman of the bureau, announced. He said that splendid cooperation is being given by radio companies and moving picture theaters.

Plans for the vast amount of publicity to be distributed throughout the city were told by Ernest A. Johnston, advertising manager of The Post and chairman of the publicity division. Approximately 20,000 posters, street car signs and other announcements to be carried by automobiles and trucks will be distributed, Mr. Johnston said.

Three thermometers, one in front of the District Building, another at the Treasury Building and a third at the Patent Office, will tell Washingtonians of progress of the campaign. Newspapers of the city will donate a full page each day for the Chest, Mr. Johnston said.

Paul Benjamin, executive secretary of the District unemployment committee, declared that the chances of 1,600 persons, now temporarily employed, receiving enough on which to sustain themselves in 1932 depends on the success of the Community Chest campaign.

Educational Work.

Sydney F. Taliaferro, former District Commissioner, and chairman of the schools and colleges division, told of how the importance of the work of the Chest is being taught in schools.

Elwood Street, Chest director, explained the situation in Washington as it relates to other cities which he has recently visited. "We are having our taste of the bitter experiences of other cities," he said. "Remember that private contributions from the people of Washington are taking the place of taxation in other cities to help the destitute."

Unpleasant reflections on the work of the Chest were attacked by Mr. Colladay when he made it plain that no one, with the exception of the organization personnel of the Chest at its headquarters, is paid, and that no commissions are given for solicitation.

Detroit Council Votes 10 to 17 Per Cent Cut

Detroit, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The city council tonight voted to reduce the salaries of all city employes from 10 to 17 per cent. Adoption of the ordinance, councilmen estimated, will save $1,300,000 a year.

Councilmen declared the salary cuts insure aid from New York financiers in meeting pay rolls due between now and January 15 for which Controller G. Hall Roosevelt had said funds were not available. The ordinance provides for 10 per cent reductions on salaries of less than $4,000 and from 10 to 17 per cent on salaries over that figure.

Legion Urges Bosses Adopt Five-Day Week

New York, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Employers throughout the Nation were urged tonight by the national employment commission of the American Legion to adopt the five-day week and six-hour day.

The program was advocted as a means of relieving unemployment. It urged that the six-hour-day worker be paid prorate on the basis of the present eight-hour wage, asserting such a policy would enable distribution of work among a greater number of employes.

JAPANESE SPEAKERS TO OPEN G.U. SERIES

Public Lectures Will Start Friday Night; W. W. Yen Also on Program.

Georgetown University will open its annual series of public lectures on international affairs Friday night, at 8:30 o'clock, in Gaston Hall, at the college, with a preliminary study of the Far Eastern situation presented by two distinguished Japanese visitors to this country.

They are Count Ayseke Kabayama, member of the Japanese House of Peers, and one of the leading industrialists of that country, and Takashi Komatsu, director of the newly merged Asano Shipbuilding Co.

With the Manchurian situation presenting the latest serious crisis in international affairs, Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., regent of the Georgetown School of Foreign Service, who is in charge of the lecture series, has extended a general invitation to the public to hear the Japanese explanation of what is going on in the Far East.

At a later date, Dr. Walsh announced, the public study of those questions will be further developed in a lecture to be given by W. W. Yen, the newly appointed Chinese Minister to the United States. This lecture probably will be given early in February.

Count Kabayama was a classmate of former President Coolidge and the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow at Amherst College. He is not a politician, but he was an advisor of the Japanese delegation to the London Naval Conference. He is one of the outstanding business men of Japan.

Being entirely independent of the government, it was said, Count Kabayama and Mr. Komatsu are privileged to speak with the utmost candor on the Manchurian situation, their purpose being to outline what constitutes the bed rock principles of Japanese policy in the Far East.

Their lecture at Georgetown, which inaugurates the series, was arranged by Prof. William F. Sands, of the School of Foreign Service. Owing to the lateness of their arrival in Washington, the university was unable to send out its usual invitations announcing this first presentation.

NEW HUNGER ARMY ON WAY TO CAPITAL

Knoxville, Pittsburgh suburb, aided the priest along with merchants and municipal officials. Idle millworkers, mechanics, clerks and a few professional men mingled with laborers and unskilled workers of a variety.

High-priced machines of modern design, "borrowed" by Father Cox for the march took their place in line with rickety, wheezing little cars and muddy, dilapidated trucks.

At Johnstown, Mayor Eddie McCloskey, one-time pugilist, joined the caravan. He was accompanied by a group of the city's jobless.

Father Cox agreed to lead the march, he said, because he feels it is some one's duty to impress upon Governmental leaders in a sane way the dire straits in which these people and others find themselves.

Every man on the march has a blanket and a six-day food supply. Fifteen truckloads of bread are in line. Hot coffee and soup will be served at various points by civic and fraternal organizations.

The motorcade expects to reach Washington Thursday. At Harrisburg tomorrow the column will be addressed by Gov. Pinchot.

After arrival in Washington, the marchers will go to Arlington National Cemetery and pray at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. The prayer will be that the spirit of the Unknown Soldier will bring realization to Governmental leaders of the distress facing the unemployed.

Later, petitions asking jobs will be presented to President Hoover, the House and the Senate.

Small Police Deputation To Meet Pennsylvanians

A small police deputation will meet the Pennsylvania unemployed caravan as it comes in from Maryland via Wisconsin avenue. The line of lorries will be routed down Wisconsin avenue to Massachusetts avenue. On Massachusets avenue the train of trucks will go to Twenty-second street, on Twenty-second street to Virginia avenue, on Virginia avenue to Constitution avenue, on Constitution avenue to Twelfth street, on Twelfth street to Virginia avenue, and thence to the Botanical Gardens at the foot of Capitol Hill.

The trucks of the Pennsylvanians will be arrayed around the Botanical Gardens and the vicinity until the demonstrators leave the city. They will proceed quietly on foot to the Capitol if Congress is in session at the time of their arrival, present their petitions and shortly begin their exodus, according to police advices.

No drain on the city's relief sources will be made.

French Naval Budget Set at $22,500,000

Paris, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The French naval budget presented tonight by the finance committee of the Chamber of Deputies calls for expenditure of $22,500,000 during nine months.

Of the total, 54,000,000 francs is allotted to the fleet in service; 15,000,000 for the Navy's land establishments, and the balance for ordinary running expenses.

Partisan of Pilsudski Takes Life by Hanging

Warsaw, Poland, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Thaddeus Warynski, 40, a deputy in the Sejm and a member of the government party, committed suicide today by hanging.

Warynski had advocated an increase in Minister of War Pilsudski's dictatorial powers. His father was one of the leading exponents of socialism in Europe in the early part of the century. He died in a Russian prison.

RUST FIRES ATTACK ON MAPES TAX PLAN

Tells Arlington Federation He Will Aid New County Form of Government.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 809. Clarendon, Va.

With the eyes of the State upon Arlington County as it launched upon its new form of county government, State Senator-elect John W. Rust, of Fairfax County, addressing the Arlington County Civic Federation last night, assured its members that as their representative in the State Senate he will try to get for them all legislation to make the new form of government most effective.

"I am interested in a most economic form of government for both State and counties," he said.

Mr. Rust says he feels confident that at the session of the General Assembly, which convenes next week, many matters will come up looking to a more economic form of government for the State as a whole.

Being interested in the welfare of Virginia as one of its native sons, Mr. Rust says many matters can be changed in Virginia that will be for its best interest.

Mr. Rust declared the Mapes bill very unfair. It is taxation and more taxation, he said.

Aroused because two huge signboards are being constructed at Wilson boulevard and Glebe road, Thomas J. Crack sought immediate action.

Crack said he had been advised by Judge B. M. Hedrick, former member of the county board of supervisors from Arlington District, informing him no permit had been granted. On the other hand, he says that C. L. Kinnier, directing engineer, claims the permit had been granted.

President Robert N. Anderson announced that a special committee will call upon County Manager Roy S. Braden today in an effort to have the signs removed.

In December 311 deeds were recorded in the Arlington County clerk's office, according to the monthly report yesterday. The tax to the State amounted to $768.24.

Other items in the report are: Wills, 8; State tax, $27.70; chancery suits, 17; State tax, $25.50; actions at law, 21; State tax, $33. Fines collected for violations of the prohibition law amounted to $260, with costs totaling $360.30; fines collected in cases other than prohibition amounted to $76.25, with costs amounting to $107.75.

Delinquent real estate taxes collected during the month, going to the State treasurer, amounted to $132.51; to the county treasurer, $1,169.30.

Prairie Wolf With City Ambition Taken Home

The 18-month-old prairie wolf that wandered unconcernedly down Sixteenth street early Monday, having left his home in Silver Spring for the attractions of the larger city, is safely back at the residence of his owner, George L. Van Horn.

While Van Horn was organizing a pack of hounds to trail the animal, Gordon Rains, of 1729 Church street, had captured the "wolf" and taken it to his home. Here the supposedly dangerous animal which had already become domesticated quietly awaited for the owner to call. Last night Van Horn came and took the animal back home.

Commissioners Favor Blair as Street Name

The District Commissioners yesterday indorsed the bill which would name the extreme upper end of Sixteenth street northwest in honor of Montgomery Blair, Postmaster General in President Lincoln's Cabinet, in a report made to the Senate and House District committees.

They suggested, however, that the name be Montgomery Blair portal rather than Montgomery Blair place or circle, as proposed in the bill. The change in wording, it was said, had the approval of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Driver Is Indicted In Tragedy Crash

Baltimore Truckman Held to Prince Georges Grand Jury.

Harry C. Inimer, jr., of Baltimore, was held for the Prince Georges County grand jury Tuesday night on recommendation of a coroner's jury which inquired into he death of Preston Eugene Ruby, 34, of Bradbury Heights, Md., who died several days after an automobile acident on the Baltimore boulevard at Beltsville.

According to testimony, Inimer was driver of a truck which pulled across the road, causing Howard Norton, driver of the car in which Ruby was riding, to put on his brakes. The car driven by Norton, who also lives in Bradbury Heights, skidded. The rumble seat, in which Ruby was seated, slid under the overhanging part of the truck, crushing Ruby's body. He died five days later, on December 27, in a Washington hospital.

Judge George S. Phillips, who impaneled the jury, issued a manslaughter warrant for Inimer after the jury's finding. The truck driver was held in bond of $500. Both he and Norton are free on their personal bond on charges of reckless driving, which will be tried tomorrow in Hyattsville Police Court.

Yeggs Blow Postoffice Safe, But Get No Money

Take $10 in Stamps and Escape Toward Washington in Stolen Car After Fairfax Station, Va., "Job" Is Interrupted.

Safe blowers made an unprofitable venture early yesterday when they blew the safe and wrecked the interior of the general store and postoffice at Fairfax Station on the Southern Railway in Fairfax County, Va. They got away with about $10 in stamps before they were forced to flee in the darkness after abandoning a large new sedan. The automobile was caught in the mire in a side road about a quarter of a mile from the postoffice.

Nearby residents were awakened by a terrific explosion, shortly after 1:30 o'clock. Those living near rushed out to see lights in the building and indistinct figures moving about. O. W. Chesley, who lives across the street raised a window and fired a gun at the store. The robbers becoming alarmed, fled through the rear door, making their way through the fields and bushes to the car. Citizens notified Sheriff E. P. Kirby at Fairfax about three miles away.

Arriving at the postoffice the sheriff found the outer portion of the heavy double safe blown to shreds by a charge of nitroglycerin. The small inner safe containing the money and major portion of stamps resisted the explosion but was lying near the front door from which the lock had been pried. The blast had been timed to coincide with the passing of two freight trains but it was of such force that it awoke residents of the vicinity.

Leaving an armed man on guard the sheriff went to the abandoned car, where he found an overcoat which had been placed under the wheel to help it out of the ditch. Other articles of clothing were nearby. In the pocket of the coat were a number of pennies that had been taken from the open cash register in the store. The car bore Maryland license plates. Police of Washington and Baltimore were notified and a wide search was instituted.

It was learned that the car had been purchased in Baltimore just before Christmas. The purchaser paid cash for it, taking a bill of sale and obtaining title under a fictitious name and address. Railroads were watched until it was discovered that the car of Mrs. James Dove, of Burke, about 4 miles away, had been stolen some time after midnight from a garage in the rear of her home. At daybreak police traced the robbers on their flight toward Washington. Police lost track of them near Annandale, Va.

Washington police and postal inspectors obtained numerous fingerprints from the safe and abandoned automobile. They expressed the opinion that the safe-cracking was the work of amateurs. A complete description of the four safe-crackers was furnished the police by persons living across the street from the postoffice who watched them work over the smaller safe.

Yesterday evening Sheriff Kirby was notified by F. Sheilds McCandlish, of Fairfax, attorney for James Wykoff, owner of the store, that he was filing an attachment against the robber's car for damages to his safe and store amounting to about $700.

Eddington, chaplain.

The historian, Mrs. Klipstein, presented a historical program, with the reading of a poem on Stonewall Jackson, "Under the Shade of the Trees," by Miss Kroes Ficklin, and a short reading on Gen. Robert E. Lee as a college president, by Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson. Mrs. Klipstein reported the interest displayed in the local high schools on writing an essay on Gen. Lee, and was appointed chairman of a committee to judge the submitted essays, the winners in the schools to receive a medal from the chapter. Miss Edna H. Alexander and Mrs. Shepperson complete the committee.

The annual banquet to the members of Robert E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans, in celebration of the birthday of Gen. Lee, January 19, will be in charge of Mrs. Howell and members of the chapter.

Hyattsville Justice's Hearing Is Postponed

A preliminary hearing for Justice of the Peace John A. Downing, of Hyattsville, on charges of malfeasance in office has been postponed to January 11, at 10 o'clock.

At the time of his arrest, the hearing, to be held by Judge Thomas D. Griffith in Forestville, Md., was scheduled for tonight. Judge Downing is said to have blocked the efforts of two bondsmen to procure the release on bail of a prisoner held in Hyattsville.

ROAD AND SCHOOL BONDS AUTHORIZED

Montgomery County Plans $1,000,000 Issue; Court Report Is Made.

Issuance of bonds totaling $1,000,000 for road and school construction in 1932 was authorized yesterday by Montgomery County Commissioners at their meeting in Rockville, Md. The bonds have been authorized by the Maryland General Assembly and approved by the Montgomery County Civic Federation and the Montgomery Government Club.

Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners, was directed to prepare the schedule of payment for the issue. Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, of counsel to the county commissioners, will prepare the necessary resolutions. It is expected the bond issue will be formally offered for sale at the meeting of the board tomorrow.

Wall Contract Let.

The commissioners awarded the contract for construction of a retaining wall around the new courthouse at Rockville to the Consolidated Concrete & Terrazza Corporation of Baltimore, which offered the low bid of $1,450.40, and completion of the project in 20 days. The commissioners also awarded a contract for planting several trees on the courthouse square to Gude Brothers, low bidders.

County Commissioner W. Frank Ricketts, in charge of the courthouse, was authorized to buy additional equipment for the new health department office and laboratory in the courthouse. Expenditure of $2,000 for equipment previously had been authorized, but this did not quite cover the needed equipment.

Sheriff Richard H. Lansdale reported to the commissioners that he had collected costs amounting to $173.88 in civil cases in December.

Parent-Teachers Meet Tonight.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Woodrow Wilson School will hold its regular meeting tonight in the auditorium of the school building. All patrons are urged to attend, as plans for the year's activities will be considered.

Slain Fugitive Inquest To Be Held January 14

An inquest will be held January 14, at Forestville, Md., over William Kinsbury, colored, who died in Casualty Hospital Monday, 10 days after having been shot in the abdomen by Roger B. Oursler, a Prince Georges County constable.

A coroner's jury was impaneled yesterday by Judge Thomas D. Griffith, and was brought to Washington to view the body. Oursler shot the man after he had reached for his hip pocket and started to run. Earlier, occupants of an auto in which Kingsbury had been riding had fired at the policeman's car and punctured a tire during a chase.

Two Bystanders Hurt As Truck Overturns

When a heavy truck struck and overturned a disabled car parked on the Baltimore boulevard near College Park, Md., yesterday, two men who were standing beside the auto were slightly injured. At Sibley Hospital where they were treated for lacerations and bruises, they gave their names as Pedro Mayo, of Washington, and William Emmett, of Bel Air, Md.

According to County Policeman Arthur Brown, who investigated the crash, Gilbert Bruso, of New York City, was the driver of the truck, which was loaded with fruit.

Arlington Kiwanians Meet Today.

The Arlington County Kiwanis Club will hold its weekly meeting today at 12:30 o'clock at the Little Tea House, Mount Vernon avenue. All members are urged to attend, as a special program has been arranged.

A Cold

Colds are common because people are careless. Prompt use of aspirin will always check a cold. Or relieve your cold at any stage. And genuine aspirin can't hurt you. Take two tablets of Bayer Aspirin at the first indication of a cold, and that's usually the end of it. If every symptom hasn't disappeared in a few hours, repeat. Bayer Aspirin does not depress the heart. Take enough to give complete relief. And if your throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in water and gargle away all soreness. In every package of genuine Bayer Aspirin are proven directions for colds, headaches, sore throat, neuralgia, neuritis. Millions who used to suffer from these things have found winter comfort in aspirin.

FIREMAN IS INJURED IN GLEN ECHO BLAZE

2,000 Persons See Fire Level Former Roadhouse, Once Gambling Resort.

A fireman was injured last night in battling flames which quickly demolished a historic fourteen-room hous on Conduit road, three-quarters of a mile beyond the District line. Five fire companies answered alarms to the blaze, including one from the District, and leaping flames brought a crowd of about 2,000 to line the road.

The first burst of flame was noted by a passerby shortly before 9 o'clock at the place which lately was the "Silver Spider," a roadhouse padlocked after a raid by Montgomery County police about a year ago.

Fireman Fred Evans, of the Cabin John Park Fire Department, was lacerated about the knee and wrist in fighting the blaze. He was given first-aid treatment at the scene.

The blaze was a real baptism of fire for Edward Boswell, of the Glen Echo department. The Glen Echo Fire Board was in session and had just elected Boswell as the new chief when the alarm was sounded. The new chief knew nothing of the election until he reached the scene of the blaze and was notified by retiring Chief Max Arnold.

The Bethesda department was enjoying a banquet at the Bethesda Woman's Club on Old Georgetown road. Dinner had just been completed when the alarm sounded and the firemen abandoned speechmkaing for fire fighting.

Other companies called to the blaze included one from Chevy Chase and No. 29 Engine Co. from the District.

The building was about 50 years old and was once famous as a gambling place.

Directors of Bank Reelected.

All directors of the Takoma Park Bank were reelected at the annual meeting of stockholders held yesterday. They are: Louis D. Bliss, L. D Burdette, David Feldman, Donald Clagett, Lacy Shaw, John L. Shaw, H. P. Taff, E. Brooke Lee, H. H. Cobban, Doran S. Platt, H. E. Rogers, W. K. Hill and E. V. Crittenden.

Arlington's Republican Women Will Pick Slate

Plans for the new year got off to a good start at a well-attended meeting of the League of Republican Women of Arlington County last night in the Rucker Building at Clarendon. The president, Mrs. C. W. Harris, presided.

A nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Wilda McNemar, Mrs. Eva Fay Pumphrey and Mrs. A. Gertrude Dawson, was appointed to prepare a slate of officers. The election will be held at the April meeting. Plans for the annual banquet were discussed.

MARYLANDERS SEEK ROAD IMPROVEMENT

Prince Georges Commission Petitioned by Three Communities.

Three petitions for improvement of roads in nearby Maryland were presented to Prince Georges County Commissioners at their meeting yesterday. All three requests were filed until the board makes up its schedule of road work for 1932.

Charles Marbury appeared to back up the request for a gravel road from Floral Park, near T. B. to Piscataway, a stretch five miles long. The Lanham-Severn Road Association asked that construction of this highway be included in the list of next year's work, and a petition asking for the improvement of 2.2 miles of the Wheeler road in Oxon Hill District also was received.

The extradition of Peter Abbott, charged with the murder of Grover Amick during the holdup of a Bladensburg roadhouse, cost $122, according to a bill submitted. This included a number of trips into Pennsylvania, where Abbott was arrested, and the transportation of witnesses who identified him.

Raymond W. Bellamy, of Cheverly, wrote the commissioners suggesting that minors be barred from inquests where the testimony is of a delicate nature, and that police court audiences rise when Judge J. Chew Sheriff enters. The board approved both suggestions, and sent the letter to the county police force to have them enforced.

Fairfax Fireman Hurt in Car Crash

Injured En Route to Blaze When His Auto Strikes Another Unlighted.

Samuel Sisson, jr., a member of the Volunteer Fire Department, of Fairfax, Va., was badly injured last night when his car struck an unlighted automobile on the Little River turnpike near Fairfax and overturned.

According to witnesses, an alarm had been turned in to the department and Sisson was closely following the fire engine. Suddenly an unlighted car loomed ahead and the fire engine, traveling at a high rate of speed, barely swerved to miss it. Sisson sideswiped the car and overturned in a ditch, cutting his left arm below the elbow. His father, a passenger in his car, escaped injury.

The fire was at the home of Beverly Hummer, at Lincolnia. Members of the department stated that an automobile and a garage belonging to Hummer was destroyed, together with a large number of tools. The damage was estimated to be about $2,000.

Town May Clean Lots At Owners' Expense

First steps to force owners of littered vacant lots in Mount Rainier, Md., to clear them of rubbish was taken at a recent meeting of the town council, when Town Attorney Bird H Dolby was directed to draft an ordinance giving the town power to have them cleaned and the cost charged to the owner's tax bill.

This power will be used, however, only when owners ignore notices to clear their property. The order was passed on motion of Councilman Floyd B. Mathias, who said that one unsightly lot often would nullify the efforts of other property owners to keep their street in a neat condition.

Montgomery Job Survey Is Opened

Social Service League's Workers Begin Task of Listing Needy.

The unemployment committee of the Social Service League of Montgomery County yesterday got under way in its survey of unemployment conditions in the county. The branch committees of the Social Service League are conducting the investigation. The survey is making an intensive drive to list every unemployed or underemployed person in the county in order that a definite idea of the situation can be obtained by the committee.

Also Mrs. Paul B. Dunbar, Somerset; Mrs. Lawson King, Gaithersburg; State's Attorney Stedman Prescott, Rockville; George W. Davis, Silver Spring; Mrs. A. B. Beall, Ashton; the Rev. G. H. Crook, Poolesville; Mrs. Paul Wire, Clarksburg, and Harold Bradford, Colesville.

County G. O. P. Club Will Hear Whitlock

Douglas Whitlock, of Washington, national president of the Young Republican Club, will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Arlington County Republican Club, which will be held tonight in Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon. He will speak on "Republicanism and Organization."

The by-laws under which the reorganization program of the club will be adopted, Dr. Victor Meyer, president, has announced.

Firemen to Scan Budget Tonight.

The board of directors of Arlington Volunteer Fire Department will meet tonight at 7 o'clock, when the annual budget and plans for raising funds for the year will be discussed. Following the meeting the department will install the new officers.

WOMAN'S ATTACKER GETS 16-YEAR TERM

Guns of Guards Bristle at Trial of Man Accused by Farmer's Wife.

Elkton, Md., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—In a courtroom guarded by the bristling muzzles of machine guns and rifles, George Davis, 28-year-old Negro, today was found guilty of attempted criminal attack on a white woman and sentenced to sixteen years in the State Penitentiary.

Immediately after sentence was passed the Negro was taken under escort of a score of State police and a twelve-man riot squad of the Baltimore Police Department, to Baltimore to begin serving the sentence.

The verdict of guilty was returned by the three judges of the circuit, sitting without a jury, after 55 minutes deliberation. They disregarded the State's plea for the death sentence, which may be imposed in cases of attempted criminal attack.

Davis was accused of attempting to assault Mrs. Elizabeth Lusby, 25, wife of a Kent County farmer, while her husband, Edgar, was absent on another part of the farm. A confession, signed by the Negro after his arrest, was the principal item of State evidence.

The Negro was brought here for trial early today from the Baltimore City Jail, where he had been held for safe keeping ever since Eastern Shore officials balked mob efforts to gain possession of him, which went to the lengths of searching three county jails.

The State and Baltimore City police guard was ordered to the trial, brought here on a change of venue by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, on appeal of Cecil County authorities. Although a crowd of several hundred persons, unable to gain admittance to the small courtroom, milled about the courthouse, no demonstration was staged.

Mrs. Hoadley to Head Chevy Chase Y.W.C.A.

Mrs. Frank M. Hoadley was elected president of the Chevy Chase (Md.) Young Women's Christian Association at its annual meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. Harold E. Doyle. Other officers elected were: Mrs. Edward G. Yonker, vice president; Mrs. Lewis H. Russell, recording secretary; Mrs. Henry DeC. Adams, corresponding secretary, and Miss Eunice Hayes Heck, reelected treasurer.

Miss Mary Bainbridge Hayden, who recently returned from two years as Associated Press correspondent at Geneva and in Germany, told the meeting that budgetary control and the equality of Germany will be the outstanding question at the disarmament conference next month in Geneva. Mrs. Heck, treasurer, reported that there are 209 members of the group in good standing and that $1,991 had been expended in 1931.

'IL TROVATORE' WINS OVATION OF CAPITAL

Favorite Is Well Received; Double Bill Arranged for Today.

Verdi's perennial favorite, "Il Trovatore," last night drew to the new National Theater a much larger house than on Monday, to hear the Cosmopolitan Grand Opera Company of New York give an admirable performance of this grand opera.

The favorate comments on Monday's presentation of "Rigoletto" had aroused Washington to the fact that in its midst now are a group of musical pilgrims who deserve the attention of every music lover in the city.

Last night's opera was given under the local management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

Washingtonians were glad to welcome back Ivan Ivantzoff as Manrico, whose previous appearances here had won him many friends in the Capital. Mr. Ivantzoff has a wide operatic repertoire and sang one of his favorite roles last night. His acting and his mellow voice are tremendous assets to him in any opera, and the audience showed its pleasure both at his histrionic and vocal abilities by encoring him vigorously after several of his leading arias.

Taken Suddenly Ill.

At the last minute Bianca Saroya, who was cast for the leading feminine role of Leonora, was taken suddenly ill and without any chance for special preparation this role was admirably assumed by Anna Leskaya, who acquitted herself in a most creditable manner in her unexpected prima donnaship.

Anna Leskaya has a voice of much natural beauty which has been well trained and she is a good actress, as well. Beyond a slight nervousness at the opening of the opera, which soon wore off, she gave a finished performance of the role so suddenly thrust upon her. She shared honors decidedly with Ivantzoff, but was closely pressed for the feminine laurels by Dreda Aves as Azucena, whose dramatic ability was augmented by a voice of real beauty and charm.

In "Il Trovatore" these two women carry the principal burden for the women of the cast. They found splendid support in the singing and appearance of Alice Gali as Inez.

Mario Valle, as Count di Luna, was effective, both as to voice and acting. Other principals who deserve honorable mention for their contributions to the presentation were Amund Sjovik as Ferrando, Francesco Curci as Ruiz and Luigi Dalle Mille who took the part of a gypsy exceptionally well.

Samossoud Again Scores.

Mr. Sammossoud covered himself with glory again as conductor and artistic director of the opera. Verdi's music in "Il Trovatore" demands a great deal from the orchestra, and under Mr. Samossoud's impressive and scholarly reading of the score this was answered in a way greatly appreciated by the audience as shown in the ovations given Mr. Samossoud every time he appeared in the conductor's box.

The ensemble, appropriately costumed in scenes that were handsomely mounted, gave a good account of itself.

There will be a double bill today. Charles Gounod's opera "Romeo and Juliet," being sung in French at the matinee performance and the double bill of Humperdinck's Opera "Hansel and Gretel" and Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" being sung at the night performance. E. E. P.

EUROPE BUYING BACK BONDS; DILLON SAYS

the public?" asked Senator Tom Connally, of Texas.

"Ninety," said Mr. Dillon.

Price and Worth Differ.

"And now they are worth between $10 and $20?" asked Connally.

"No," said Mr. Dillon, sharply; "they are selling at that quotation."

"You make a distinction between price and worth?"

"I do, yes," said Mr. Dillon.

Mr. Dillon read a formal statement at the opening of his testimony, dividing foreign debts into three categories:

1. Owed to institutions or individuals of one country by institutions or individuals of another.

2. Owed by governments, national or municipal, to institutions or individuals of another country.

3. Owed by one government to another.

The first class, Mr. Dillon said, would be paid unless "some extraordinary political or economic forces make it impossible."

The second class, he said, were susceptible to political influence. But he thought they would be paid, commenting: "If you can not assume that, then there is no basis left for the continuation of our civilization."

Expediency Controls Debt.

"As to the third," he said, "the debts between governments, these have always been in a different class. Nations have not paid nations so much from the sanctity of the obligation as from the expediency of the moment. Whether these debts are paid or not is a political question, primarily, in every country. If they are large enough they usually have a reflex on other debts, and each country must consider what repercussions its handling of these debts will have on its own situation."

This expressed succinctly the view stated by preceding witnesses.

Mr. Dillon said his company had floated $1,491,228,543 in foreign bonds. Of these, $270,918,000 were sold in foreign countries at the time of issue, in addition to those that may have been bought back since by the borrowers themselves.

No European loans were in default, he said. Besides the Brazilian issue, on which a moratorium has been declared, he said, a $37,000,000 Bolivian loan was in default.

Unaware of Bribe Charges.

He denied having heard of charges, of which Senator Johnson asked him, that a Bolivian official accepted a $40,000 bribe in connection with the loan or that an official in Milan, Italy, had accepted a bribe in connection with another Dillon, Read loan.

Witnesses yesterday afternoon were E. Carlton Granbery, vice chairman of Chase-Harris Forbes Corporation, and Chandler P. Anderson, jr., vice president of the corporation. They continued a review of their foreign loans. Today's witness will be James Speyer, New York international banker.

About The Showshops

With NELSON B. BELL.

WHATEVER else Mr. Dan Totheroh may have done, or failed to do, in placing his new play of "Distant Drums" before the public, he certainly has precipitated a vast amount of local discussion as to the exact nature of Eunice Wolfhill, his stellar character, impersonated by Pauline Lord, at the Belasco Theater.

Never before, I think, has this department ever encountered an instance in which the entire import of drama might be so completely altered by comparatively slight changes in a single role as is the case here. By the addition of a few "sides" to Miss Lord's part—and it is not so exacting a role that a few more lines would be a burden to an actress of her proved capabilities—the figure Miss Lord impersonates might be made unequivocally a monument of self-abnegation and sacrificial service to humanity, or as easily a symbol of psychological perversion, fascinated and lured by the weird tribal customs of the Indian.

As the play was enacted for the first time upon any stage Monday night, I frankly confess to a complete and annoying inability to determine which was intended.

Perhaps, after all, this ambiguity was the chief aim of the author. There have been both books and plays not infrequently before that have prospered as a result of a similar indecisiveness and the public discussion which it has occasioned.

If this, by any chance, was Mr. Totheroh's aim, he is to be applauded for an all-embracing and triumphant success.

That all might not have been well with the company's notion of its own performance Monday night was indicated after the conclusion of the final act, when the curtain at least once, in response to belated applause, rose and descended upon an empty stage to which no star or supporting player came to take a bow.

There were those during the evening, however, who had the presence of mind to conceal what otherwise might have been marring defects of a conspicuously smooth first performance. Beulah Bondi, for instance, by stepping between the audience and the difficulty, avoided an awkward betrayal of momentary trouble when sufficient clearance had not been left to permit the bier of "Grandma" Briggs to be carried offstage without serious mishap. Throughout the performance she was a tower of strength to her associates on the stage as well as to Mr. McClintic, the producer, and his stage manager, who were not visible.

By a last minute change in bookings, the screen attraction at the Earle next week will be "Forbidden," featuring Barbara Stanwyck, Adolph Menjou and Ralph Bellamy, instead of Clive Brook, Juliette Compton, et al., in "Husband's Holiday," as at first announced.

While "Peaches" Browning, young wife of the millionaire New York real estate operator, coming to the Gayety on Sunday, has never before appeared upon a Washington stage, there are, nevertheless, many in the Capital who are familiar with her theatrical accomplishments through having seen her during her summer engagements as a cabaret artiste in Atlantic City. Her first engagement at the seashore was marked by the constant attendance of milling mobs that made police protection for her necessary every time she set foot upon the Boardwalk.

Another prospective early booking at the Chesterfieldian Mr. Jimmy Lake's Ninth street tabernacle of the varieties is "Kiki" Roberts, late inamorata of the violently deceased Mr. Jack "Lega" Diamond, recently expunged after several futile attempts by some heavy cannonading up Albany way.

Mr. James Lundy, cymbal-whanger-in-chief of the loewcal Loew enterprises, has resumed his official duties in the Capital, following a fortnight's furlough, spent with Mrs. Lundy in their native State of Jawjaw, suh.

It is hardly to be expected that two youngsters only a few years apart in the same family both should awake to find their histrionic talents ignited by the spark of genius. So perhaps it isn't the fair thing to expect too much in the way of inspired miming from the extremely juvenile Master Bobby Coogan just because Big Brother Jackie was able to give so noble an account of himself at approximately the same age.

In "Sooky," currently on view at the Palace, Master Bobby offers a colossal improvement over his pathetically inadequate essay of the many bewildering lines that were miles over his head in "Skippy," but, even so, leaves much to be desired in the simulation of natural small boyhood.

But remember that Bobby can not possibly learn his speeches from type and must acquire them from many oral repetitions. The fault is less little Bobby's than of his elders who are forcing him into roles that are too "fat" for his mental years.

Reverting once more briefly to "Distant Drums," there are two items of superiority in the Totheroh play that should not be passed over too lightly. One is the exceedingly realistic effect Jo Mielziner has achieved in his representation of the wagon camps that form the locales of the three acts; the other, the extreme skill with which the author has developed a situation in which a simple scene of prayer at the end of the second act furnishes the most emotionally thrilling period of his play.

Sidney Fox, apropos of nothing whatever that I can think of at the moment, before coming to the screen—hurry to the Rialto if you have not already seen her opposite Paul Lukas, with Lewis S. Stone hovering close about, in "Strictly Dishonorable"—spent two years on the so-called legitimate stage. Prior to that she was a stenographer in a sedate law office, and before that, of all things, advice-to-the-lovelorn editor in a newspaper office!

Remember 'way back in '31, when we had the depression?

TED SHAWN SCORES BRILLIANT SUCCESS

Large Audience at Central High Is Enthusiastic in Reception.

Ted Shawn and his corps of dancers last night scored the outstanding success of the Community Institute season, presenting in the Central High School auditorium a program of interpretive dancing before a large and highly enthusiastic audience.

From the opening "Dance of Greeting" through Strauss' waltz finale, there is paraded a wide variety of themes: from the weird aboriginal dances of the American Indians, through lilting folk dances of America and middle Europe to a delightful square dance of the 1850's. Mr. Shawn's first number is based on Lincke's "Frohsinn," and from then to the concluding waltz number, his personality dominates the scene.

Pantomime Outstanding.

Without a doubt the outstanding performance of the evening was Mr. Shawn's pantomime portraying the revelation of truth to Saint Francis, "O Brother Sun and Sister Moon," a gorgeously staged number with a masterful handling of lights which enhanced the sheer beauty of the dance. A group of four American folk tunes, the Zuni ghost dance and three Spanish flamenco routines composed the star's assignment, together with major parts in a "music visualization" of Brahms' "Rhapsody" and "Bavarian Holiday," based on native airs.

Ably supporting Mr. Shawn in solo parts were Regenia Beck, in three charming mignardises, and Anna Austin, in a characteristic Spanish number, who also joined with him in rendering "Bavarian Holiday." The other eight members contribute excellent numbers, including Ganne's "Dance of the Redeemed," Brahms's "Intermezzo," the Osage-Pawnee dance, workers' songs of Middle Europe, with the entire company joining for the Strauss finale.

Credit to Mary Campbell.

Set against austere gray drapes, cross lighted from the wings, and costumed with delightful simplicity, the parade of dances left nothing to be desired, the consummate artistry of the company transcending such mundane considerations as mounting. To Mary Cambell at the piano must go no little credit for her well-played accompaniments so telling interpreted by the dancers.

The entire program will linger fondly and long in the memories of those present, with the inspired delineation of Saint Francis by Mr. Shawn always surging to the fore as one of the finest examples of interpretation dancing ever offered in the name of Terpsichore.

Commission Denies Bus Terminal Plea

Refuses Request Because Location Sought Is in Congested Zone.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday disapproved of the first formal application to erect an interstate bus terminal because the location sought is in the congested zone, from which interstate buses are to be barred in April.

R. L. Johnston, of the Federal Sanitary Corporation, Washington, proposed to build a terminal off of D street between Eighth and Ninth streets northwest. The upper floors would be devoted to parking space for downtown merchants, he said, and money was available to construct the depot at once.

The Washington Rapid Transit Co. was granted permission to operate its two double-deck buses with only one man, instead of two, providing the change does not result in the discharge of any employes.

Officers Elected By Ivriah Society

Mrs. Henry Oxenburg New President; Speakers Are Heard.

Election of officers was held last night at a mass meeting of the Ivriah Women's Society of the Jewish Education Association at the Jewish Community Center.

Mrs. Henry Oxenburg was elected president. Others were Mrs. Tonias Nastalin, first vice president; Mrs. Jack Veax, second vice president; Mrs. D. Margolies, third vice president; Mrs. Moe Offenberg, treasurer, and Mrs. Clara Wiseman, secretary.

Speakers at the meeting included Ben Zion Amanual, of the Central School of the Jewish Education Association; Bernard Danzansky, president of the organization; Mrs. Herman Hollander and Dr. Michael Zarchin, executive director. Mrs. Dave Alpher, president of the Women's Society, presided.

Smuggler Kills Officer, Family of 5 and Self

Beja, Portugal, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Antonia Dias Matos, notorious smuggler, took his own life today after killing his family of five and a police commander who had come to arrest him. After fatally wounding members of his family, the smuggler barricaded himself in his home, from which he shot a policeman.

A machine gun attack failed to dislodge him and he shot the police commander who approached to call for his surrender. The battle lasted seven hours and several hundred rounds of ammunition were fired before troops finally battered down the door in a bayonet attack, to find the smuggler a suicide.

Son Born to English Lord, 72.

Chicago, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Edwin Campbell Biddulph Arnold, 8-pound son of an English lord, was born in a Chicago hospital last night. The father, Lord Julian B. Arnold, 72, is an author and lecturer and is the son of the late Sir Edwin Arnold. His wife is 35.

Gold Star Mothers To Admit Fathers

Parents of the Soldiers of Allied Forces Are to Be Eligible.

The American Gold Star Mothers, meeting last night at Hamilton Hotel, decided to admit American mothers of sons and daughters who died while serving in any of the allied armies. Previously, only those whose children served in the United States forces were admitted. Fathers, under the new law, will be admitted as honorary members. The new admission rule will affect chapters in 38 States.

Mrs. R. E. Jacobs, custodian of records, announced she had sent a copy of a story on the monument to the 316th Regiment, United States Expeditionary Forces, in Verdun, published in the magazine section of The Post of Sunday, January 3, to William S. Brewer, editor and publisher of the United Veterans Service Magazine, asking his support in a campaign to restore the original inscription on the memorial.

Reports were made on work on behalf of veterans in hospitals and welfare work for Veterans of Foreign Wars. An invitation from the American Legion to occupy a box at the legion ball, January 11, at the Mayflower, was accepted. The mothers also accepted an invitation from the Fraternal Order of Eagles to attend a meeting Monday night at Arlington Hotel.

Mrs. Mary K. Killeen, national first vice president, presided, in the absence of the national president, Mrs. George Gordon Seibold, who is ill.

Efforts to Block Remodeling Fail

Five efforts to block remodeling the old House Office Building via the amendment route failed yesterday during House reading of the first deficiency bill.

The Byrns appropriations committee reported a $760,000 item for reconstructing the building to give junior representatives the same facilities offered senior members in the new office building.

Representative James A. Frear (Republican), Wisconsin, led the fight against the improvement, and vainly called for a roll call when his amendment to cut the appropriation to $60,000 was defeated.

Other amendments voted down included a proposal to strike out the entire appropriation, another to appropriate only enough to provide connecting doors to offices in the old building, another to cut in half the fee paid the architect, and a fifth to cut in half the estimate of $400,000 for completing the new office building.

Banquets Over U.S. To Boost Business

Strawn Speech Here to Be Broadcast to Other Diners Friday.

Banquets all over the country will be attended simultaneously by more than a million guests Friday night as part of a program of the "America at Work" movement sponsored by the various civic organizations of the country.

Silas Strawn, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will be guest speaker at the local banquet at the Willard Hotel Friday night at 6:45 o'clock. A coast to coast network will broadcast the dinner to the other diners in the various cities and it is hoped President Hoover will speak.

This movement is planned to acquaint the country at large with conditions in industry not obtained from usual sources of information and is the result of observations of civic, industrial and social leaders in various sections of the country.

Easton Bomb Suspects Freed After Grilling

New York, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Three men picked up in connection with the Nation-wide search for perpetrators of the Easton, Pa., bomb outrage were released late tonight after undergoing a five-hour examination.

Their release came within a few minutes after the Rev. P. T. Stengle, of Easton, and another resident of that city had viewed them in the New York general postoffice. Earlier a clerk in a New York express company office had failed to identify them as the men who sent by express packages containing bombs to four cities.

Pleads for Speedy Fund Relief, Forecasting "Catastrophe."

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago, pleading with the State Assembly today to expedite legislation for financial relief, said unless there were quick action "the governor may be asked to do a lot more in Chicago in the next two months than merely appoint an assessor as planned under one relief bill.

"We have stripped every fund to pay our bonds," the mayor continued, "and now we haven't a dollar in any fund, and no hope that any salaries may be paid for the next four months."

The mayor said he couldn't say that the compromise plan would do all that he hoped it would, but that it was a "step in the right direction."

Cermak described the metropolis as on the brink of "a municipal catastrophe."

Marine Piccolo Player Held on Liquor Charge

Edward Shaffer, Marine Corps piccolo player, held as a material witness in the investigation of the mysterious death of Bandsman Emannuel Thorne, April 5, 1931, at Capitol Heights, Md., yesterday was arrested by Prince Georges County Policeman Charles Robey on charges of being drunk and disorderly and disturbing the public peace. Shaffer was held for action of Hyattsville Police Court in default of $100 bond and was placed in jail.

Shaffer called the Department of Justice for aid but was told the department had nothing to do with a purely county matter. The death of Thorne, who was found in a shallow grave in Capitol Heights, never has been solved.

Accused Driver Is Acquitted.

Andrew B. Vorrath, of Mount Rainier, Md., charged with driving while drunk and with reckless driving, after a fatal automobile accident in Laurel, Md., on Christmas night, was acquitted when tried in Hyattsville police court by Judge J. Chew Sheriff. Charles Reed, of Laurel, a Spanish War veteran, was killed in the crash, which occurred just after he had stepped out of his automobile at a Laurel filling station.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

NOW with the New Year Hawaii, Bermuda and Brazil have been added by the Bell System to the list of foreign lands you can talk to.

One by one the distant lands of the earth are being brought within calling range of your voice.

First, Canada, Cuba and Mexico. Next Great Britain and most of Europe. Then northern Africa. Then Australia. Only recently Java and Sumatra. And now these remote islands of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans and the far southern republic of South America.

This new service is a reminder of the spirit of progress that enables you to talk from your own telephone not only to these distant lands, but to thousands of towns and cities in our own country—and with your neighbor across the street.

It is in this spirit of progress that the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, as a member of the Bell System, looks forward to 1932.

BUILDERS PAY HONOR TO E.H.ROSENGARTEN

A general contractor ,was honored by city, Nation and fellow craftsmen at Shoreham Hotel last night, where a testimonial dinner, attended by nearly 400 persons was given for E. H. Rosengarten, vice president and treasurer of the building firm of Davis, Wick & Rosengarten, Inc., on the occasion of his retirement as president of the Building Trades Employers Association.

Needs and aspirations of all elements of the construction industry were voiced in the adrdesses. The Department of Commerce was represented by James S. Taylor, chief, Division of Building and Housing, Bureau of Standards, who said our growing country sooner or later, from sheer pressure for more space, is going to demand more construction on a large scale.

Second Assistant Secretary of Labor W. W. Husband, in his response, declared it a fitting mark of culture that the Nation has come to appreciate the art of the skilled craftsmen, who have evolved its wood, iron and steel, its many natural or semi-naural resources, crude or partly refined, into things of usefulness, structures, superstructures and instrumentalities of transportation.

Would Accredit Builder.

Fred J. Rice, general counsel of the Building Employes Association, asserted the constructor of our buildings, the general contractor, as he is called, should have his share in the credit, more generally given the architect, as the designer of newer and better looking structures. It is the builder, with his knowledge and management, added to the inaight of the architect, who makes it possible to produce such brilliant results—results unattainable unless the two were closer than once they were.

In presenting the tribute of the District of Columbia, Maj. H. L. Robb, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, said the presence of so many representatives of not only the association, but all branches of the building industry, contractors, architects, labor and supply men, spoke more effectively than any words of the esteem in which Mr. Rosengarten is held.

Thanking his fellow members for their assistance and friendship as manifested in the work of the association and the ceremony marking his termination of office, the guest of honor told the assemblage it is through only the stanch and sterling support of his associates that the local organized building industry had been able to weather safely the turbulent period of the past two years.

Synopsis of the Program.

E. A. Rule, first vice president of the association, opened the meeting by presenting the toastmaster, Robert J. Barrett, member of the association's executive committee and a director of the National Association of Master Plumbers.

Following invocation by the Rev. Dr. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the House of Representatives, "America" was sung and a toast to President Hoover was given Singing and entertainment was provided by George O'Connor, Fred East, Bill Raymond, Matt Horne, Dennis Connell, Arthur Pierce and Thomas W. Brahany. Souvenirs in the form of an extra edition of The Washington Post containing the speeches and program of the evening, a biography of the retiring president and the objectives of the association, were distributed among the diners.

Mr. Rosengarten, who, before the dinner, received the guests in the foyer of the west ballroom, retires under the rules of the association limiting its presidents to a two-year tenure of office. He was born in Indianapolis, attended the public schools there and later, with his family, moved to St. Louis. He was graduated from a high school there.

He attended the Architectural School of Columbia University in New York City and after serving in the Spanish-American War with the 158th Volunteer Infantry, returned to New York to become associated with Bruce Price, pioneer in steel ofice building construction.

In 1916, he studied abroad and during the World War had charge of the office of John Russell Pope, New York architect, having charge of the construction of the City Hall at Plattsburg, N. Y., and the Union Station at Richmond, Va.

Since 1919, Mr. Rosengarten has been associated with the building firm bearing his name. He is a member of the National Baptist Memorial Church, Thomas W. Lawton Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, the Washington Board of Trade and the Washington Chamber of Commerce.

Charles J. Columbus, executive secretary of the association, and the commtitee were tireless in their efforts making the dinner a success.

The reception committee was composed of the following:

J. R. Skinker, chairman; C. O. Romberg, James F. Murtaugh, Frank J. Shehan, J. B. Latimer, W. R. Carpenter, Joe High, William Stecher, C. P. Oliver, R. Lester Rose, H. C. McKnew, L. Crovato, A. W. Lee, Merle Cain, George H. Zellers, Charles F. Dowd, Frederick J. Rice, Herman G. Miller.

Mr. Hilton had not been active in business for the last five years. Born here on November 6, 1894, he was a lif-long resident of Washington.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Hilton; five sons, W. Lewis, Joseph A., James A., Ernest and William Hilton; three daughters, Mrs. Rose Spaulding, Mrs. Bessie Cropley and Mrs. Annie Rowe, and two grandchildren, William and Ralph Hilton.

Funeral services will be held at the residence tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Kelsey died as a result of injuries received when he was knocked down by an automobile at Vermont avenue and L street December 16. William McPherson, 36 years old colored, of 530 Fourty-fourth street northwest, is held for action of the coroner in connection with the accident.

LOUIS TASHOF RITES WILL BE HELD TODAY

Capital Merchant's Burial Is to Take Place in Adas Israel Cemetery.

Funeral services will be held this morning for Louis Tashof, 66 years old, a Washington merchant, who died suddenly Monday afternoon, just after he had weighed himself in the Columbia Medical Building drug store.

Mr. Tashof, who lived at 4211 Sixteenth street northwest, had just visited the office of his physician, and as he stepped from the scales in the drug store, he succumbed to heart disease.

He came to Washington from Russia 40 years ago, and started a mercantile business in the Southwest section. He continued in business there until two months ago when he retired because of ill health. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rosa Tashof; three sons, Ivan P., a patent attorney, and Leon A., an attorney, of Washington, and J. Julian, an attorney in New York City, and a daughter, Miss Sophie P. Tashof, a teacher in the New York public schools.

Mr. Tashof was a member of Adas Israel Conregation and the local chapter of B'nai B'rith.

Funeral services will be held this morning at 11 o'clock from the home. Interment will be in Adas Israel Cemetery.

Romer to Talk on Advertising.

Frank Romer will talk on "Modern Advertising" before Advertising Club members at the Raleigh Hotel tomorrow afternoon at 12:30 o'clock. President Howard W. Berry will introduce new features.

CAPT. LORD'S RITES WILL BE HELD TODAY

Full Military Honors to Be Given U. S. Army Officer; Funeral at Home.

Following funeral services at the home of his mother, Mrs. John Wignall, 1336 Newton street northeast, at 1:30 this afternoon, Capt. John Boardman Lord will be buried in Arlington Cemetery with full military honors.

Capt. Lord died at Walter Reed Hospital on Monday, following an operation. He came to the hospital from Richmond, Va., where he had been on recruiting duty.

Born in Washington on December 10, 1893, Capt. Lord graduated from the public schools in 1913. Later he went to Wisconsin, where he became a member of the National Guard, serving on the Mexican border as a private.

In 1917, he entered the Officer's Training Camp at Fort Sheridan, Ill., and later went to France with the Fifty-sixth Coast Artillery. With this regiment he toop part in the Chateau Thierry, Meuse-Argonne and other battles.

He returned to the United States in 1919, when he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Regular Army. In 1929 he was made a captain of field artillery. Besides his mother, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Sarah T. S. Lord, and two children.

Mrs. Reynolds was born in LaSalle, Ill., 66 years ago, and was a resident of Washington for the last 55 years. She was a member of the Catholic Order of Foresters.

Her husband, Audley W. Reynolds; a son, Daniel A. Reynolds, and a daughter, Mrs. M. V. Murphy, survive.

RAIDERS KIDNAP 2, ESCAPING WITH LOOT

Burglar Alarm, With Habit of Sounding Without Cause, Ignored by Citizens.

Cambridge, Minn., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Failure of citizens to heed a burglar alarm because previously it rang accidentally, helped six raiders who kidnaped two men and fled with loot from four business houses early today.

It was the second raid on a small Minnesota community in less than a week. Because of the similarity in methods officers tonight believed the same group might be responsible for both. Today the robbers were in town for an hour, and last week for two hours.

Last Wednesday seven persons were made captive at Pine River, 125 miles from here, while six places were entered. As was the case today, the marshal was slugged.

Mark Dunning, 65, garage attendant, and Frank Whitney, 60, night policeman, overpowered while hurrying to the garage after hearing glass breaking, were forced to look on today as the men gathered $3,000 in merchandise and $165 in cash in a clothing store, pharmacy, garage and grocery.

When the burglar alarm at the clothing store jangled, the men continued their raid, with two on guard in the street nearby. Several citizens explained they paid no attention to the bell because it had been sounded accidentally several times recently.

Dunning and Whitney, both of whom were slugged, but not hurt seriously, were forced to lie on merchandise piled high in one of two cars in which the gang escaped.

Light up . . . Convince Yourself that Chesterfields Satisfy

Chesterfields are blended first...then cross-blended ...to make them milder...and milder still! There's no mistaking that rare balance of flavor built up by Cross-Blending. You enjoy it in every fragrant puff!

Listen, smokers...this is straight. You can't put taste in a cigarette...unless quality goes in, too.

You can taste the goodness in Chesterfields ... actually tell the difference. But light up ... and convince yourself.

● Pass your verdict on Chesterfield's Radio Program, too! Nat Shilkret's 35-piece Orchestra with Alex Gray, soloist, are on the Columbia Network every night except Sunday, at 10:30 E. S. T.

THEY'RE MILDER • • THEY'RE PURE • • THEY TASTE BETTER • • They Satisfy

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

GOOD MORNING, FELLOW ROCK CRABS!

HUMAN life began under a rock. Man was originally one of those things you find when you turn over a wet board in a dark alley.

* * * *

When you see a cockroach scurry across a kitchen sink you can say, "Why, grandpa! Some day you'll wrench an ankle running like that!"

* * * *

Such is the news that comes from one of those annual midwinter tournaments of deep thinking scientists.

* * * *

This time it's the American Association for the Advancement of Science. To be a member of the club, in good standing, you have to have an explanation for everything except a golfer's slice, a landlord's heart and the mystery of which came first the sleeping-car porter or the whisk broom.

* * * *

No member qualifies at an annual shindig of scientists until he has advanced a theory sufficiently unorthodox to make the first pages of the American newspapers.

* * * *

The first member to make the grade this season is Prof. William Patten, of Dartmouth, who says Darwin was wrong and that man is descended from a scorpion.

HE sets a new record for the scientific pole vault with the story that the granddaddy of you, and you, and you has been found under a rock on an island in the Baltic Sea. He (the ancestor, not the professor) is a fossil estimated to be a billion years old.

* * * *

The scientific name of the missing link is Ostracoderm. If the professor is right, then man is brother to the rock crab and son of the wild sand lizard.

* * * *

Those people who have always resented the idea that they came down from monkeys are going to be deeply hurt by the informal notices that their ancestors were not gorillas but prehistoric grasshoppers, corn borers, fiddler-crabs and shellfish.

* * * *

Prof. Patten sooths our feelings by stating that in the prehistoric era the scorpion or Ostracoderm was the highest type creature then in existence. He was the King of Beasts, so to speak.

* * * *

However, it puts Dartmouth back on the front page despite the fact that the football squad has disbanded, and gives Prof. Patten the limelight formerly held by McCall and Morton.

STOCK PRICE RALLY CUTS EARLY LOSSES

New York, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—A couple of important divided reductions and the suspension of a member firm failed to disturb the stock market seriously today.

Prices firmed in the last hour after a previous sag, and by the close, losses had generally been reduced to fractions or eliminated entirely. The net change in the averages was a loss of 1-10 of a point.

Trading in stocks was dull, the smartest activity appearing on the upturn as nervous shorts covered. Washington dispatches reporting the progress of the reconstruction corporation bill through the early legislative stages in the Senate were no doubt helpful. Wall street would like to see this measure rushed through, believing that so liberal a dose of restorative would do much good.

Cut in Santa Fe Dividend.

Although a cut in the Santa Fe dividend had been expected, even to the extent decided on, the stock appeared somewhat unprepared for the news and broke 4½ points to the lowest since 1917. It closed at 76, off 4. American Smelting reacted sharply, while American Telephone, which is the subject of unfavorable dividend gossip, dropped 2 to 107¾ although it reduced this loss to a small fraction.

U. S. Steel duplicated Monday's low on a moderate sag and finished unchanged. Union Pacific got back ⅔ of a 3 point loss. New York Central, Southern Pacific and Pensylvania firmed narowly. Transactions totaled 1,422,649 shares, the smallest volume since December 24.

Failure of Gurnett & Co. was accompanied by breaks in Waldorf System and Ludlum Steel, two stocks identified with the firm. Otherwise, the suspension had no effect on the market.

Preliminary figures covering crude oil production estimated another sharp decline for the past week as the fuller effects of the Sunday shutdown were felt.

Steel Operations Wait.

Steel operations are still awaiting improvement, and there is a belief in some quarters that the seasonal upturn may be delayed by the unusual conditions now prevailing. American Metal Market, however, said it was generally believed the low point had been passed.

Bradstreet's index of wholesale commodity prices dropped 2.3 per cent in December, closing the month at $7.7325, the lowest since June, 1908. With that exception, the figure was a minimum since December, 1901. "Apparently," commented the Review, "there is no sign of inflation or even stabilization," although the dollar is rising in value and purchasing power and the buying market's technical position is becoming constantly stronger.

Cold weather in the Northwest and bullish Kansas estimates lifted wheat ⅝ to 1⅛. Corn gained half a cent while cotton closed steady, 30 to 35 cents a bale higher.

Little of importance happened in foreign exchanges, although most currencies favored the dollar. Money eased slightly, the call rate dipping to 3 per cent in the afternoon.

AVERAGE BOND PRICE REMAINS UNCHANGED

Exception Recorded in Drop of Federal Issues; Sales Total $10,611,000.

Industrials at various times indicated rallying tendencies, especially the convertible liens, but the average for this class closed only fractionally above that of yesterday.

As indicating the disinterestedness of investors and traders, sales for the day totaled only $10,611,000. The average for 60 corporate securities was exactly the same as that of the previous session.

Weakness of Federal loans was blamed by some dealers for the market's failure to rally at least moderately. Treasury obligations especially were sold at proportionately heavy losses. Six of these issues registered from 1 to 5 points decline. The Liberties also dropped in a lesser degree.

Most of the rail bonds failed to respond to reports of increasing voluntary wage reductions and plans of the Railroad Credit Corporation to arrange funds for the more needy carriers. Some issues, however, closed slightly higher. Among these were bonds of Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian National, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Erie, Illinois Central and Missouri Pacific.

Communications liens such as American Telephone and Western Union recorded gains. Consolidated Gas of New York and Armour & Co., issues were higher.

Foreign obligations exhibited quiet strength. German bonds being heavily traded at moderate advances. Argentine loans added to their rally of yesterday. Japanese bonds were firm.

2,000 WATCH BROWN AND BARRY FIGHT TO DRAW

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

CONNIE MACK failed in his attempt to make baseball history last fall by winning three straight world series championships, but with Pepper Martin confined to the National League during the regular season Mack still has a chance to set a new record by winning four consecutive American League pennants.

Soccer's greatest contribution to baseball is Jimmy Wilson, Cardinal catcher, who was one of the Nation's outstanding booters before he decided to cast his lot with the diamond sport. But Jimmy admits that the greatest boot he ever made was last October when he failed to throw to first base with two out in the ninth when Jim Moore missed that third strike.

Joie Ray's famous legs, now undergoing the tortures of a Newark marathon dance, could tell the thrilling story of many a race on the indoor and outdoor tracks of the A. A. U., of the Olympic marathon tryouts at Boston and the Olympic 26-mile-385-yard race at Paris in 1928; of Cash and Carry Pyle's cross-country bunion derbies; of professional roller skate and skiing marathons, and of a dozen other endurance tests graced by Ray's name, but the best story of Joie Ray has Paris as its setting in his halcyon days as the best miler in the world a decade ago.

One night in a Paris cafe filled with American tourists ready to cheer something American on the slightest provocation, a little man hopped from his chair to the top of his table and demanded three cheers for Joie Ray. They brought the house down as he led the cheering. The little man was "Chesty Joie" himself.

Babe Ruth's perfect timing and rhythm is credited with being the chief factor in sending the ball great distances when the Bambino takes his cut, but Col. Jake Ruppert, who is sharpening his pen for the 1932 contractual battle with the Babe, will offer a new interpretation of Ruth taking his cut. It probably will represent four round figures, preceded by one upright digit. Ten thousand bucks, berries, beans, simoleans or smackeroos, they call it in the vernacular.

1,000 to 1 Londos wins.

200 to 1 Londos wins between 30 and 40 minutes.

50 to 1 Londos wins between 40 and 45 minutes.

2 to 1 Londos wins between 45 and 50 minutes.

1 to 4 Londos wins in 57 minutes 27 seconds, or union time.

When Jim Londos is ready to lose his Eastern Seaboard title, it will be before an outdoor stadium crowd of 40,000, and not indoors before a capacity 7,000 audience. One arrives at this conclusion by simple arithmetic, preceded by dollar signs.

Notre Dame's two defeats last fall threaten to slow the production of football coaches at South Bend. It seemed for a time that a varsity letter from Notre Dame was as good as a master's degree from a coaching school, and it was a rare day when two teams met with neither using the Notre Dame system. But those two defeats in 1931 are likely to calm the Notre Dame coaching hysteria. Or would you say life is like that? Anyway, both defeats administered the Irish were at the hands of teams using the Warner system. But with the recruiting of football talent still one of the finest arts of the coaching profession, it looks as if they concede that as far as systems go the best of the lot is the human system.

Emerson Tossers Easy for Eastern

Eastern's big basket ball team picked on Emerson Prep's not too agile five once more yesterday, and from the opening whistle the game boiled down to a speculation on just how many points the Easterners would win by. The score came out 46-16.

Big Leaguers Prepare for Training

Florida Again Base of 8 Teams; Coast Host to 4 Clubs.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Baseball still seems a long way off to the average citizen, what with basket ball just gathering steam and reverberations from the recent gridiron season still echoing through the glens, but there are signs of increased activity in the front offices.

Contracts are being prepared and soon will wing their way to 48 States and Cuba. Practically all of the sixteen major league clubs will have made their best offers by February 1. After that comes the customary period of dickering, and by February 14 the first carload of athletes will be on its way to camp. That's only six weeks away.

Only Three Changes In Bases.

All but three big league outfits will stand pat with the training sites they occupied last season. The New York Giants have transferred their affections from San Antonio, Tex., to Los Angeles, the Boston Red Sox have quit Pensacola, Fla., for Savannah, Ga., and Detroit has shifted its camp from Sacramento to Richardson Springs, Calif.

The new line-up leaves Florida with eight major league camps. California with four and Texas, Georgia, Louisiana and Mississippi with one apiece.

Departure of the Giants from San Antonio automatically dissolves their spring partnership with the Chicago White Sox and forces both to find new sparring mates for the long trip back home. The Giants will play seventeen games against Detroit, Pittsburgh and the Chicago Cubs, their new neighbors on the West Coast.

No Havana Trip for Brooklyn.

Brooklyn returns to Clearwater for its preliminary exercises, but there will be no side trip to Havana on the way back.

Following is the list of training sites for both leagues:

AMERICAN — Philadelphia, Fort Myers; New York, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Chicago, San Antonio, Tex.; Detroit, Richardson Springs, Calif.; St. Louis, West Palm Beach, Fla.; Boston, Savannah, Ga.; Cleveland, New Orleans; Washington, Biloxi, Miss.

Vines to Quit Studies For Davis Cup Siege

Los Angeles, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Ellsworth Vines, national tennis champion, said today he would take a leave of absence from his studies at the University of Southern California next month to get in shape for the Davis Cup matches.

"I feel that I can not do justice to both studies and tennis in the spring months," Vines said. "Naturally, I want to do everything possible to help win back the Davis Cup if I am lucky enough to be named on the team.

The cup tryouts come in April and Vines said the only tournament play he contemplated before then would be a series of matches in Honolulu in March. He said he would not enter the Florida spring tournaments.

"Y" Boys' Tank Team Beats Scouts, 49 to 23

The Y. M. C. A. boys' swimming team won a decisive 49-23 decision over the Boy Scouts yesterday at the Y. The Scouts were able to take but two first places in eight events.

100-yard free style—Won by Ciomei (Y); second, Boggs (Y); third, Mulady (B. S.). Time, 1:04 4-5.

50-yard breast stroke—Won by Marmion (Y); second, Fawsett (B. S.); third, Wilson (Y). Time, 0:36.

50-yard free style—Won by Hain (Y); second, Calvert (Y); third, Citten (B. S.). Time, 0:29.

50-yard back stroke—Won by Bartrum (Y); second, Wilson (Y); third, Wallace (B. S.). Time, 0:35 4-5.

Plunge—Triple tie for first place, Boggs (Y) and Diker and Mullady (B. S.) 130-yard relay—Won by Y. M. C. A. (Casker, Calvert, Boggs, Marmion). Time, 1:29.

Junior 50-yard free style — Won by Miller (B. S.); second, Grissett (Y); third, Prince (Y). Time, 0:36.

Fancy diving—Won by Walker (B. S.); second, Prince (Y); third, Grissett (Y). Division of points, 61 1-3, 45 2-3, 27 1-3.

IN NEW ROLE

JOIE RAY.

JOIE RAY NOW MARATHON DANCER

Medals Won't Keep Wolf Away, Says Noted Runner.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The skinny legs that carried Joie Ray through three Olympic games as America's greatest miler are only the props of a long-distance hoofer now as he shuffles through the weary miles of a dance marathon here.

The ears that once tingled with the praise of amateur sports lovers hear now only the blatant proddings of a jazz orchestra and the music of a gallery of marathon dance fans.

Joie Ray, now 36 years old, one-time national hero of the cinder track, is merely No. 43—or rather half of team No. 43—fox trotting for pay, in an exhibition of sleepless endurance.

"You can't keep the wolf from your door with medals," Joie said today. "The butcher and baker won't take my trophies.

"Ive tried almost everything in the athletic line—roller skating, racing against a horse, prize fighting, snowshoe racing and even selling sporting goods. And I've driven a taxi. But I need to eat now and that's why I'm doing this."

He appears in splendid condition, although he said doctors had told him his heart was not as good as it ought to be. He has gained weight, his leg muscles are firm, and he says he could go out and break 4:25 for the mile today.

At the end of this month, he said, he expects to go to Canada to compete in a snowshoe race at Quebec. The distance to be covered is 200 miles.

"I finished seventh last time and I figure my chances of winning this year are good," Joie said.

Battalino May Quit As Featherweight

Champion May Cast Lot With Lightweights After Bout Friday.

New York, Jan. 5 (U.P.).—Bat Battalino, busiest and best of current boxing champions, will make his sixth—and probably his final—defense of the world's featherweight title in a fifteen-round bout with Lew Feldman, of New York, at Madison Square Garden Friday.

Possibility of the bout being Battalino's final defense of the 126-pound crown is based solely on the prospect that the Hartford Italian may resign his championship after the fight. Feldman is not rated as a formidable opponent and has little chance of victory.

Battalino already has defeated every recognized contender for his title and is rated by boxing leaders as the best featherweight champion of modern times. Feldman, a small club fighter, virtually unknown outside of New York, is conceded a chance of victory only on the chance that Battalino, who has been building himself up for competition in the lightweight class, may be weakened in making the featherweight limit.

The lightweight division offers a richer field and, after Friday's fight, Battalino is expected to cast his lot in that class.

S. L. Povich Elected Baseball Writers Head

College Fives Resume With 2 Games

G. U. Faces Baltimore as Colonials Meet Marine Team.

Unbeaten D. C. Fives Face Hard Tests in Games Tonight.

COLLEGE basket ball emerges from temporary retirement occasioned by the Christmas holidays tonight in Washington when George Washington entertains the powerful Quantico Marines in the Colonial Gym, 2010 H street, northwest, and Georgetown meets Baltimore University at Tech High. These contests mark the opening broadside of a heavy program this week for "rah rah" basket marksmen of the Capital area.

Both George Washington and Georgetown seek to prolong auspicious beginnings in the infant court season, the former having won its only game before the holidays and the latter having gained two decisions in the same number of games. But each must travel at top speed to succeed tonight, for the Marines and the Baltimoreans boast well-drilled, experienced combinations.

Rangy Teams Will Clash at G. W.

The G. W.-Marine clash, starting at 8 o'clock, presents a pair of rangy teams with keen-eyed shooters. For George Washington, the burden of the attack will rest with Werdon Parrack and Ralph Hertzler, both of whom tower four inches over six feet, while the Marines will depend largely on Zeher and Farrell, two giants who are making reputations on the court equally as fine as they enjoyed during the late football season.

In anticipation of a powerful attack, Coach Pixles has drilled the Colonials with the idea of fighting fire with fire. For the past two days his charges have done little else but try to perfect their own attack. Besides Parrack and Hertzler, who perform at forward and center, respectively, the G. W. Line-up will show Forrest Burgess at forward, and Arthur Zahn and Johnny Fenlon at guards.

Baltimore Conqueror Of Duke Five.

Georgetown encounters in Baltimore a team that proved its class by defeating Duke prior to the holiday lay-off. The Monumental City tossers checked the famed Blue Devils the night before the latter bowed to the Hilltoppers.

Beginning at 8:30 o'clock, following a preliminary between the Georgetown Freshmen and a class team, this game should produce some of the fastest passing in the books this season for local consumption. Both Georgetown and Baltimore are exponents of the short passing style of attack and of the five-man defense.

Mexican Invasion Awaited by C. U.

Among the remaining games of the week the Catholic University of Mexico contest scheduled Friday night at Brookland, is the standout attraction. This is the first international athletic contest ever held in Washington involving a local university or college.

Though little has been heard of the Mexican tossers in this part of the United States, the fact is that the invading team boasts an impressive record. It has lost only two games in 39 played during the past two years and has won the national championship of Mexico in addition to several victories over teams of Central American countries.

Known also as the Mascarones—taken from the name of a branch of the university where basket ball was introduced 20 years ago—the Mexicans represent an institution with an enrollment of 15,000 students from which appear annually a large number of candidates for the team.

SAINT JOHN'S BEATEN BY TECH FIVE

Johnnies Lead at Half But Finally Succumb, 30 to 24.

TECH High's high-scoring basket ball team had its hands full yesterday in downing St. Johns, 30-24, at Tech Gym, in one of the closest scholastic games of the season. The Saints astounded a small crowd by gaining the jump on Tech at the start, leading 8-7 at the end of the first quarter and 16-13 at the half.

Tech, handicapped by the absence of Capt. Artie Willison, fought back with the approach of the fourth quarter and when the third period had ended, stood out on the longer end of a 23-18 score, boosted there by the sterling shooting of Everett Russell and the spectacular floor game of acting captain, Fred Thomas.

Cadets Close on Tech's Heels.

Tech was never headed down the home stretch, but the Cadets were constantly at its heals. Fred Scheele won high scoring honors for the day with 11 points, and Mike Scanlon played a defensive game equal to that of Thomas, but the lack of reserve strength on the Cadet team told badly in the last few minutes.

Maryland to Play 1932 Duke Eleven

Old Liners Take Villanova's Place on List; Play at Durham Oct. 15.

Durham, N. C., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Ten games, eight of them with members of the Southern Conference, will be played by the Duke University grid team this fall, according to the schedule announced today by Coach Wallace Wade. Two newcomers are listed on Duke's 1932 card, Auburn and Maryland. They replace South Carolina and Villanova.

The Old Liners will be met at Durham on October 15.

The schedule:

September 24, Davidson, in Durham.
October 1, V. M. I., at Lexington, Va.; 8, Auburn, in Birmingham; 15, Maryland, in Durham; 22, Wake Forest, in Durham; 29, Tennessee, in Knoxville.
November 5, Kentucky, in Durham; 12, North Carolina State, in Raleigh; 19, University of North Carolina, at Chapel Hill; 26, Washington and Lee, in Durham.

MARYLAND U. FRESHMEN SCORE

Business Nosed Out, 12-11, When Closing Rally Falls Short.

WITH baseball scores prevailing, Maryland University's Freshman Basket Ball Team earned victory in its first engagement of the season yesterday at the expense of Business High, 12 to 11, at College Park.

The tussle brought together two five-man-defense teams, and the predominating motif of the game was frustration rather than marksmanship. The teams hung tenaciously together from start to end, with Maryland leading, 9 to 6 at the half.

Old Line Fresh Lead All the Way.

6,000 GREET TULANE ON RETURN

Tumultuous Welcome in Rain Given Beaten Grid Team.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Not since the armistice has New Orleans put on such a celebration as that which greeted the return of Tulane's Green Wave today from the Rose Bowl football game.

Despite a downpour of rain and the defeat of the Wave by Southern California, 6,000 men, women and children gathered at the station and fought police lines to get a glimpse of the players.

Led by a police escort and the Tulane Band, the team paraded through the town with each player in a separate automobile with his name emblazoned on the windshield. At the City Hall steps the parade stopped while Gov. Huey P. Long, Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley and other officials lauded the players.

"You have brought more glory to Louisiana than anything in this generation," said Gov. Long.

Saks and Griffith Fives Win League Openers

The loss of Bill Noonan on the eve of its entrance in the Community Center League had little effect on the Saks Clothiers last night, as they opened the giant court loop with a 38-to-12 victory over Heurich-Logan.

Tonight's Community Center League games concern the Ross Jewelers and the Crescents, at 7:30 o'clock at Central; the Washington Aces and the Census-Federals, at 9:30 o'clock at the same gymnasium, and the Shade Shop and the Moseans at 8 o'clock at Macfarland.

The Griffith-Consumers, perhaps the strongest outfit in the league next to Saks, won even more decisively over the Capital Awning five, 49 to 18.

Coaching Business Views Depression Around Corner; Output High, Demand Low

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Sometimes the football coaches are lumped together for critical purposes and made to seem a rather officious and overimportant lot, but they are, on the whole, about the best people in the sport business, and it is no pleasure to note that their business is now going the way of the street-car business.

The United States has been play-crazy for about ten years, but the children's hour is about over now, and there is coming a period when play will be only a relief from work and not one of the principal industries of the land. Still the colleges are turning out masses of coaches and play directors on the old scale of production, a scale which, if it is maintained a few years more, will provide such a plethora of these that for every individual in the country with an hour of play time there will be half a dozen college-taught specialists available to tell him how to play and how much sugar to put on his breakfast food so as to be able to play more like Eckersoll or Bobby Jones or Tilden, the ideals.

I do not know what the heads of the colleges could have been thinking of, aside from the immediate necessity of scaling down the scholastic requirements to the mental capacities of varsity football players obsessed with play, when they went in for the mass production of male nursemaids to direct the youth of the country in advanced versions of ring-around-the-rosy and London-Bridge-is-falling down and dab their little hurts with iodine and salve. They must have thought, if they thought that play would one day become the sole activity of the entire population, overlooking the important fact that when all the wood was burned up everybody would have to turn to and chop some more.

The coaches of the present list, the men with reputations and jobs, need not worry too much, because college football will not be suspended abruptly. The theory that play in colleges is impossible without the assistance of professional teachers and whippers-up is too firmly held to be abolished within their lifetime. But even their influence will be diminished and their pay, too, as the game of football is reduced, beginning this fall, to its normal importance and size.

But the new classes of coaches and directors, including a great many with fat books of newspaper clippings saved from their varsity days, are going to suffer in the readjustment. When such a young man comes out into the world to ask for a pleasant living with nothing to say for himself but "I am a great authority on play," the answer to that will be, "Yes, but how are you on work?"

Rules to Protect Passer Not Needed, Says Warner

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Agitation to create new rules to protect the passer in football will receive no support, from Glenn "Pop" Warner, Stanford University coach. The noted gridiron strategist said today it was his experience that passers do not come in for much rough handling. Rules protecting the kicker are all right," he said, "but I see no reason for going to extremes. A kicker is in a poor position to take care of himself. There is too much domination of the game by rules now."

Warner said he had nothing to add to his letter read at the football Coaches' Association in New York, in which he suggested that soft padding and lighter helmets be substituted for the equipment now in use. Use of hands by defensive linemen on the head and neck of an opponent also was protested by Warner.

Dick Hanley, coach at Northwestern, who is visiting here, agreed with Warner a change in equipment was necessary. Hanley said that for the last three years his players had worn wool knee pads and an "aviation" type helmet, which is soft and light.

"We have not had any serious injuries to speak of, either on our side or the opposition," Hanley said. Hanley expressed the opinion "stricter officiating" was necessary in some sections of the country.

Split Verdict Greets End Of Bout

Barry Weakens at End; Given Three Rounds by Post.

By JACK ESPEY.

IN a bout marked by much holding and referee baiting, which induced salvos of left-handed cheers from a capacity audience, Natie Brown, Jewish heavyweight, late of California, and Reds Barry, 17-year-old Irish lad of this city, fought to a draw in eight rounds last night in the feature attraction of the Day Nursery benefit show in Portner's Arena, Alexandria. More than 2,000 fans attended to set a record for the indoor boxing season in this vicinity.

Barry was guilty of most of the holding and Brown drew the ire of Referee Charlie Short for continually complaining of Barry's tactics, among which he charged were some illegal blows. However, Short voted in favor of Brown, while Judge Penny O'Day nodded for Barry and Judge Goldie Ahearn voted for a draw.

The Washington Post score sheet showed Brown winning five rounds—all but the third, fourth and fifth, which were given to Barry, who, in these sessions, cut loose wildly with both hands to rush his more experienced foe into the corners and against the ropes. Brown failed to exhibit any semblance of a knockout punch except at the very beginning, when he charged from his corner and swung a long, vicious right that struck the local product on the side of the head and spun him around, causing him to slip to one knee.

Barry Weakens At Finish.

Brown did uncover a body attack that wore Reds down in the late rounds. At the finish, though he tossed his mitts recklessly, Barry was evidently weakening. It looked as if Brown might have gained a clear-cut decision had the distance been a little longer.

In the infighting which dominated the action, Brown was easily the better man. He hooked his punches cleverly to the ribs and often forced Barry to draw back his midsection.

After two rounds of cautious jabbing and clinching, Barry lashed out with both hands at long range, pounding Natie almost at will and once sending him back on his heels with an overhand right to the head. Again in the fourth, Brown absorbed this attack and had all he could do to cover up. In the fifth Barry continued to force the fight but his punches began to lose steam.

Brown Takes Offensive In Late Rounds.

From the sixth on, Brown took the offensive and bored inside Barry's defense to inflict innumerable body blows. He won the seventh round by a wide margin despite the fact he used up much strength breaking away from clinches. As he got out of Barry's clinching arms he sent a couple of hard rights to the face. The last round was Brown's by virtue of the harder punches during a number of hot exchanges.

The feature of the preliminary card was a knockout scored after 20 seconds of the second round by Gabe Navos, young Filipino flyweight of Alexandria, over Young Dempsey, of Annapolis, who won the 112-pound championship of the Navy in 1926. This was Navos' second successive quick kayo victory and was all the more appreciated because he came from behind. The bout was refereed by Hack Wilson, National League slugger, who motored from his home in Martinsburg, W. Va., as the guest of Referee Charlie Short.

Henry Irving, local middleweight, secured a draw in the six-round semi-final with Joe Finazzo, of Baltimore, who previously had outpointed him. Harry "Kid" Groves, District welterweight champion, took every one of six rounds from San Braunstein, a Marine, in avenging a loss by disqualification the week before. In the other bout Billy Reed, Washington featherweight, defeated Lynn King, Warrenton, Va., in four rounds.

Wolgast, Champion, Will Fight Landers

Midget Wolgast, recognized by the New York and Pennsylvania boxing commissions as world's flyweight champion, was matched last night by the Alexandria Day Nursery Athletic Association to meet Billy Landers, Norfolk (Va.) star, in the main eight-round bout next Tuesday night in Portner's Arena. The guarantee offered Wolgast was said to be the biggest ever designated for a boxer in the history of the game in this vicinity. Wolgast's title will not be at stake as both he and Landers will weigh over the flyweight limit.

DURVA REVELS IN MUD TO WIN JEFFERSON PARK FEATURE

Tombereau Breezes Home in Front at Tropical Park.

JEFFERSON PARK, New Orleans, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Gilbert Elston and Melvin Lewis, two leading jockeys of the Jefferson Park meeting, battled it out for honors in today's one and one-sixteenth mile feature with the chief award going to Elston

Elston piloted the Lone Star Stable's veteran campaigner, Durva, to a two-length victory over Fred Sansome's Black Patricia, which was piloted by Lewis. E. B. Carpenter's Chip was only a neck back of Black Patricia to take the short end of the purse.

The track was muddy but Durva revelled in the going, bounding into the lead at the half-mile post and steadily drawing away. Black Patricia got away badly, soon moved up among the leaders, but never was able to menace the Elston-Durva combination. As the favorite Durva paid $4.60 for a $2 straight ticket.

Tropical Park Feature To Tombereau.

Tropical Park Race Track, Coral Gables, Fla., Jan. 5 (A.P.)—Tombereau, a 5-year-old gelded son of Polymelian owned by J. D Norris, had little more than a good workout in winning the featured Manatee Claiming Purse here this afternoon. Possessing too much speed for his five rivals in the five and one-half furlong dash, Tombereau, a 1-to-2 choice, scored by three lengths with Jockey Chiavetta looking over his shoulder at Noajoyce, the second horse. Noajoyce just lasted to take the place by a head from Calgary Kay. Tombereau's time of 1:05 4-5 was only two-fifths of a second away from Leros' track record.

Noajoyce, a rapid beginner, took the lead after a few strides. Tombereau, a very fit and speedy animal quickly ran down the leader and went on to steal three lengths advantage under snug handling. Noajoyce never could threaten the favorite and Tombereau was doing little more than galloping through the last sixteenth. Calgary Kay was ridden with entirely too much patience by F. Horn, but when tardily sent after the leaders the gelding closed ground fast and would have earned second money in a couple more strides.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—THE OKAH, $4.00, $3.20, $2.60; SWEEP PAST, $6.40, $3.60; LORD VALENTINE, $4.20.

THE OKAH, widely best and suited by the going, raced into decisive command with a rush, was taken under strong restraint at turn and, maintaining good speed while restrained thereafter, had something left. SWEEP PAST began slowly and trailed far out of it until reaching closing quarter, where she closed with a rush. LORD VALENTINE, well up from the start, held on well. FINNATH showed a fair performance. GRAPHITE had speed and tired in the stretch. RUN MAID had no mishap. PARTICIPATE broke fast, dropped far out of it after an eighth and was badly outrun thereafter.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $600; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:32. Off at 2:34½. Winner, E B. Shipp's b g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—VLADIMIR, $3.20, $3.20, $2.80; RED VEST, $4.80, $4.00; TUFINUF, $5.40.

VLADIMIR, away fast and ridden in nervy fashion, was daringly handled when in close quarters moving into the turn, worked his way through on the inside under severe pressure entering the stretch and, drawing clear, stalled off RED VEST thereafter. The latter raced to the lead with a big loss of ground, appeared to swerve repeatedly at the turn and held on well while racing wide in the stretch. TUFINUF, a strong factor throughout, bore out at the turn and weakened in the final eighth, but outstayed others. HALLIARD showed a fair effort under an energetic ride. GAMBOL had speed, swerved under pressure and quit in the stretch. MARJORY NELL labored in the going and was unable to get up.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $700; claiming. Melvin Ott Purse. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won easily; place, driving. Winner, Lone Star Stable's b f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DURVA, $4.60, $3.00, $2.60; BLACK PATRICIA, $4.60, $3.60; CHIP, $3.00.

DURVA, best and quick to begin, saved much ground at the first turn, disposed of SUNTHORN quickly nearing the final half mile and, going strong thereafter, was not threatened by BLACK PATRICIA, winning in hand. The latter lost some ground, was unable to get to the winner when urged hard after reaching the last three-eighths, but held on determinedly and outstayed CHIP. The latter began slowly, saved some ground at the second turn, but swerved out in the stretch and closed resolutely. THOMAS SETH was through after five-eighths. SUNTHORN had speed for a half mile. ESSARE refused to extend himself and was far back throughout.

FOURTH RACE—Two furlongs. Purse, $600. Special weights. Daily Racing Form Purse. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start fair. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:26. Off at 3:29. Winner, W. C. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TIVERTON, $20.40, $10.20, $3.60; BOSTON WATERS, $14.00, $7.40; STEEL, $3.80.

TIVERTON broke slowly from extreme outside, settled into good stride after a sixteenth and, clearing first, got up in the final strides. BOSTON WATERS met interference shortly after the start, wore down FIGURISTE and but for swerving sharply to inside, might have outstayed the winner. STEEL had speed and held on well. CLOISTER'S DREAM had speed, but could not get to the leaders and tired. LADY TRUST broke slowly. CHANTESUITA was forced back in the checking sixteenth. FIGURISTE had speed, but tired. RIGAUD broke in a tangle and had little chance.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. (Substitute race). Purse, $600; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Helen Dean. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:53. Off at 3:53½. Winner, E. D. Slavin's b. g. (6), by Bad Lands—Mein Shatz. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $425; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24, 0:49, 1:16 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACK DARLING, $52.40, $18.00, $10.80; BAG O' ROSES, $7.60, $4.60; TIN HAT, $4.00.

BLACK DARLING had her best speed, raced into a long lead while saving ground at the turn and weakened in the final eighth, but held BAG O' ROSES safe. The latter improved her position with a rush at the stretch turn, continued stoutly thereafter and rapidly getting to the winner in the final stages. TIN HAT began fast, but was unable to keep up after a quarter saved ground and, closing resolutely, outfinished BECKY E. The latter, a strong factor throughout, bore out when weakening. FLORENCE DOLAN, slow to get going, was unable to gain on the slop and was never formidable. MONK'S FOX was outrun. JOAN G showed nothing. HELEN DEAN was practically left.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $700; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:15½. Off at 4:19½. Winner, C. Januska's b. g. (3), by Wrack—Sandwich. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SAND WRACK, $11.40, $5.20, $3.40; DONELLA, $3.80, $2.20; GAY PRINCE, $3.20.

SAND WRACK, going in his best form and under steadying restraint first half mile, easily worked way up to the lead when called on and, drawing into a long lead, won thereafter. DONELLA met slight interference early, saved ground at first turn and, while no match for the winner, held on resolutely. GAY PRINCE swerved across sharply going in the first turn, had speed and weakened slightly in the last three-sixteenths. SKIDMORE had no mishap. MAKANDA was in close quarters early. CRESCENT CITY was outrun. MAGNA MATER began fast, but ran out badly at the first turn and, dropping far out of it when eased while running out, was not persevered with in the final three-eighths.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $600; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:42½. Off at 4:45. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DRY ROCK, $9.20, $5.20, $3.60; JUNIOR C., $5.40, $3.40; PRINCESS DARE, $5.20.

DRY DOCK, much the best and under strong reserve early, moved up rapidly when called on and, drawing into a long lead, was taken in hand in the closing fifty yards. JUNIOR C. forced the pace under occasional pressure, held the lead briefly and, while unable to cope with the winner's rush, outstayed others. PRINCESS DARE saved much ground and closed gamely. SUPER TOY made out some trouble. RAPPLER CON began slowly. SHONNA had speed under mild restraint, failed to respond when urged hard and bore out badly in the stretch. UNDERDUN quit. BELIEVE IT OR NOT was through after showing speed for three-quarters.

—Jefferson Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

JEFFERSON PARK, New Orleans, La., Jan. 5.—The complete card of events on the program at Jefferson Park carries the claiming clause. Despite the absence of a regular feature the program has attracted some well-balanced fields which should furnish some interesting and spirited contests, over the muddy course which will prevail.

The fifth on the card received a list of evenly matched sprinters, which will be dispatched over the 6-furlong distance in the best offering on the program. PROMETHEUS, from the stable of Mrs. Padgett, appears to have the class of this field and if the colt races kindly in the muddy going, should score. DISTRESS SIGNAL displayed plenty of speed in recent efforts and is favored to furnish the opposition. ESTIN, a superior muddier, is the show selection.

FIRST RACE—ZAILA has shown improvement of late and against this field figures to hold her opponents safe. HARASS and YALOVIAN are closely matched for the remainder of the purse.

SECOND RACE—In this 6-furlong dash for oldsters, CHRIS PASCHEN on his recent third to Old Bill at this distance, should romp to an easy victory. AGAPANTHUS has turned in several promising efforts and is the place selection. STUPENDOUS and BEIGE are outside possibilities.

THIRD RACE—DIODORO, from the J. Marsch string, will favor the muddy track and should be hard to beat. NERVATOR showed a splendid effort last outing and should be able to hold Aregal safe. The latter has raced consistently in this class and should get into the money.

FORTH RACE—BRIGHT KNOT, a steady plater from the T. J. Doyle Stable, is favored to annex the major portion of the purse. PRINCE RENO, third in his last two starts, should improve enough to account for the place. CHARLIE BILLS is the show choice.

SIXTH RACE—LADY MARSCH has displayed a liking for mudy going and, under the conditions, is the logical choice. TRAUMEL has several creditable performances to recommend him and should finish in the runner-up position. LITTLE TOOTS may need this effort, but nevertheless should share in the purse.

SEVENTH RACE—LUCK PIECE appears to be the best bet of the entire card and should have little difficulty. ENTRAP finished second in his last attempt and figures to go as well here. ASTERLITZ should hold the others safe for the minor award

TITLE SWIM SCHEDULED MAR. 18-19

Medley Relay Added to District A. A. U. Program.

THE D. C. A. A. U. indoor swimming championships have been set for Friday and Saturday, March 18 and 19, at the Shoreham Pool, it was announced yesterday by officials of the amateur association. One new event has been added to the standard list of races—a 300-yard medley relay for men, with the first performer swimming 100 yards backstroke, the second 100 yards breaststroke, and the third 100 yards freestyle.

Men's events will consist, as usual, of 50, 100 and 220 yards freestyle events, 150-yard backstroke and 220 breaststroke, 200-yard relay (four men), the new medley and fancy diving from the pool's 10-foot board.

New Olympic Rules for Diving.

Events for women feature freestyle races at 50, 100 and 220 yards, 100-yard events in backstroking and breaststroking, and fancy diving, also from 10 feet.

Diving this year will be conducted according to the new Olympic games rules, which call for five compulsory and five optional dives in the men's events and three and three in the women's. A slight change in the system of rating the divers also will be in effect.

Virtually the same principals who engaged in the meet last year are expected to enter, but several new faces can be counted upon to sign up. The meet may mark the return of Lois Bates to competition. The diminutive Washington Swimming Club star won all women's events last year except the 100-yard backstroke and the fancy diving, which fell to Onalene Lawrence.

Max Rote and Constancio Alvarado, of the Ambassador Swimming Club, speed merchant and breaststroke-man, respectively, will be back in the swim, along with three Duke University natators, Beverly Carter, Thornton Burns and Bob Varella, former Centralites, who are expected to enter under the name of the C Club.

The meet is open to all amateur swimmers registered in the D. C. A. A. U. The relays are open to teams representing an organized club. Amateur registration blanks may be secured from Charles Fyfe, at the Boys Club, or A. Earle Weeks, 3727 T street northwest.

Hitting —The— Head Pin

FOR some time a minor figure in the pin world, the Men's Lutheran League, grabbed the spotlight last night at Arcadia from the great realm of local bowling. Maybe it's not really anything to get excited over, but the St. Marks Team, of that often-forgotten league, toppled a couple of league records.

Composed of the Groff boys, Sellinger, Miller and Zanner, the crew rolled a 616 game and 1,689 set, in the face of Miller's 88 game. M. Groff had a 151 game and Zanner a 144, but yielded high honors to Parks, of St. John's who had a 159 and 388.

And over in the North Washington Church League, at Columbia, Emory bowlers amassed a 559 game and 1,687 set for league records. Eric Smith, of First Reformed, of the same league, had a 153 game.

Getting back to the usual run of news, the National Pale Dry Team trounced Barnes Motors in the National Capital League, at Lucky Strike, 604, 610 and 573 to 517, 520 and 551. Clarke and Anderson, of the winners, had 376 sets and Rosenberg and Anderson, of the same club, tied with 140 games.

Here's the Washington Ladies League results: Shamrocks, 3, Cardinals, 0; Beeques, 3; Veterans Bureau, 0; Columbians, 2; Hilltoppers, 1, and University Park, 2; Keenos, 1.

The 621 game of Swan's in the Columbia Heights League loomed high in bowling ranks last night. They followed it with a 1,797 set, helped not a little by Sam Simon's 163 game and his 415 set.

Operative BX-2, of this department, is doing a little puttering around the composing room of The Post in an effort to uncover what happened to The Post bowlers. Not only did the bulk of them roll as well as old Joe Dummy, but four of the boys turned in really first rate performances yesterday at Lucky.

Tom Kirney, of the champion Agates, was the best of the lot, with games of 127, 141, 119—387. Scott had a 379, Clark a 368 and Hill a 350. Clark had a game of 141.

Team results were: Agates, 2; Pica, 1; Ionic, 2; Pearls, 1; Minions, 2; Rubys, 1; Quads, 3, and Gothics, 0.

Led by Billy Arnold and Ray Clark, the Annapolis Buick outfit, recent winners over Georgetown Recreation in an intercity block, will meet the Bethesda bowlers Friday night at 7:30 o'clock at the home drives of the locals.

The Bethesda team will be made up of Huffman, Lindstrom, Walson, Parson, Talbert, Harris, Parks and Hiser

Mercer Barker, of North No. 2, in the East Washington Church League, smashed high set mark last night at Convention Hall with a 404 mark. He had a 145 game. Ingraham No. 1, with 583 and 1,627, was the best team.

Slick's 161 game and Hare's 367 set, plus Lafayette's 605 and 1,725 marks made up the night in the Masonic League. Also at Convention Hall, in the Odd Fellows League, Perce Elliott, of Amity, No. 1, rolled 149 and 373, his team drew a 525 game mark, and Amity No. 2 saved the day for the rest of the boys, with a 1,523 set.

SUPPLY OF COACHES EXCEEDING DEMAND

in college, preparing for a degree in physical education would be well-advised, I should think, to switch over and learn something useful about machinery, so that when the question is put to him a few years hence he can answer, "Well, I can put new bands in a flivver or washers in a kitchen faucet."

The hero business began to fall off long before any one was aware of a change, and there have been many cases, close on to tragic, of young athletic idols of the sport pages who came out of school never doubting that the world would pension them off, like English generals, only asking them to go through the motions of selling real estate, insurance or bonds. They got the jobs, all right, but by this time sport-page heroes were as common as people who have been abroad, and the readjustment was more than some of the kids could master. It was no longer a privilege to shake the hand that had thrown the forward pass that won the big game for old St. Fidget's A. and M. or to buy a lot of unnecessary insurance from the young man. So sales were slow.

Vin Richards Was An Example.

Vincent Richards, at the top of his practice as a professional-amateur tennis star, was one of the most successful insurance salesmen of this hero type. He went to Florida during the boom, played some tennis at a development called Davis Islands, which naturally commanded some publicity for the islands, and sold a life insurance policy of $1,000,000 to Mr. Davis, the promoter. Young Mr. Richards seemed to be fixed for life, but then the boom ended, and Mr. Davis, in the course of some hilarity on the way to Europe, crawled through a porthole on a bet that he could suspend himself over the side by his hands and climb back into the room. He lost his bet, and, owing to some technicality, the policy was disallowed, so Mr. Richards mourned the passing of a casual friend with a sorrow that was something special.

Vincent had pronounced honest tendencies, though, and he quit professional-amateurism a few years ago to play frankly for pay. Judging by the way professional tennis has been going, I should say he quit professional-amateurism for amateur-professionalism.

The football hero is more a hero on the sport pages and among people who do not know him at all than he is among his familiars on his own campus. But once he leaves school, seven months after his last football game, he is already somewhat forgotten, and the mass production of heroes makes competition all the harder.

PUBLIC NOTICES

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF the District of Columbia, Washington, December 29, 1931.—Notice is hereby given that in accordance with the provisions of an item authorizing changes in the permanent system of highways contained in D. C. Appropriation Act for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1914 (Public Act No. 435, 62d Congress), approved March 14, 1913, as amended by an Act approved April 30, 1928 (Public Act No. 158, 69th Congress), the Commissioners of the District of Columbia will give a public hearing in the Board Room of said Commissioners on JANUARY 18, 1932, at 10 o'clock a. m., to all persons interested or owning land within the territory affected by proposed changes in the plan of said permanent system of highways, described as follows, viz: 1. Property in the northwest section located within the territory bounded by Sedgwick Street on the north, Arizona Avenue on the east, Garfield Street on the south, and 45th Street and American University grounds on the west. 2. Property in the northwest section along the line of Butterworth Place between 47th and 48th Streets. 3. Property in the northeast section located within the territory bounded by New York Avenue on the northwest and north, West Virginia Avenue on the southeast, and Fairview Avenue and Corcoran Street on the west. 4. Property in the northwest section located within the territory bounded by Loughboro Road on the north, 46th Street and Foxhall Road on the west, W Street on the south, and Conduit Road and Chain Bridge Road on the west; and also affecting the location of Chain Bridge Road between Conduit Road and Loughboro Road. 5. Property in the northeast section along the line of New York Avenue between 26th Street and Bladensburg Road; and along the line of 24th Street between T Street and New York Avenue; and property affected by the location of a proposed circle at the intersection of Bladensburg Road and New York Avenue. 6. Property in the southeast section located within the territory bounded by W Street on the north and northeast, 20th Street on the east, Frankford Street and Morris Road on the south, and Hunter Place and 15th Street on the west and northwest; in the northeast section along the line of Adams Street between 30th Street and Bladensburg Road. 8. Property in the northwest section along the line of Kalmia Road between Georgia Avenue and Eastern Avenue; and property affected by the establishment of a proposed reservation between Kalmia Road and the District line, along the line of Georgia Avenue. Plans showing proposed changes in the highway plan of streets within the territory described above are on display in the office of the Surveyor of the District of Columbia, Room 405, District Building, and may be examined by interested parties during business hours prior to the hearing. Such plans will also be displayed at the hearing, and the Commissioners will consider any suggestions or protests concerning the proposed changes as shown on above mentioned plans. H. REICHELDERFER. SEVENTH PRECINCT RAID ON MAGAZINES IS LATE; 7 ARRESTS

JURY TRIAL DEMANDED BY ACCUSED DEALERS

Postponement to January 9 Allowed for Filing of Various Motions.

Through a certain delicacy about opening the private mail of the precinct commander, the Seventh Precinct was a day late in joining the crusade of the Police Department against three magazines, held by District Attorney Leo A. Rover to be obscene. However, the police of that precinct swung into action yesterday and arrested seven dealers, who apparently do not read the newspapers.

The order for the drive against news dealers having the magazines displayed for sale arrived by special messenger Monday, inclosed in an envelope addressed to Capt. Maurice Collins. Capt Collins was acting inspector Monday and was not at the precinct. His subordinates hesitated to open his mail, so the letter lay unopened on his desk until late that night. All of the stores had been closed before the precinct knew officially that the roundup order had gone out.

Seven Seized in Precinct.

At 10:10 a. m. yesterday, however, seven names appeared on the books in the precinct's own private drive. Those booked were:

James George Heon, 31, of 3419 M street northwest; Peter C. Heon, 39, of 3150 M street northwest; Morris Alline, 18 years old, of 1301 Thirty-fifth street northwest; Samuel J. Sugar, 29, Thirty-fifth and O streets northwest; Leo George Dacy, 40, 2346 Wisconsin avenue northwest; Stanley Haney, 34, of 1834 Wisconsin avenue northwest, and Seba Christie, 28, of 6611 Foxhall road northwest.

Meanwhile court action against those persons arrested in the big drive against the three magazines was postponed yesterday when a large group demanded jury trials on the charge of having obscene matter for sale.

The Government, represented by Assistant United States Attorney Michael Keogh, did not resist attempts of attorneys for the accused when they sought a postponement of trial and asked that they be allowed until January 9 in which to file various motions in the cases.

Motions May Claim Ignorance.

These motions are expected to be based on the grounds that the persons selling the magazines were not aware of their contents and were not therefore subject to arrest for having them for sale. In the event the motions to suppress the evidence, which in these cases would be the magazines themselves, are upheld, there would be no case against the several score men and women who were taken under arrest Monday night.

The drive to clean up the city and to drive out magazines that are considered obnoxious was started by United States Attorney Rover. Two magazines were barred some time ago and the three that are now under fire were carefully gone over by the United States Attorney and his aids before any arrests were made.

When it was finally decided that those selling the periodicals were subject to the law for sale of obscene matter, word was passed along to the police, and two men were detailed from each precinct to arrest all those within the precinct who had for sale any of the banned magazines.

Information papers in cases other than those of yesterday will be held in abeyance until a ruling has been obtained on the "test cases." In all cases $25 collateral was required from persons who had the magazines for sale and who sold them to police.

War Canvas Site Leased on Drive

Leasing of 80,000 square feet of land on the newly completed Riverside drive, fronting Potomac River, at a point between Titanic Monument and the approach to the new Arlington Bridge and Lincoln Memorial, for a building to house the famous war painting, "Pantheon de la Guerre," considered the largest canvas in existence, was announced yesterday by C. Heurich, jr., Realty Co., who negotiated the lease.

The property has been leased by the World War Cyclorama, Inc., a new organization with several prominent citizens of Washington at its head, from Littlefield, Alvord & Co., Christian Heurich and the Cranford Co., owners of the property. The structure will be situated on a site bounded by D street, Twenty-sixth street, Riverside drive and a "V" shaped piece of Government property near the new memorial bridge.

Charles J. Wynne is president and general manager of the new organization. George B. Fraser, an official of the Washington Gas Light Co., is treasurer, and Aage Ewaldsen is vice president.

Narcotic Suspect Held For Grand Jury Action

Leon Hewlett, pleading not guilty to a narcotic charge, was held under $3,000 bond for grand jury action yesterday when he was arraigned before United States Commissioner N. C. Turnage.

Hewlett was one of a number of persons arrested by police and Federal narcotic agents in a drive a week ago. Commissioner Turnage said that he would hold hearings every day in an effort to clear up his calendar so that the arrested persons can be taken before the grand jury.

HARKER FACES TRIAL ON DRINKING CHARGE

Man Who Claimed Police Beat Him to Appear Before Judge Today.

Subpenas were issued yesterday for witnesses to appear in Police Court today when James Henry Harker, central figure in the recent expose of alleged police brutality, goes on trial to answer charges of being drunk and disorderly.

Harker was arrested early in December, but released by Judge Isaac R. Hitt on a technicality. A new trial, however, was ordered and he will appear before Judge Gus A. Schuldt at 10 o'clock this morning.

Jeremiah J. Cullinane, suspended First Precinct policeman, who, it is alleged, assaulted a prisoner he was moving from one cell to another in the First Precinct Station House, pleaded not guilty in Police Court yesterday. He will be tried before Judge Schuldt on Friday.

Wilber A. Hoffman, of 614 Massachusetts avenue northwest, told police officials that Cullinane struck him, knocking out two teeth. The policeman declared Hoffman resisted him.

Minor Girl Files $25,000 Balm Suit

Norbert Melson Havener, 4823 Conduit road northwest, was named defendant in a $25,000 breach of promise suit yesterday by Miss Eleanor Wilson Reynolds, who, according to her suit, is not yet of legal age. The suit, therefore, was filed through Virgie Bromley, of 3148 M street northwest, as the next friend of Miss Reynolds.

The declaration of the suit alleges that on August 13, and on various other occasions, Miss Reynolds had been ready and willing to marry, but that on each successive date the wedding had been postponed. She said she had spent $300 in preparations for the wedding.

Miss Reynolds charged that Havener's failure to marry her has caused her mental suffering and anguish, for which she seeks the $25,000.

Directors of Chamber Indorse Airport Plan

Indorsement of the new Bingham bill for an airport, recommendation that the Traffic Department make a thorough study of plans to sever Thomas Circle with a new artery for traffic, and suggestion that the coroner jury system be studied with the view of improving it, featured a meeting of the board of directors of the Washington Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

Plans by the citizens' joint committee on fiscal relations for a campaign against the Mapes taxation legislation were approved. Creed W. Fulton reported on progress of the five-year expansion program. Resolutions were adopted on the death of Charles W. Darr, former president of the chamber.

DISTRICT TAX REST HEARING SET TODAY

House District Committee Also to Scan Schafer Bill on Ice Cream Sale.

Meeting for the first time since the holidays, the House District committee this morning will hold hearings on a report issued yesterday by the District Commissioners on the plan to declare a year's moratorium on sale of property for taxes here.

Opposition to the bill proposed by Mrs. Mary T. Norton (Democrat) New Jersey, developed at the first meeting of the committee, following hostile testimony by the District tax assessor.

Four new measures introduced by Mrs. Norton were referred to the committee yesterday. These include bills to increase the regulatory powers of the Commissioners, change the law governing condemnation of insanitary buildings, regulate District employment agencies and permit voluntary confinement of St. Elizabeth Hospital patients.

The committee this morning probably will take up the Schafer bill to authorize the local sale of ice cream in 2½ gallon cans. Also, Representative Frank L. Bowman (Republican), West Virginia, will press for action on his plan for a District subcommittee investigation of handling of the Edith Riley case.

A bill proposed yesterday in the Senate would speed up local criminal cases by making indictment unnecessary in felony cases, where consent of the defendant is given

Girl Playing in Alley Run Down by Autoist

A child, playing in an alley, suffered a broken leg late yesterday when she was knocked down by a sedan operated by Charles Wells, of 5220 Fifth street northwest. The accident occurred in the rear of 5218 Fifth street.

The driver took the child, Jessie Masener, 8, of 510 Ingraham street northwest, to Walter Reed Hospital, where she received emergency treatment and later was taken to Garfield Hospital. Her condition is reported not serious.

Officers Seated By Police Group

Policeman's Association Votes Gen. Glassford and Kvale.

Private W. H. McGrath was installed as president of the Policemen's Association last night at Odd Fellows Hall. After induction of officers, the members were addressed by Representative Paul J. Kvale, of Minnesota.

Other officers who took their posts last night were: P. C. Wheeler, first vice president; D. A. Davis, second vice president; W. J. Kerns, recording secretary; G. H. Chrisman, financial secretary; W. C. Adcock, treasurer, and H. C. Blackman, trustee.

Among 23 persons voted to membership was Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police. Following Representative Kvale's talk, the members voted him an honorary member.

Columbia Heights Citizens Brand Tax Rise as Unfair

While 27,000 parcels of District real estate are being auctioned off for taxes any attempt to increase the tax rate appears to be an imposition, members of the Columbia Heights Citizens Association decided in a resolution adopted at a meeting last night at the New Amsterdam Hotel.

The resolution, introduced by W. I. Swanton, recommended a more equitable distribution of the burden of expense between the Federal and District governments and strongly opposed any attempts to increase taxes or levies on Washington citizens during the "present period of readjustment."

A resolution calling for Congress to "take a moratorium" on the sale of District real estate up to $25,000 in value for taxes, "until business picks up," was introduced by Mrs. Margaret H. Warrell. After a long debate the resolution was referred to the association's committee on taxation for further study.

Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations and associate director of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, was to have spoken to the association, but it was explained that he had "lost his voice."

Edwin S. Hege replaced him in explaining the work of the Bicentennial Commission, and at the conclusion of this talk he gave an impromptu talk denouncing the Mapes bill.

REALTY TAX HOLIDAY IN CAPITAL OPPOSED BY COMMISSIONERS

FEWER '31 DELINQUENTS ARE CITED IN SUMMARY

Appropriations for Outlay Based on Sales' Revenue, Mrs. Norton Told.

There will be no realty tax moratorium in Washington if the District Commissioners have anything to do with it. They so informed Mrs. Mary T. Norton, chairman of the House District committee, late yesterday in a report on the House joint resolution "to provide for a one-year extension of time before the sale of real property in the District of Columbia on account of arrears in taxes for the year 1931."

The Commissioners revealed that there is actually less delinquent taxes due for last year than for the years 1926, 1927, and 1928. Only 250 of the 18,000 pieces of property advertised for sale in December involve delinquent taxes of more than $500.

Fail to See Justification

Referring to the resolution which would postpone the sale of real estate for taxes from January 12, this year, until January 12, 1933, the Commissioners explain they "fail to see any justification for such a postponement."

Continuing, the Commissioners state, "the condition existing at the end of the fiscal year 1931 with respect to unpaid taxes is merely a normal one. In December, 1931, 18,000 pieces of property were advertised for sale, as against 17,910 in the year 1930; 17,501 in the year 1929; 19,000 in the year 1928; 20,200 in the year 1927, and 22,120 in the year 1928."

As a final thrust, the Commissioners warn Congress that more money will be asked for if the moratorium is declared as the 1932 budget contemplates the receipt of $500,000 from the sales of these properties.

Appropraitions Basis.

"The appropraitions for District expenditures for the fiscal year 1932 were made on the basis that money would be derived from delinquent tax sales for appropriation purposes," the Commissioners said. "All of the surplus revenues of the District will have been exhausted at the close of the fiscal year 1932, and in addition to this the $3,000,000 cash operating fund will be impaired by about $1,200,000. It will, therefore, be seen that unless the District is able to obtain the payment of these delinquent taxes through the sales of the property involved, which are scheduled to be held January 12, 1932, it may become necessary to ask Congress to provide funds to make good the amount of money involved.

"The District needs every dollar that can be obtained in revenue to meet its obligations. Postponing the payment of delinquent taxes for one year will make it more difficult to pay delinquent taxes and current taxes in the next year."

3 Persons Rescued As Fire Threatens

Woman and Two Children Taken to Safety by Kin in Southwest Blaze.

A woman, almost blind and deaf, and two small children, were rescued by members of their families early yesterday morning when fire threatened two homes in the 1100 block of Sixth street southwest.

Mrs. Catherine Ward, 82 years old, was carried out of the house at 1112 Sixth street by a fireman after her daughter, Mrs. Annie Vanetta, with whom she lives, had awakened when she heard her mother coughing in the smoke-filled room. Mrs. Vanetta hastily dressed her mother and led her downstairs.

Richard Maley, who lives at 1114 Sixth street, awoke at almost the same time and found his bedroom filled with smoke and flames bursting through one wall. He sprang up and seized his two children, Margaret, 3 years old, and Marie, 18 months old, and hurried them to safety.

Passenger Slugs Driver and Flees.

Wilbur E. Fookes, a taxi driver, of 1419 Harvard street northwest, was slugged over the head with an iron pipe last night by a passenger who fled without attempting to rob him. He was treated for cuts by a private physician. He told police he was attacked in front of 645 G street southeast.

SECOND PRECINCT POLICING BY AUTO MAY BE ABOLISHED

Gen. Glassford Considering Motorization of More Outlying Districts.

BELIEVES THAT SHAKE-UP WOULD HELP GREATLY

May Add 16 Patrolmen if Plan Is Accomplished; Study Is Made.

Abandonment of the system of policing the Second Precinct by policemen in automobiles is being seriously considered by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police.

Motorization of more outlying precincts and the addition of sixteen men to the Second Precinct roster also is under contemplation by the Police Department head.

He believes the Second Precinct one of the most important in the city. Covering a congested area of Washington, Gen. Glassford is of the opinion that it can be better policed by men working on foot.

In Outlying Sections.

In the outlying sections, where "beats" cover greater territory, the police chief believes that the plan of motorization will work with considerably greater efficacy. The Second Precinct was motorized during the administration of Maj. Henry G. Pratt and is said to have been done at the suggestion of Commissioner Crosby.

Gen. Glassford said yesterday he is not completely satisfied with the work of some of the men attached to the Second Precinct and believes a shake-up will accomplish greater results.

Transfers Held Likely.

He believes that a study being made of the capabilities of the various men of the entire personnel of the department may result in the transfer of a number of policemen, particularly to and from the Second Precinct.

The present commander of the Second Precinct, Capt. Harry Groves, is aiding in the study of the precinct and will remain in command, it was stated.

Mistake Calls Out Engines; 2 Thieves Flee

The trail of two suspected fur thieves was growing heated yesterday afternoon, so hot it brought out the Fire Department.

Park Policeman C. H. Baskins had found two men he strongly believed were the guilty parties and was trailing them down Fourteenth street. As he neared Thomas Circle he decided he better have help, so he stopped Eugene Kaperhaver, of Takoma Park, Md., and handed him his patrol box keys.

"Quick," he said, "call plain clothesmen from the Second Precinct."

Kaperhaver hastened to obey the mandate of the law. But he got the wrong box. Soon the street was filled with screaming five engines. The suspected thieves are still at large.

Three Persons Are Cut As Automobiles Crash

Three persons, inluding two small children, were badly cut last night in a collision between two automobiles at the north end of Key Bridge. The injured persons are J. H. Quade, 35 years old, and his children, Frances, 8, and James, 5, all of Hughesville, Md. They were taken to Georgetown Hospital for treatment and later sent home.

The accident happened, according to police, when an automobile operated by George Thomas, colored, 30 years old, of Maryville, Va., struck the Quade car as it was leaving the bridge. Thomas was booked at the Seventh Precinct on a charge of failure to give right of way.

Civitans Hear T. G. Risley.

Theodore G. Risley, solicitor of the Labor Department, spoke on "Publicity" at the Civitan luncheon in Lafayette Hotel yesterday. Dr. Maurice L. Townsend presided. The invocation was made by the new chaplain, the Rev. Mark Depp, of the Calvary Methodist Church.

MAPES BILL ATTACK IS MADE BY CITIZENS

North Cleveland Park Group Opposes Any Further Increase in Taxes.

Further criticizing the Mapes report and the Mapes bill, the North Cleveland Park Citizens Association last night adopted a resolution saying, in part, that "the citizens of Washington already bear more than their just share of taxes," and, "this association is opposed to any further increase in taxes for the District of Columbia."

"The citizens of Washington do not demand nor wish for any benefits or assistance at the expense of the citizens of the United States, and are, in fact, desirous of paying a proper tax for the maintenance of a city equal to their needs," the resolution went on.

The association in its resolution further said it recognized that Washington, as the Capital of the country, had certain unusual expenses which "the Congress heretofore has recognized its obligation and the obligation of the whole country in sharing."

In addition the association said, "that Congress be requested to grant the prayer of Washington citizens asking for representation not only in matters of taxation, but in the choice of the President of the United States as well as other high officers thereof."

The Electric League cup for the best electrical Christmas decorations was presented to the association by an officer of the league. The cup heretofore was won four times by the Wesley Heights Association.

Special entertainment at last night's meeting included a talk on the Community Chest by Thomas Lodge, delegate to the Federation of Citizens Association from American University Park. Edith Hutcher, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hutcher, of 3811 Veazey street northwest, presented two songs and dances. Ann May Thour, 11, gave two readings.

Paul E. Waring, vice president of the association, presided in the absence of John B. Dickman, president. The Cleveland Park Association extends from Rodman street to Albemarle street, and from Connecticut avenue to Wisconsin avenue.

Owners of Trucks Oppose Mapes Bill

Plan Steps to Fight Taxes in Proposed Bill as Burdensome.

Steps were taken to prepare a presentation of the Commercial Motor Vehicles Owners Association's opposition to the Mapes bill to the Senate District committee at a meeting of the board of governors of that association yesterday afternoon in the U. S. Chamber of Commerce Building.

The association went on record as opposing any legislation that would impose a greater burden on truck operation in the District.

The board elected Jerome Fanciulli executive secretary of the association.

Red Cross Roll Call Office Moved.

The headquarters of the roll call department of the District of Columbia Chapter of the American Red Cross, at 1342 G street northwest, was closed yesterday. The department moved back to the chapter house at 1730 E street northwest, and all returns not yet in should be sent there. Roll call officials may be reached by calling National 5400, Branch 247.

BARRY AGAIN LOSES FIGHT FOR RELEASE

Man Held Insane in Killing of Street Car Conductor, to Stay in Hospital.

For the third time, Paul Duvernal Barry, self-confessed killer, was refused his release from Howard Hall, the ward for the criminally insane of St. Elizabeths Hospital, yesterday when Justice Oscar R. Luhring, in the District Supreme Court, dismissed a habeas corpus petition brought by Barry several months ago.

Barry, son of a wealthy laundry owner of this city, killed a street car conductor at Michigan avenue and North Capitol street nine years ago, and in a trial following his surrender to the Nuns of the Trinity College, in Brookland, he was found not guilty because of insanity.

Since that time Barry has sought his release on the grounds that he has recovered his sanity. Physicians of the hospital, headed by Dr. John E. Lind, executive head of Howard Hall, have as steadily opposed his release on the grounds that he has not recovered his sanity.

In October, Justice Luhring held hearings that extended over four days on a petition by Barry for his release. In that proceeding Dr. Joseph Gilbert, head of the psychiatric department of Gallinger; Dr. Lind and other noted alienists testified about Barry's mental condition. Experts were about equall divided and Justice Luhring considered the case for months before returning his verdict.

In the event that Barry were freed he would not have to face a murder charge, as he was found not guilty because of insanity.

"Back-to-school day" was observed yesterday by the Wheatley School Parent-Teacher Association, with more than 200 parents attending classes with their children.

The parents were conducted to the various classrooms, where they took part in recitations and studies. Following the day's "lessons," members of the association gathered in the school auditorium for the monthly business meeting.

The association went on record as opposing the public sale of firearms and indorsed a bill now in Congress prohibiting their sale to the general public.

Dr. Havenner to Talk On '32 Fete Tomorrow

The District of Columbia George Washington Bicentennial will be the subject of an after-dinner talk at the Arts Club tomorrow evening, when Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, and executive vice chairman of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, will be the speaker.

Dr. Havenner will present an outline of the various events of the coming celebration. This program is being given under the auspices of the civic committee of the Arts Club, of which John H. Coxhead is chairman.

DELAY IN ENFORCING TAXI METERS ORDER IN DISTRICT IS SEEN

System Start Sunday Held Unlikely as Hearing Opens Friday.

PRESENT PLAN UPHELD BY COURT WITNESSES

Proposed Change Expense and Probable Drop in Earnings Cited.

Delay in enforcing the Public Utilities Commission's order that meters be installed in taxicabs in Washington by Sunday was seen yesterday when Justice Jesse C. Adkins set Friday as the day for a hearing on the arguments in the case. It is likely that a decision will not be reached before the first of next week.

William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, will defend the commission's order and the opposition will be represented by Richmond B. Keech, people's council. The opposition side will also be strengthened by representatives from the Federation of Citizens' Associations, Federation of Business Men's Associations and attorneys for the City and Bell Cab Companies.

At a hearing yesterday before Justice Adkins in District Supreme Court, two cab drivers, Jack Goldberg and William H. Osborn, both of the City Cab Co., declared they favored the zone rate system and that they could make a better living under that system.

Favored by Passengers.

They declared that other drivers they had talked to and even passengers are also in favor of the zone rate.

The hearing yesterday was considered a friendly test suit, and the City and Bell Cab Companies were defended by Mr. Keech.

Osborn testified at the hearing yesterday that the average daily earnings were $4 or $5. He declared that installation of meters would cause a large reduction in the income of cab drivers.

Goldberg declared he averaged $35 to $38 a week and he explained that he paid the company $4 a day for the use of the cab and that he bought his own gas and oils and paid for all repairs on the cab, and kept the remainder of the receipts.

Cites Cost of System.

The drivers of the City Cab Corporation are practically unanimous in favor of the zone rate system, declared Edward Ostrow, secretary and treasurer of that company. Many married men are driving for his company and are making sufficient money to support their families, Mr. Ostrow said.

He testified that it costs around 6 cents a mile to operate the cabs his company provides, exclusive of the driver's pay, and that his concern purchased a number of meters for use in Baltimore and that they cost $74 each.

A meter was dismantled in the court yesterday by Ostrow at the request of his attorney, Albert Jacobson, and pointing to several thousand parts, he explained to Justice Adkins that they were so complicated that it was unusually expensive to change the rate and indicated that occasional changes were anticipated should the meters be installed.

Representative Snow Talks to Deaf Tonight

The Washington Division No. 46, National Fraternal Society of the Deaf, will install new officers at a meeting at Masonic Temple, 523 Eighth street northeast, tonight at 8 o'clock.

An address will be given by Representative Donald F. Snow of Maine. His speech will be interpreted by Dr. Percival Hall, president of Gallaudet College.

Society Officers Named by Women

The annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of Washington was held yesterday at the Cosmos Club and St. John's Church. A morning celebration of Holy Communion was observed at 10 o'clock with Bishop Freeman as celebrant and preacher. The bishop emphasized the need of cooperation and relief work during the time of depression.

During the afternoon session the reports of officers were read for the past year. Mrs. William T. Partridge, of 4518 Lowell street, was elected president. Other officers elected included Mrs. Walter Gilbert, 3405 Ashley terrace, vice president for the District; Mrs. Calvert E. Buck, recording secretary, and Mrs. S. L. Metcalf, of Mechanicsville, Md., vice president for St. Mary's County.

Conduit Road Work Opposed by Hurley

Secretary Tells Congress $839,724 Costs Are Not Justified.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley yesterday reported unfavorably to Congress on proposed widening and improvement of Conduit road between the District line and Great Falls.

Following a survey authorized in the War Department act of 1929, Secretary Hurley told Congress the proposed $839,724 expenditure "is not justified and is not recommended."

Interested persons sought to increase the width of paved surface, elimination of a number of sharp curves, and construction of a new bridge over Cabin John Creek. To the District Commissioners, Mr. Hurley suggested postponement of improvements to Conduit road between Glen Echo and Maryland pending development of plans for the George Washington Memorial Parkway.

Technicality Stays Police As Reporter Rescues Boy

An accident on "no man's land"—that stretch of highway known as Military road just south of Highway Bridge—aroused again the controversy over its police jurisdiction when officers from both the Metropolitan and park police failed to arrive to aid a severely injured boy.

Shortly after 9 o'clock police headquarters was notified of an accident. When a reporter from The Post reached the scene he found a badly injured colored boy lying near a wrecked automobile, but saw no officers.

The boy was taken to a hospital by the reporter, who returned to find ons of the principals in the crash gone, and no police present yet. He called the park police and they started an investigation.

The victim, Garrett Lyons, of South Washington, was being taken to the hospital in an auto by his uncle, Louis Jackson, it was learned. As Jackson's car neared Hoover Field an unlighted car entered the highway from a side road. The two collided.

When police finally reached the wreck the car which struck Jackson's had been driven away. Park police say they patrol the road when occasion arises, but that the Metropolitan police did not tell them of the trouble in this case.
